JFK Again Hit By GOP On Tax Cut

Curtis Accuses President With Untried Means

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy was accused by a Republican spokesman Saturday of seeking to lead the nation down new and untried fiscal paths with his proposed tax cut.

Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., replying to Kennedy's appeal to the nation for support of the administration's $11-billion tax cut bill, said Kennedy is actually seeking support for the theory of planned deficits—or spending the nation into prosperity.

SECOND SPOKESMAN

Curtis, senior Republican House member on the Joint Economic Committee and a member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, was the second GOP spokesman to reply to Kennedy's Wednesday night radio-television address.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., attacked the idea of a tax cut without reduced spending on three networks Friday night, with Curtis speaking on NBC radio and television Saturday night. The networks, all of which carried Kennedy's speech, made equal time available to the Republican National Committee.

Curtis joined Byrnes in insisting that Congress must write in a spending limit as an amendment to the tax cut bill if it is to win Republican support in House voting next week. Even then it won't get his vote, Curtis added, saying that $98-billion limit imposed for fiscal 1964 by Byrnes' amendment is still $4 billion too high.

But Curtis laid greater stress on what he perceived to be the underlying theory behind the administration's plan to cut taxes while running a budget deficit.

"The President's actions, if not his words, demonstrate beyond doubt that he is advancing a new and untried fiscal theory for the United States, the theory of deficit financing, the theory of planned deficits," Curtis said.

He said the President has evaded discussing this issue.

"I think the most difficult thing for the people of this country to understand, myself included, is why the President doesn't forthrightly argue for his new theory of deficit planning if he really believes it is for the benefit of our country," Curtis said.

Man Is Saved After Fall Off Traffic Bridge

An elderly West Monroe man was saved from drowning Saturday afternoon after he fell from the old traffic bridge.

West Monroe police said that Jack Powell, 107 Thompson St. was dragged from the river after his fall by another West Monroe man nearby in a boat. O. M. Barlow, of 3009 Oliver Rd., West Monroe told police he heard Powell when his body struck the water and rushed to his aid.

The near-tragedy occurred as Powell walked across the old traffic bridge around 2 p.m. Saturday. He told police officers that he blacked out and the next thing he knew, he was being pulled from the river.

He was taken to a local hospital for examination, where officials said he apparently sustained only minor bruises from his plunge. However, police said he was being held for further examination.

The American Legion rescue unit from the Monroe Fire department was called to the scene, but before they arrived Barlow had pulled Powell to safety.

Police Locate Boys' Mother

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—Police said Saturday they had located the mother of two young brothers who had turned up in Omaha, Neb., hoping to gain a home at famous Boys Town, Neb.

They said Betty C. Hackworth, 32, had heard about the plight of her boys and turned up at the police station in North Bend, Ore. North Bend police telephoned the station at Salem and had Mrs. Hackworth talk to Detective Elwood Hewitt.

Hewitt said Mrs. Hackworth told him she reluctantly had put sons Donald Ray Presnell, 12, and Ronald, 10, on a bus at Salem for Omaha. They arrived there Thursday night with 90 cents and a letter from her to Boys Town, asking authorities there to take them in.

Sukarno Severs Malaysia Ties

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno's government severed trade ties with British-backed Malaysia Saturday although this will close traditional outlets for such Indonesian exports as rubber, tin and copra.

A diplomatic dialogue persisted between London and Jakarta concerning $450 million in British properties in this island nation even as the new blow at Malaysia was announced by Deputy First Minister Johannes Leimena.

NATIONALIZATION

Sukarno denounces the infant anti-Communist federation — a commonwealth nation formed by Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and Saban (North Borneo)—as a menace to Indonesia and a perpetuation of British colonialism in Southeast Asia.

Leimena said Sukarno has decreed that the national economy should be a major weapon in Indonesia's anti-Malaysia campaign, extending the policy of hostile confrontation to business affairs.

The foreign business community here, particularly British firms with connections in Malaysia, viewed the developments with apprehension.

Though Sukarno has disclaimed nationalization plans, Jakarta was flooded with reports of the seizure of British properties across Java, including 33 rubber, tea and quinine plantations. The official Antara news agency said regional authorities assumed supervision of the properties after they were taken over by leftist union workers.

Plainly dissatisfied with previous assurances, the British Foreign Office in London summoned Indonesian Ambassador Burhanuddin Mohamad Diah and handed him a note officially described as "containing a number of questions about his government's measures relating to British firms in Indonesia."

Principally affected by the trade break was the flow of goods and money between Indonesia and the two wealthiest partners in Malaysia—Singapore and Malaya.

FRIENDS HELP OUT

Painter Of Birds Receives Backing

MILWAUKEE (AP) — When America's first great ornithologist, Alexander Wilson, proposed that a number of persons subscribe $120 each for a book he proposed to do on the birds of the continent, the governor of New York responded that he would not give $120 for the birds themselves, to say nothing of a book.

For Owen Gromme 170-odd years later, it was different. Scores of friends who believed him to be the greatest living painter of birds subscribed $20,000—$100 a copy for 200 copies—for a book they hoped he would take time to do.

That was 20 years ago, and this week the sponsors gathered for their reward, a monumental volume of 105 color plates showing 328 species published by the University of Wisconsin Press.

From Wilson to Gromme, white-haired curator of birds and mammals at the Milwaukee Public Museum, is a far stretch of years, but counting the painters of birds who rank with them, they are only a scant half-dozen men apart. Among the truly great visual viographers of birds, there are Wilson, the scientist who painfully taught himself to draw; John James Audubon, who gave himself to the wilderness and with his artist's eye painted exactly what he saw; Louis Agassiz Fuertes, almost a century later, a few others; and now Gromme.

At 67, he is as devoted a scientist as Wilson, and a better painter than Audubon, and with the astonishing fidelity of modern color reproduction, his book work can be ranked immediately with the Fuertes plates that reside in the New York State Museum at Albany and which are most familiar from "Birds of America," originally published in 1917.

SCHOOL RELIGION LAW

Nativity Scene Not Violation

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A nativity scene on a public school lawn does not violate the U.S. Constitution, a state judge has ruled, because it's a "passive accommodation of religion" and no one is forced to look.

Such a display of the manger scene is not "active involvement by the government in religious exercises" such as the required recitation of the Lord's prayer or classroom Bible reading which the U. S. Supreme Court declared unconstitutional, the judge added.

New York Supreme Court Justice Hugh S. Coyle acted in a suit brought by 16 private residents of Hartsdale, a suburb of New York City.

MANGER PROTEST

They protested the manger scene erected on the lawn of the Central Avenue Elementary School in Hartsdale last Christmas season—during school vacation—and used it as a basis for an action to remove any and all religious symbols from schools.

The plaintiffs contended such displays violate the First Amendment guarantee of separation of church and state, as well as the state constitution and New York education law.

In addition to the manger scene they named symbols such as the crucifix, the Jewish Star of David, Islamic minaret, representation of Buddha and emblem of Mohammed.

Coyle declared that to grant the suit would "be tantamount to sanctioning judicially a policy of nonrecognition of God in the public schools."

It also would be a "denial that religion has played any part in the formation of the moral standards of the community," he added.

Rusk Heads Into 12 Days Of Diplomacy

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk is heading into 12 days of intense diplomatic activity in deep uncertainty over what can be harvested from the present pause in the cold war.

Starting with a dinner Saturday night for Laos' neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma, Rusk expects to meet with 60 or more government chiefs and foreign ministers here and in Washington in the course of the current U.N. General Assembly session. He plans to return to the capital in time to greet visiting Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie Oct. 3.

GROMYKO TALKS

Rusk's most important talks here will be with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, beginning late next week. Britain's foreign secretary, Lord Home, will be sitting in on the sessions designed to find out: "After the limited test ban treaty—what?"

Arriving by plane from Washington in late afternoon, Rusk said he was looking forward to 10 to 12 useful days in New York and expected to meet a lot of friends.

Associates said later he already had a tentative schedule to see at least a dozen foreign ministers Monday and Tuesday.

The first will be Fernando Maria Castiella y Maiz of Sapin Monday morning. Among those on Tuesday's schedule are Foreign Minister Subandrio of Indonesia, which has displeased the United States with its stand against Malaysia, and Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan, which has grown increasingly close to Communist China.

U.S. sources said the Soviets have yet to reveal what they really want to do toward solving East-West problems, beyond their public statements since the test ban signing Aug. 5.

Gromyko's speech to the General Assembly Thursday was rated as moderate—he saw a "good wind" favoring peace initiatives — but as presenting nothing new.

U.S. uncertainty over whether the good wind will be followed by good deeds stems from an assessment that the deepening quarrel between the Soviet Union and Red China has wide bearing on East-West relations, and that the outcome of that dispute is yet to be decided.

U.S. authorities expressed the view that the Kremlin has not yet made up its mind whether, in its sharpening rift with militantly anti-West Peking, it will seek greater accommodation with the West or will harden its line too.

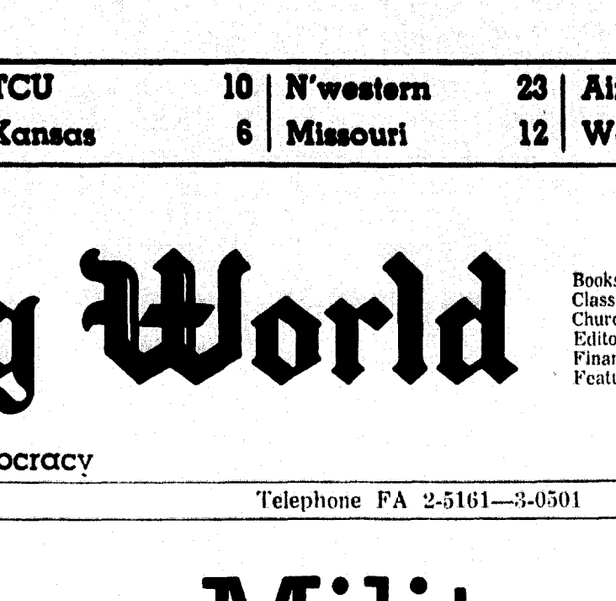

Rusk was described therefore as expecting no major agreements from this round with Gromyko, but rather a probing to see what possibilities are worth pursuing. Some of the outstanding proposals would require much further negotiation too because they involve complexities, agreement among the Western allies and possible U.S. policy changes.

Eight Bandits Rob Newspaper

LONDON (AP)—Eight masked men walked into the offices of The London Sunday Times Saturday night while the paper was going to press, broke into a safe in the accounts department, and escaped with 7,000 pounds—$19,600—in cash.

Two cashiers and the security guard on duty were threatened with hammers and clubs.

RATIFICATION IMMINENT

Treaty Backers Try For Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assured of more than enough votes to ratify the limited nuclear test ban treaty, Senate leaders set out Saturday night to kill off any entangling reservations to the document.

A half dozen proposals have been offered and these will be voted on Monday, with the final roll call on ratification set for Tuesday.

An unofficial tally shows 82 senators either announced in support of the treaty or inclined to vote for ratification, but some of these may back reservations which the administration says would have a crippling effect. Fifteen senators oppose ratification and three still are uncommitted.

Ratification requires a two-thirds majority of those voting, while the reservations can be adopted or rejected by simple majority.

FEARS MISGIVINGS

Proponents of the treaty conceded that many of its supporters, in speeches during the past two weeks of general debate, had tempered their endorsement with fears and misgivings.

While the reservations may command more support than there are opponents of ratification, both Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois have expressed confidence of enough votes to turn them back.

The big question: By how big a margin?

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., an outspoken supporter, said that Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a possible GOP 1964 presidential aspirant, might muster as many as 30 votes for his Cuban reservation.

Goldwater, who has said he will oppose the treaty even if it should mean "political suicide," wants to hold off its effectiveness until after the United Nations can assure the Senate that the Soviet Union has removed its military bases from Cuba.

Sen. Talmadge Joins Foes Of Test Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, previously regarded as a supporter of the nuclear test ban treaty, announced Saturday night that he will vote against it because "the military gamble is too great."

The Georgia Democrat's announcement brought to 16 the number of senators announced against the treaty. There are 81 supporters committed to or inclined to vote for the treaty and three undecided.

There were indications that there will be 82 or 83 votes in favor of the treaty when the showdown vote comes Tuesday. A two-thirds majority of those voting is required for ratification.

Talmadge, in a short statement, said that he had been inclined to support the treaty when it was first presented to the Senate "as one small step to a thaw in the nuclear arms race and the cold war."

New Hurricane Born Saturday Off San Juan

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Debra was born Saturday far out in the Atlantic Ocean. Top winds were clocked at 75 miles an hour, barely high enough to qualify as a hurricane.

Debra was located near latitude 23.3 north, longitude 49.2 west or about 1,150 miles east northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico. It was heading north-northwest at 14 miles an hour.

The hurricane was born in an area of unsettled weather under observation for the past few days by the Tiros weather satellite, ships and planes.

Hurricane hunter airplanes from Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico, were sent to check the area yesterday, and today found the full blown hurricane. Another area under close watch is a low pressure system in the eastern Gulf.

Gale force winds extended outward 125 miles in Debra's northeastern semicircle and 65 miles to the southwest.

Forecast Says Little Change

Today's weather across the Monroe area will be similiar to Saturday's with little change in temperature and generally clear to partly cloudy skies.

WARM

The local weatherman predicts highs today near 90, about the same as for the past few days. Lows tonight should dip into the low 60s.

Clouds will be shifted by winds forecast to become north to northeasterly today blowing in the vicinity of 8 to 15 m.p.h. No rain is expected to fall.

Monday's outlook should be about the same says the weatherman, with no appreciable changes in temperature or forecast of rain.

BUSIEST WEEK YET

Voter Registrar's Office Is Swamped

The past week has been the busiest by far as this registration season progresses, according to Ouachita Parish Registrar of Voters Mrs. Mae Lucky.

"We have been simply swamped," said Mrs. Lucky, who expects the situation to grow worse rather than better as the November 6 registration deadline approaches.

At times persons wishing to register have been forced to form long lines down the hall of the courthouse outside the registrar's office and receive numbers to mark their turns inside.

Mrs. Helen Seal, the other half of the office team, estimated that about 60 applicants had been processed on one particular day, but "we have been so rushed we haven't had time to count up our registrations," she added.

Most of those seeking registration now have the proper credentials, Mrs. Lucky said, although some of them are "still confused" about the proof of six-month parish residence.

To show that a prospective voter has lived in Ouachita Parish for the proper length of time, three documents at least six months old are necessary. Some of the valid papers are driver's licenses, bank statements, W-2 forms, polio registration cards and 1962 property tax receipts.

Mrs. Lucky cautioned that fraternal membership cards and courtesy cards are not acceptable

The registrar also expressed appreciation to the local chapter of the League of Women Voters, who have launched a campaign urging all the qualified residents of Ouachita Parish to register and vote.

McNamara, Gen. Taylor Get Mission

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Kennedy ordered his two top military advisors Saturday to go to Saigon this week to review the military situation in strife-torn Viet Nam.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, leave Monday to spend a week on a first-hand study of the military effort against the Communist Viet Cong.

The announcement of the mission came as American military men in Viet Nam reported the Communists stepping up their offensive, with more than 700 Vietnamese casualties in the last week alone—possibly higher than the Communist losses for the first time in their long struggle.

The increased activity of the Viet Cong guerrillas was regarded as an attempt to capitalize on disturbances which followed the government crackdown on Buddhists.

500 INCIDENTS

There were about 500 incidents during the week, attacks on hamlets and outposts, sabotage and terrorizing, initiated by the Communists.

McNamara and Taylor's report major bearing on the future of the $1 million a day U.S. aid to the government of Ngo Dinh Diem.

The President in recent weeks has said several times that the Diem government has lost touch with the people. But at the same time he also has said it would not be wise to cut off U.S. aid to South Viet Nam.

"The President and Ambassador Lodge believe that in the present situation it will be helpful to have a review by Secretary McNamara and Gen. Taylor of the military effort against the Viet Cong," the White House statement said.

Both McNamara and Taylor visited Viet Nam last year, McNamara in May and Taylor in September.

McNamara and Taylor will be accompanied by Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, and William Bundy deputy assistant secretary for international security. Col. Sidney Berry and Marine Col. George W. Carrington also will go with them.

About 15,000 Americans are in South Viet Nam, most of them connected with the American diplomatic or military missions.

The fight against the Communist guerrilla Viet Cong has been complicated by rioting in Saigon and other cities in a bitter dispute between Buddhist factions charging persecution by the Roman Catholic Ngo Dinh Diem family which dominates the government.

American military men in Saigon view the increased activity by the Viet Cong guerrillas as a possible attempt to capitalize on the turmoil in South Vietnamese cities following the government crackdown on Buddhists.

South Vietnamese casualties last week amount to more than 700 and were higher than Communist losses for possibly the first time in the history of the struggle, the military spokesman said.

JFK Again Hit By GOP On Tax Cut

Curtis Accuses President With Untried Means

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy was accused by a Republican spokesman Saturday of seeking to lead the nation down new and untried fiscal paths with his proposed tax cut.

Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., replying to Kennedy's appeal to the nation for support of the administration's $11-billion tax cut bill, said Kennedy is actually seeking support for the theory of planned deficits—or spending the nation into prosperity.

SECOND SPOKESMAN

Nativity Scene Not Violation

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A nativity scene on a public school lawn does not violate the U.S. Constitution, a state judge has ruled, because it's a "passive accommodation of religion" and no one is forced to look.

Such a display of the manger scene is not "active involvement by the government in religious exercises" such as the required recitation of the Lord's prayer or classroom Bible reading which the U. S. Supreme Court declared unconstitutional, the judge added.

New York Supreme Court Justice Hugh S. Coyle acted in a suit brought by 16 private residents of Hartsdale, a suburb of New York City.

MANGER PROTEST

They protested the manger scene erected on the lawn of the Central Avenue Elementary School in Hartsdale last Christmas season—during school vacation—and used it as a basis for an action to remove any and all religious symbols from schools.

The plaintiffs contended such displays violate the First Amendment guarantee of separation of church and state, as well as the state constitution and New York education law.

In addition to the manger scene they named symbols such as the crucifix, the Jewish Star of David, Islamic minaret, representation of Buddha and emblem of Mohammed.

Coyle declared that to grant the suit would "be tantamount to sanctioning judicially a policy of nonrecognition of God in the public schools."

It also would be a "denial that religion has played any part in the formation of the moral standards of the community," he added.

Rusk Heads Into 12 Days Of Diplomacy

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk is heading into 12 days of intense diplomatic activity in deep uncertainty over what can be harvested from the present pause in the cold war.

Starting with a dinner Saturday night for Laos' neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma, Rusk expects to meet with 60 or more government chiefs and foreign ministers here and in Washington in the course of the current U.N. General Assembly session. He plans to return to the capital in time to greet visiting Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie Oct. 3.

GROMYKO TALKS

Rusk's most important talks here will be with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, beginning late next week. Britain's foreign secretary, Lord Home, will be sitting in on the sessions designed to find out: "After the limited test ban treaty—what?"

Arriving by plane from Washington in late afternoon, Rusk said he was looking forward to 10 to 12 useful days in New York and expected to meet a lot of friends.

Associates said later he already had a tentative schedule to see at least a dozen foreign ministers Monday and Tuesday.

The first will be Fernando Maria Castiella y Maiz of Sapin Monday morning. Among those on Tuesday's schedule are Foreign Minister Subandrio of Indonesia, which has displeased the United States with its stand against Malaysia, and Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan, which has grown increasingly close to Communist China.

U.S. sources said the Soviets have yet to reveal what they really want to do toward solving East-West problems, beyond their public statements since the test ban signing Aug. 5.

Gromyko's speech to the General Assembly Thursday was rated as moderate—he saw a "good wind" favoring peace initiatives — but as presenting nothing new.

U.S. uncertainty over whether the good wind will be followed by good deeds stems from an assessment that the deepening quarrel between the Soviet Union and Red China has wide bearing on East-West relations, and that the outcome of that dispute is yet to be decided.

U.S. authorities expressed the view that the Kremlin has not yet made up its mind whether, in its sharpening rift with militantly anti-West Peking, it will seek greater accommodation with the West or will harden its line too.

Rusk was described therefore as expecting no major agreements from this round with Gromyko, but rather a probing to see what possibilities are worth pursuing. Some of the outstanding proposals would require much further negotiation too because they involve complexities, agreement among the Western allies and possible U.S. policy changes.

Eight Bandits Rob Newspaper

LONDON (AP)—Eight masked men walked into the offices of The London Sunday Times Saturday night while the paper was going to press, broke into a safe in the accounts department, and escaped with 7,000 pounds—$19,600—in cash.

Two cashiers and the security guard on duty were threatened with hammers and clubs.

New Hurricane Born Saturday Off San Juan

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Debra was born Saturday far out in the Atlantic Ocean. Top winds were clocked at 75 miles an hour, barely high enough to qualify as a hurricane.

Debra was located near latitude 23.3 north, longitude 49.2 west or about 1,150 miles east northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico. It was heading north-northwest at 14 miles an hour.

The hurricane was born in an area of unsettled weather under observation for the past few days by the Tiros weather satellite, ships and planes.

Hurricane hunter airplanes from Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico, were sent to check the area yesterday, and today found the full blown hurricane. Another area under close watch is a low pressure system in the eastern Gulf.

Gale force winds extended outward 125 miles in Debra's northeastern semicircle and 65 miles to the southwest.

Forecast Says Little Change

Today's weather across the Monroe area will be similiar to Saturday's with little change in temperature and generally clear to partly cloudy skies.

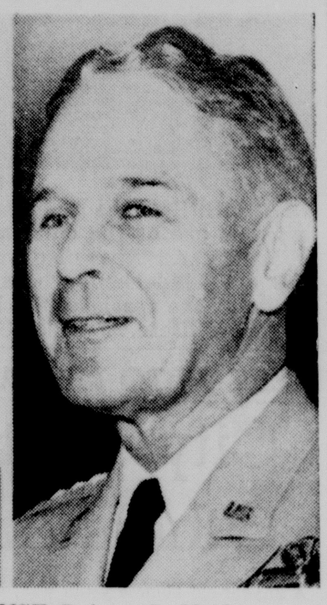

WARM

The local weatherman predicts highs today near 90, about the same as for the past few days. Lows tonight should dip into the low 60s.

Clouds will be shifted by winds forecast to become north to northeasterly today blowing in the vicinity of 8 to 15 m.p.h. No rain is expected to fall.

Monday's outlook should be about the same says the weatherman, with no appreciable changes in temperature or forecast of rain.

RATIFICATION IMMINENT

Treaty Backers Try For Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assured of more than enough votes to ratify the limited nuclear test ban treaty, Senate leaders set out Saturday night to kill off any entangling reservations to the document.

A half dozen proposals have been offered and these will be voted on Monday, with the final roll call on ratification set for Tuesday.

An unofficial tally shows 32 senators either announced in support of the treaty or inclined to vote for ratification, but some of these may back reservations which the administration says would have a crippling effect. Fifteen senators oppose ratification and three still are uncommitted.

Ratification requires a two-thirds majority of those voting, while the reservations can be adopted or rejected by simple majority.

FEARS MISGIVINGS

Proponents of the treaty conceded that many of its supporters, in speeches during the past two weeks of general debate, had tempered their endorsement with fears and misgivings.

While the reservations may command more support than there are opponents of ratification, both Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois have expressed confidence of enough votes to turn them back.

The big question: By how big a margin?

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., an outspoken supporter, said that Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a possible GOP 1964 presidential aspirant, might muster as many as 30 votes for his Cuban reservation.

Goldwater, who has said he will oppose the treaty even if it should mean "political suicide," wants to hold off its effectiveness until after the United Nations can assure the Senate that the Soviet Union has removed its military bases from Cuba.

Sen. Talmadge Joins Foes Of Test Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, previously regarded as a supporter of the nuclear test ban treaty, announced Saturday night that he will vote against it because "the military gamble is too great."

The Georgia Democrat's announcement brought to 16 the number of senators announced against the treaty. There are 81 supporters committed to or inclined to vote for the treaty and three undecided.

There were indications that there will be 82 or 83 votes in favor of the treaty when the showdown vote comes Tuesday. A two-thirds majority of those voting is required for ratification.

Talmadge, in a short statement, said that he had been inclined to support the treaty when it was first presented to the Senate "as one small step to a thaw in the nuclear arms race and the cold war."

BUSIEST WEEK YET

Voter Registrar's Office Is Swamped

The past week has been the busiest by far as this registration season progresses, according to Ouachita Parish Registrar of Voters Mrs. Mae Lucky.

"We have been simply swamped," said Mrs. Lucky, who expects the situation to grow worse rather than better as the November 6 registration deadline approaches.

At times persons wishing to register have been forced to form long lines down the hall of the courthouse outside the registrar's office and receive numbers to mark their turns inside.

Mrs. Helen Seal, the other half of the office team, estimated that about 60 applicants had been processed on one particular day, but "we have been so rushed we haven't had time to count up our registrations," she added.

Most of those seeking registration now have the proper credentials, Mrs. Lucky said, although some of them are "still confused" about the proof of six-month parish residence.

To show that a prospective voter has lived in Ouachita Parish for the proper length of time, three documents at least six months old are necessary. Some of the valid papers are driver's licenses, bank statements, W-2 forms, polio registration cards and 1962 property tax receipts.

Mrs. Lucky cautioned that fraternal membership cards and courtesy cards are not acceptable.

The registrar also expressed appreciation to the local chapter of the League of Women Voters, who have launched a campaign urging all the qualified residents of Ouachita Parish to register and vote.

McNamara, Gen. Taylor Get Mission

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Kennedy ordered his two top military advisors Saturday to go to Saigon this week to review the military situation in strife-torn Viet Nam.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, leave Monday to spend a week on a first-hand study of the military effort against the Communist Viet Cong.

The announcement of the mission came as American military men in Viet Nam reported the Communists stepping up their offensive, with more than 700 Vietnamese casualties in the last week alone—possibly higher than the Communist losses for the first time in their long struggle.

The increased activity of the Viet Cong guerrillas was regarded as an attempt to capitalize on disturbances which followed the government crackdown on Buddhists.

500 INCIDENTS

There were about 500 incidents during the week, attacks on hamlets and outposts, sabotage and terrorizing, initiated by the Communists.

McNamara and Taylor's report major bearing on the future of the $1 million a day U.S. aid to the government of Ngo Dinh Diem.

The President in recent weeks has said several times that the Diem government has lost touch with the people. But at the same time he also has said it would not be wise to cut off U.S. aid to South Viet Nam.

"The President and Ambassador Lodge believe that in the present situation it will be helpful to have a review by Secretary McNamara and Gen. Taylor of the military effort against the Viet Cong," the White House statement said.

Both McNamara and Taylor visited Viet Nam last year, McNamara in May and Taylor in September.

McNamara and Taylor will be accompanied by Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, and William Bundy deputy assistant secretary for international security. Col. Sidney Berry and Marine Col. George W. Carrington also will go with them.

About 15,000 Americans are in South Viet Nam, most of them connected with the American diplomatic or military missions.

The fight against the Communist guerrilla Viet Cong has been complicated by rioting in Saigon and other cities in a bitter dispute between Buddhist factions charging persecution by the Roman Catholic Ngo Dinh Diem family which dominates the government.

American military men in Saigon view the increased activity by the Viet Cong guerrillas as a possible attempt to capitalize on the turmoil in South Vietnamese cities following the government crackdown on Buddhists.

South Vietnamese casualties last week amount to more than 700 and were higher than Communist losses for possibly the first time in the history of the struggle, the military spokesman said.

31 Freshmen Record Top Test Scores

RUSTON (Special) — Thirty-one Louisiana Tech freshmen, the largest number ever to score "A's" in mathematics placement tests here, were announced by Dr. W. B. Temple, head of the mathematics department at Tech.

The top scorers represented 6.4 per cent of the 478 students who took the examination, which also in the largest percentage of perfect grades.

Of the 31 leaders, seven are from Shreveport schools, six from Monroe - West Monroe, three from Alexandria - Pineville and two from Ruston. The others are from 13 other high schools.

The Shreveport freshmen are: Byrd — Robert C. Blue, engineering major; Homer Flynn, engineering; Robert T. Maranto, School of Arts and Sciences; Frederick T. Warner, education; William W. Wilson, School of Arts and Sciences; Woodlawn — Richard J. Garlington, electrical engineering; David V. Magee, engineering.

Monroe - West Monroe:

Neville — Terry F. Hessick, engineering; Ronald H. Killen, School of Arts and Sciences; Richard Mulhern, engineering; Stephen H. Rugg, engineering; William Keith Hunt, major field not listed; West Monroe High School —Linward R. Pylant, civil engineering.

Alexandria - Pineville:

Ruston High School — David L. Deal, physics, and Wesley C. Irby, engineering.

Other top scorers were:

Davis C. Andrews, El Dorado, chemical engineering; Robert L. Baird, Haynesville, pre - medical; Byron W. Butler, Waterproof, engineering; Merrill A. Cornish, Kinder, engineering; Thomas E. Heifner, Plain Dealing, engineering; Dewey J. Northington, Haynesville, School of Arts and Sciences; John C. Pickels, Bartlesville Okla., engineering; Davis S. SKinner, Simsboro, Arts and Science; William Z. Spivey, Delhi, engineering; Herman Storey, Vidalia, electrical engineering; Allen C. Tilton, Elizabeth, Arts and Sciences; Mark T. Torgrimson, Natchitoches, mathematics; and Richard E. Zachary, Sulphur, physics.

These 31 freshmen, if they take the analytics and calculus course, are given automatic credit in college algebra and trigonometry, Dr. Temple said. Because of their ability, they will be given the opportunity to complete their study of calculus by the end of their freshman year.

Louisiana Tech Concert Tickets Demands Brisk

With a demand for tickets exceeding last year when many applicants for membership had to be disappointed, the Louisiana Tech Concert Association office anticipates another sold out season. Reports from solicitors indicate very few non-renewals with over 200 requests for blank cards for new members.

To fill vacancies caused by change of residence, non-renewals and other reasons, LTCA solicitors will process new members September 24 — 30.

The 1963-1964 LTCA series will feature the famous Ballet Folklorico, a company of 75 in a spectacular show from Mexico City; the celebrated Norman Luboff Choir; the popular Clebanoff Strings; the famous Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra; the U. S. Air Force Band and Singing Sergeants for the third time; an appropriate celebration of the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth with two performances by the Canadian Players; Ferrante and Teicher by popular request for the fourth time; the Chad Mitchell Trio; Jean Madeira of the Metropolitan and Vienna State Operas, and the renowned British tenor, Richard Lewis heard on Angel, Columbia, Decca, and Capitol records. Another number will be added later.

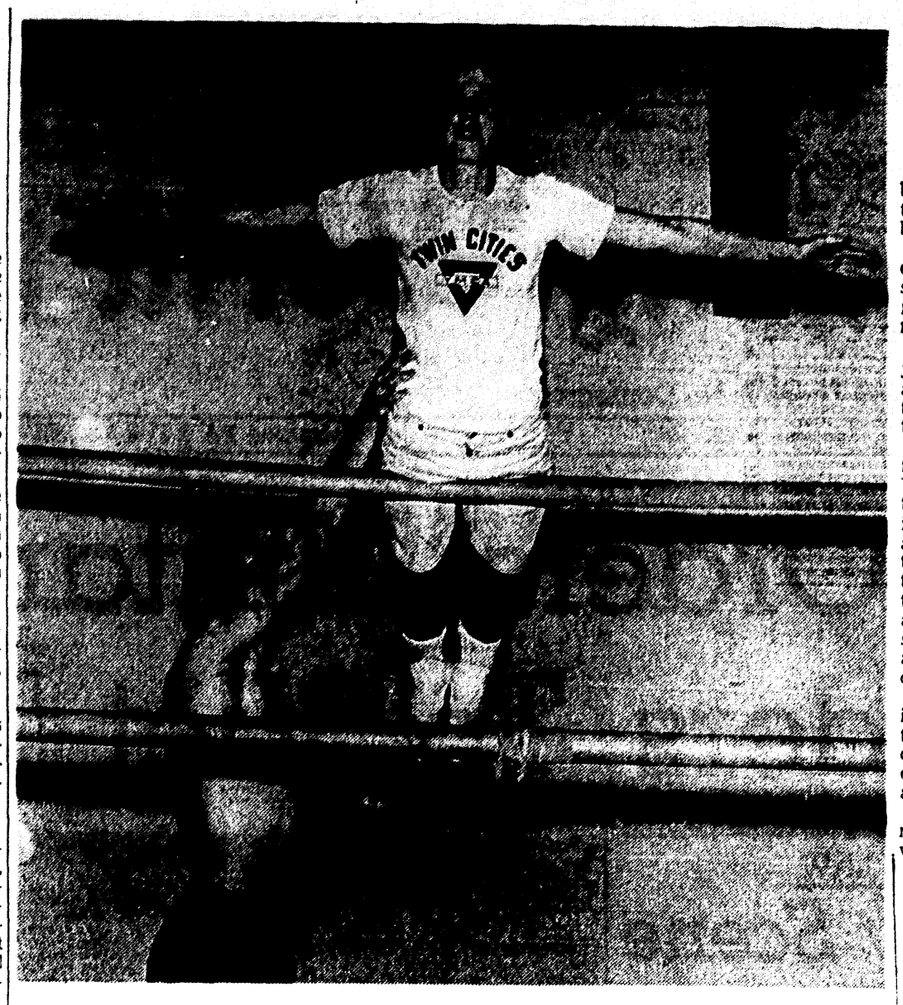

Solicitors in the Monroe - West Monroe area are: Mrs. Judy Caraway, Dew Music Company, Miss Hermione Driskell, Mrs. Lloydelle Herring; Hewitt Music Company, Miss Ann Mickel, Roark Music Company, Mrs. Jack R. Taylor, Miss Mamie McNeill, and Mrs. J. W. Golson, Mr. John Lewis in Sterlington.

School Forms Red Cross Gray Ladies Chapter

Highland Elementary of West Monroe has become one of the first local institutions to form a chapter of the newly - initiated Red Cross School Gray Ladies, announced Mrs. C. L. Gilbert, Ouachita Parish Red Cross Gray Lady Service chairman.

Volunteers will receive a first aid course beginning at 8:30 a.m. Monday at the school, according to Mrs. Carl R. Odem, president of the Highland Parent - Teachers Association, who urged all members to attend. Hoyt Moncrief of the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department, volunteer Red Cross first aid instructor, will conduct the class.

The school Gray Ladies will staff the sick room of the school.

DEVELOPING the body, mind and spirit is one of the chief aims of the Y M C A. All types of physical activities are available for boys, girls and adults at the spacious "Y" building on Glenmar. Here, Janelle Gattis, performs on the uneven parallel bars, with the assistance of Jim Walker. Swimming, basketball, weight lifting are other popular sports of the 2,200 Y M C A members.

'Y' Program Enriches Many Lives

(Editor's Note: This is the sixth in a series of stories on the 13 agencies which make up the Ouachita Parish United Givers Fund).

Now color the 2,200 members of the Young Men's Christian Association happy, for they are engaged in activities which promote mental and physical well - being.

The stories of people who have found their lives enriched by the Y's program are enough to fill the longest book. Each day there is a testimonial to the benefits of activities which each member of the family can enjoy. There was the salesman whose small daughter was easily frightened, especially of water. After swimming lessons at the Y.M.C.A., she was able to conquer her fear and became an accomplished swimmer.

One father took the initiative in organizing an Indian Guide tribe, a father - son group, because he knew the benefits his oldest son had received from such a club.

In the modern building on Glenmar Ave., there are programs varied enough to suit any preference. From children scarcely more than toddlers to adults seeking more education, there is a steady stream of people who know what the Y.M.C.A. can mean. Although many people think of the Y as strictly for the male members of the population, there are programs for every member of the family. Almost one - third of the active membership are women, and special classes are held for girls.

In addition to the well - known day and resident camps, swimming classes and clubs for school-age children, the "Y" has some special benefits to offer adults. This year, the staff members hope to expand the adult program and enroll more members on a full-time basis rather than for occasional "drop - in" visits.

Bridge and tennis lessons are planned for the fall, and already popular are volleyball, ladies' swimming lessons and skin and scuba diving.

The indoor pool, one of the only two in Northeast Louisiana, is kept busy all year with swimming and diving classes. So far this year, over 1,000 persons, from pre - school through adults, have taken part in the aquatic instruction.

There are many unusual classes now at the "Y". Beginning and advanced ballet classes are being taught by a graduate ballet teacher. There is also a deep-breathing course for asthmatic children.

An innovation begun last fall is the tackle football league for fifth and sixth grade boys. It proved so popular that plans are being made to expand the league this year, perhaps even into junior high schools.

In the gymnasium, judo, badminton, basketball, trampoline and volleyball are played, with classes in exercises also offered.

The size of the staff varies with the season. There is a full-time professional staff of 4, with from 11 to 15 part - time workers. During the summer, when the camps are in sessions, there are as many as 45 workers. Many volunteers also help out in the various activities.

Developing the body, mind and spirit of its members and teaching the value of Christian leadership in all phases of life are the aims of the Y.M.C.A. Such a task requires the donations and service of many people, and the United Givers Fund is the agency through which it is possible.

Jaycees Survey Deadline Near

The Jaycees have asked local residents to offer suggestions, ideas and plans for community projects which they would like to see the local club undertake in the next year.

Frank Cerniglia, survey chairman, said that many "worthwhile" projects have come from the project in the past. He cited the Fourth of July celebration in Forsythe Park and the Christmas shopping tour for underpriviliged children as two.

Ideas and suggestions can be mailed to the Jaycees at the Frances Hotel or they can be delivered to the Jaycee office in the hotel.

City Youth, Four Others Are Killed

The dead Monroe youth was identified as William (Bill) Edward Rambin Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rambin Sr., of 2005 Loop Rd.

Funeral services for Rambin, a junior psychology major at LSU, will be held Monday at 11 a.m. in the Church of Jesus, the Good Shepherd. Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

Pallbearers will be Barry Tanquis, Dick Ethridge, Taylor Heard, Jimmy McBride, Rayford Haygood, and Hank Biedenharn.

A Baton Rouge coroner, Dr. Chester Williams, said four others were killed when the stalled car near which they stood was struck by another vehicle and exploded into flames. Most of the persons involved were students at the state university who had attended an informal Mississippi River levee party of Kappa Alpha Fraternity members and their dates.

All of the dead had been clustered around an old model station wagon that had been bought for $50 earlier Friday and then stalled on the River Road, four miles south of the campus.

They were pushing the car when another carload of students rammed the rear of the station wagon which hurtled about 100 feet, exploded and caught fire. Driver of the station wagon was identified as Charles Gordon Johnson Jr., 21, Baton Rouge, who was also killed. The other dead are Alexandra King, 18, New Orleans; John W. Olvey III, 18, son of a prominent Shreveport oil man; and Keith W. (Buddy) Burge Jr., 23, Highland Park., Ill.

The 17-year-old son of an Alexandria doctor was critically injured, with burns over about 60 per cent of his body. The youth, Alton W. Evans, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. N. Evans, was being treated in a Baton Rouge hospital.

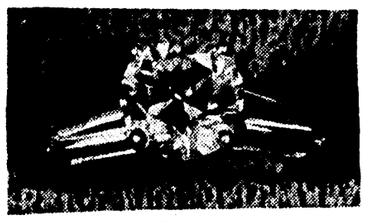

Others injured included Elena Jeannie Pasados, 20, Baton Rouge, in serious condition, but reported responding to treatment; Charles Duchein III, 20, Baton Rouge, son of a local businessman and former state senator; Debbie Duhe, 18, Reserve, La., holder of several beauty titles; Phoebe Gill, 19, Baton Rouge; Kathleen Iderd, 19, Baton Rouge; Sandra Eustis, 18, New Orleans; and Beth Pugh, 18, Baton Rouge.

Investigating state troopers said Duchein and Misses Duhe and Posados were riding with Becnel. The rest were in or around the other car in which according to troopers, 10 had been riding before it stalled.

Rambin is survived by his parents, and a sister, Miss Dot Rambin, of Monroe; one brother, Scott Rambin, stationed in Colorado with the U.S. Air Force; and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rambin, of Shreveport.

Rambin is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, where he played football in the school athletic program.

Almost one - third of the active membership are women, and special classes are held for girls.

In addition to the well - known day and resident camps, swimming classes and clubs for school-age children, the "Y" has some special benefits to offer adults. This year, the staff members hope to expand the adult program and enroll more members on a full-time basis rather than for occasional "drop - in" visits.

Bridge and tennis lessons are planned for the fall, and already popular are volleyball, ladies' swimming lessons and skin and scuba diving.

The indoor pool, one of the only two in Northeast Louisiana, is kept busy all year with swimming and diving classes. So far this year, over 1,000 persons, from pre - school through adults, have taken part in the aquatic instruction.

There are many unusual classes now at the "Y". Beginning and advanced ballet classes are being taught by a graduate ballet teacher. There is also a deep-breathing course for asthmatic children.

An innovation begun last fall is the tackle football league for fifth and sixth grade boys. It proved so popular that plans are being made to expand the league this year, perhaps even into junior high schools.

In the gymnasium, judo, badminton, basketball, trampoline and volleyball are played, with classes in exercises also offered.

The size of the staff varies with the season. There is a full-time professional staff of 4, with from 11 to 15 part - time workers. During the summer, when the camps are in sessions, there are as many as 45 workers. Many volunteers also help out in the various activities.

Developing the body, mind and spirit of its members and teaching the value of Christian leadership in all phases of life are the aims of the Y.M.C.A. Such a task requires the donations and service of many people, and the United Givers Fund is the agency through which it is possible.

Pick up your crayons again and color the symbol of the United Givers Fund; color it bright for the outlook it provides the "Y".

Jaycees Survey Deadline Near

The deadline is near for the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce's annual community survey. The deadline for suggestions from the public is Sept. 25.

The Jaycees have asked local residents to offer suggestions, ideas and plans for community projects which they would like to see the local club undertake in the next year.

Frank Cerniglia, survey chairman, said that many "worthwhile" projects have come from the project in the past. He cited the Fourth of July celebration in Forsythe Park and the Christmas shopping tour for underpriviliged children as two.

Ideas and suggestions can be mailed to the Jaycees at the Frances Hotel or they can be delivered to the Jaycee office in the hotel.

'Shaky' Business Boom Beginning To Set Longevity Records

WASHINGTON (AP) — This business expansion is beginning to set records for longevity.

It never will go down in history as the "Kennedy boom," because it is no boom. It has faltered and sputtered and, at least twice, almost conked out.

But it never quite died. Today in its 31st month, it looks healthier than ever, and even if it fizzles out tomorrow, it will be the theme of many a Democratic campaign speech in 1964.

The recovery that began in March 1961, after the miserably cold February that represented the bottom of the fourth postwar recession, already has reversed the postwar trend of ever more frequent downturns and shorter, weaker recoveries.

By last May, it had surpassed the average age of peacetime expansions in this century. The average is 26 months.

By July it had passed the average length of peacetime upswings since World War I, which was 28 months.

In November, assuming no mishaps, it will have outlasted any of the recoveries since World War II except that of 1949-53, which rode long and high on the Korean War buildup.

If it runs until April, it will be the longest peacetime expansion since the Civil War. In fact, it will be the longest in this country's recorded economic history, except one.

That exception was the tortuous 50-month climb out of the depths of the great depression. It lasted from 1933 to 1937, and it probably shouldn't count; unemployment never dropped below 14 per cent, and then the economy slumped again, down into the recession of 1937.

No other peacetime expansion in history has lasted more than 37 months.

L. U. FOURMY

Fourmy Asks Police Jury Re-Election

L. Underwood Fourmy, member of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury for the past 20 years, has announced his candidacy for re-election for one of the four post from Ward 10. He is basing his candidacy on his past record.

A Monroe business man, Fourmy has been in the general insurance business for the past 37 years. He is a past president of the Ouachita Association of Insurance Agents. He resides at 1100 Speed Avenue.

Since his election to the jury in 1944, Fourmy pointed out, the present system of blacktopping has been put into effect. Prior to this the parish maintained gravel roads, but soon began blacktopping and maintaining the roads. At the present time, the parish has approximately 300 miles of blacktop road in the system. Many of the roads originally handled and improved by the parish have been taken over since as the limits of Monroe and West Monroe have expanded. Ward 10 roads completed are Oliver Road, which was completed this summer and portions of the Booker T. Washington Addition.

Only about four blocks of road in Ward 10, all outside of the city limits of Monroe still are to be blacktopped.

Fourmy also cited the work in the drainage program, particularly Young's Bayou Canal and the laterals which directly drain the City of Monroe. This program was completed, Fourmy pointed out, without additional taxation. All drainage canals in ward 10 outside the city limits have been improved and are in good condition.

Fourmy has served on the library committee for the past 12 years, during which time the parish library system has expanded and improved its services throughout the parish. The present buildings, all completely modern, have been constructed and two bookmobiles are in operation in the rural areas of the parish.

He has also worked with the health unit committee and saw the opening in August of the completely new and modern health unit and regional laboratory.

Fourmy is a member of the Grace Episcopal Church, having served on the vestry and as junior warden, member of the Board of Directors of the Crippled Children's Society, member of the Monroe Kiwanis Club, past president of the Kiwanis, member of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce, member of the finance committee of the Louisiana Police Jury Association for four years, and member of the finance committee of the local police jury for 12 years.

He has also served on the executive committee of the Ouachita Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Fourmy was instrumental in having the parishwide stock law passed and has worked closely with the organization of the Green Oaks Juvenile Dentention Home and the parish jail extension.

"I will continue to work with the other jurors in a conservative and constructive program," he said. On the basis of my past record I earnestly solicit the support of the people of Ward 10."

Franklin Parish Assessor Asks For Re-Election

WINNSBORO (Special) — Willie Reems of Winnsboro, Franklin Parish assessor, has announced his candidacy for re-election in the December 7 Democratic Primary.

In announcing his candidacy, the 40-year-old native of Franklin Parish states, "I believe my record of integrity and fairness to everyone speaks for itself, and ask your vote and support. The assessment books of this parish have always been open for public inspection during my eight years in office.

Reems is a active member of the Assessor's Association.

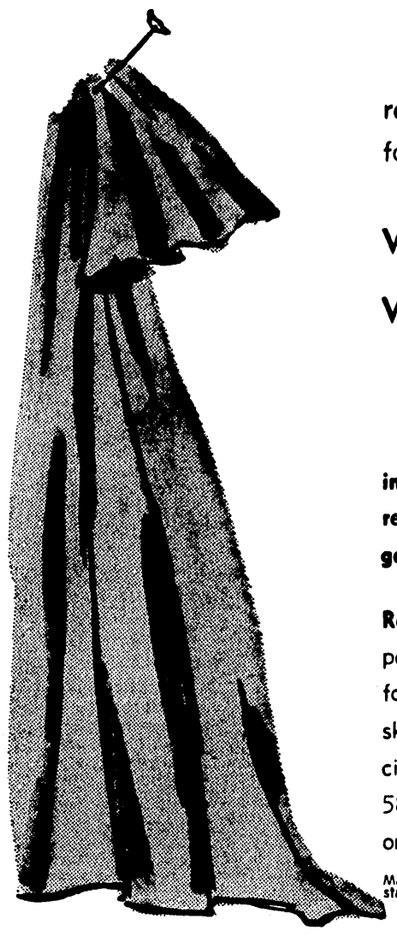

A veteran of World War II, Reems survived the Bataan death march and was a prisoner of war of the Japanese for 40 months.

Reems is married to the former Miss Masel Newton of Winnsboro, and is the father of three children, a daughter, Patricia, 15, and two sons Billy, 8, and Bobby 6.

Over 160 Attend Salvation Army Rally In Monroe

Over 160 youth delegates from 15 Salvation Army posts throughout Louisiana and Arkansas participated in the annual Cadet Rally here Saturday and heard the divisional youth secretary, Maj. Ernst Wixon tell of America's youth in the Salvation Army.

Lt. Noel McBride of the local Salvation Army unit said the rally, for Salvation Army youths participating in a six - year Bible study course, included a full program of inspiration and education. Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harry Ward, divisional commanders for the Arkansas and Louisiana Division, were in charge of the program for the day - long event.

The rally was held in the local Salvation Army headquarters, at Hart at Harrison streets. Capt. Ronald C. Greene is the local commander.

Local Officers Handle Theft, Traffic Cases

Traffic violations and theft investigations topped the activities of local law agences here Saturday.

Monroe police logged a theft count against a 22-year-old Winnsboro Negro Saturday. Louis Bass of Hickory St., was held under a $110 bond on the charge after he was arrested on a warrant.

The Monroe department was investigating two thefts that were reported early Saturday. Charles Hill, operator of Hill's Curb Market, 1500 DeSiard St., reported around 50 cents worth of apples stolen from his place of business after a container area had been forced open.

Theft of clothing from a clothes line was reported by Roberta Jackson, of 716 Bryant St. She told officers that several items had been taken from the lines of neighbors this week in addition to hers.

The Ouachita Parish sheriff's department returned a Negro, Elmer Andrews, alias "Blue", from Uvalda, Tex. Saturday. He was arrested by Texas authorities for the sheriff's office who held warrants charging him with auto theft and forgery. The auto theft occurred in December of 1962, and the check, valued at $45, was forged in November of 1962. Andrews was being held under bonds totaling $1,750.

Meanwhile, members of Troop F, state police apprehended eight persons on counts of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages during the past week. They include a Bastrop Negro, Willie H. Mercer, 59, arrested at 4:30 p.m. Monday on U. S. Highway 165; Robert Bonner, 51-year-old Ruston Negro, booked at 8:20 p.m. Tuesday after his arrest on U. S. 80; and three arrested Thursday. They were identified as Ross Barnes, 55, 916½ Montgomery St., West Monroe, booked at 11:50 p.m., U. S. 80 west; Mattie E. Endon, 48, 3206 Pearl St., Monroe, booked at 12:25 a.m. on U. S. 80 west; and Harvey W. Johnston, 58, 311 Stone Ave., Monroe, booked at 12:45 a. m. on La. 34 and Smith Street, West Monroe. Friday, Negro Joe Davis, 43, of 711 Ridge Dr., West Monroe, was booked at 10:10 p.m. on U.S. 80 west; while two arrested Saturday include Charlesie J. Garlumb, Dubach, 4:45 p.m. on U. S. 80 west, and Raymond L. Adams, 36, 1500 Almond St., West Monroe, at 1:15 a.m. on La. 838, a second offender.

West Monroe police booked two for reckless driving after they were involved in a wreck on Cypress Street at its intersection with Warrent Drive around 7 p.m. Saturday.

Booked were Hubert E. Sanders Jr., 16 of 1422 Willis St., West Monroe, and O. W. Hattaway, 62, of Rt. 5, Box 154, West Monroe. The Sanders youth was also treated for minor injuries following the collision which occurred when he made a left turn off Cypress Street in front of the Hattaway vehicle.

CLARK H. BURRILL

Clark Burrill Is Candidate For Senate

MONTEREY (Special) — A 20-year Army veteran, Clark H. Burrill, has announced his candidacy for the Louisiana Senate from the 32nd Senatorial District.

Burrill is a life - long resident of Lismore, in Concordia Parish, which together with Tensas, East Carroll and Madison parishes, comprises the 32nd Senatorial District.

The retired Army sergeant is married to the former Eloise Willson, also a native of Lisbon. They have four children, Beverly, Margaret, Rebecca and Clark Jr., all of whom attend school at Monterey. Burrill is a member of the Lismore Baptist Church, Sunset Lodge 438 F&AM and the Royal Arch Chapter No. 91.

The candidate's statement follows:

"I have recently retired from the Army after over 20 years of active service during which time I participated in nine major battles in World War II and the Korean Conflict. During WW II I was a member of the 16th Infantry Regiment of the 1st Infantry Division. When I returned home in 1945 I continued my education by taking an accelerated course in commercial law at New Orleans. I re-enlisted in the Army late in 1946 and at that time decided to make the Army my career.

"I was in one of the first wave of troops ot enter Korea on July 4, 1950. In 1951 I returned to the United States and was assigned as an advisor to the Louisiana National Guard at Morgan City. After my tour there I was reassigned in 1953 to the tri-zone in Europe as a border operations sergeant. The tri - zone includes East and West Germany and Czechoslovakia.

"I was again assigned to Louisiana upon my return to the U. S., this time as an instructor at Byrd and Fair Park high schools in Shreveport in 1956. I served there until 1959 when I returned to Korea once more and was assigned the job of provost sergeant of the First Calvary Division. In 1960 I was back in the U. S., first as a career counselor in Little Rock, Ark., then as a first sergeant at Fort Polk in 1962. Upon retirement I was holding the position of sergeant major there.

"I am a graduate of Monterey High School and on my own time have accumulated two year's of college credits towards a degree. I am a graduate of the Adjutant General's School of Administration at Fort Ben Harrison, Ind., and have served as a narcotics and vice investigator for the Army.

"I believe in state's rights and above all, segregation of the races. I think that educational aid should be expanded, enabling more children to attend college. I believe that the welfare system of our state should be more carefully studied and revised and that the old age assistance program should be adjusted to meet the rising cost of living.

"I think the surplus foodstuffs that the federal government now has on hand should be given to the public school systems so as to reduce the prices that are now in effect for school lunches.

"At present, as in the past, the governor of our state has complete control of the state treasury. I think that the treasury should be controlled by the legislature and not by one man. I think that there is too much money spent on special legislation. This work should be done, if at all possible, while in regular session.

"Before I vote for a bill that is before the senate, I will consider the effects that this particular bill will have on our children as well as ourselves.

"If you elect me as your senator, you will have a progressive, sincere and honest man representing you. If I am elected, I will work with the officials from each and every parish for the benefit of the people of this state. On Dec. 7, vote for Clark H. Burrill for senator and you will have a friend in the senate — one that cannot be bought for any price."

Mine Explodes After Visit By President Tomaz

LISBON, Portugal (AP) —A land mine exploded in the Portuguese West African enclave of Cabinda Saturday about an hour after Portugal's President, Adm. Americo Tomaz had left for Angola by plane, the Lusitania News Agency reported Saturday night.

It said shrapnel from the mine had hit a jeep.

Over 160 Attend Salvation Army Rally In Monroe

Over 160 youth delegates from 15 Salvation Army posts throughout Louisiana and Arkansas participated in the annual Cadet Rally here Saturday and heard the divisional youth secretary, Maj. Ernst Wixon tell of America's youth in the Salvation Army.

Lt. Noel McBride of the local Salvation Army unit said the rally, for Salvation Army youths participating in a six - year Bible study course, included a full program of inspiration and education. Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harry Ward, divisional commanders for the Arkansas and Louisiana Division, were in charge of the program for the day - long event.

The rally was held in the local Salvation Army headquarters, at Hart at Harrison streets. Capt. Ronald C. Greene is the local commander.

Local Officers Handle Theft, Traffic Cases

Traffic violations and theft investigations topped the activities of local law agences here Saturday.

Monroe police logged a theft count against a 22-year-old Winnsboro Negro Saturday. Louis Bass of Hickory St., was held under a $110 bond on the charge after he was arrested on a warrant.

The Monroe department was investigating two thefts that were reported early Saturday. Charles Hill, operator of Hill's Curb Market, 1500 DeSiard St., reported around 50 cents worth of apples stolen from his place of business after a container area had been forced open.

Theft of clothing from a clothes line was reported by Roberta Jackson, of 716 Bryant St. She told officers that several items had been taken from the lines of neighbors this week in addition to hers.

The Ouachita Parish sheriff's department returned a Negro, Elmer Andrews, alias "Blue", from Uvalda, Tex. Saturday. He was arrested by Texas authorities for the sheriff's office who held warrants charging him with auto theft and forgery. The auto theft occurred in December of 1962, and the check, valued at $45, was forged in November of 1962. Andrews was being held under bonds totaling $1,750.

Meanwhile, members of Troop F, state police apprehended eight persons on counts of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages during the past week. They include a Bastrop Negro, Willie H. Mercer, 59, arrested at 4:30 p.m. Monday on U. S. Highway 165; Robert Bonner, 51-year-old Ruston Negro, booked at 8:20 p.m. Tuesday after his arrest on U. S. 80; and three arrested Thursday. They were identified as Ross Barnes, 55, 916½ Montgomery St., West Monroe, booked at 11:50 p.m., U. S. 80 west; Mattie E. Endon, 48, 3206 Pearl St., Monroe, booked at 12:25 a.m. on U. S. 80 west; and Harvey W. Johnston, 58, 311 Stone Ave., Monroe, booked at 12:45 a. m. on La. 34 and Smith Street, West Monroe. Friday, Negro Joe Davis, 43, of 711 Ridge Dr., West Monroe, was booked at 10:10 p.m. on U.S. 80 west; while two arrested Saturday include Charlesie J. Garlumb, Dubach, 4:45 p.m. on U. S. 80 west, and Raymond L. Adams, 36, 1500 Almond St., West Monroe, at 1:15 a.m. on La. 838, a second offender.

West Monroe police booked two for reckless driving after they were involved in a wreck on Cypress Street at its intersection with Warrent Drive around 7 p.m. Saturday.

Booked were Hubert E. Sanders Jr., 16 of 1422 Willis St., West Monroe, and O. W. Hattaway, 62, of Rt. 5, Box 154, West Monroe. The Sanders youth was also treated for minor injuries following the collision which occurred when he made a left turn off Cypress Street in front of the Hattaway vehicle.

CLARK H. BURRILL

Clark Burrill Is Candidate For Senate

MONTEREY (Special) — A 20-year Army veteran, Clark H. Burrill, has announced his candidacy for the Louisiana Senate from the 32nd Senatorial District.

Burrill is a life - long resident of Lismore, in Concordia Parish, which together with Tensas, East Carroll and Madison parishes, comprises the 32nd Senatorial District.

The retired Army sergeant is married to the former Eloise Willson, also a native of Lisbon. They have four children, Beverly, Margaret, Rebecca and Clark Jr., all of whom attend school at Monterey. Burrill is a member of the Lismore Baptist Church, Sunset Lodge 438 F&AM and the Royal Arch Chapter No. 91.

The candidate's statement follows:

"I have recently retired from the Army after over 20 years of active service during which time I participated in nine major battles in World War II and the Korean Conflict. During WW II I was a member of the 16th Infantry Regiment of the 1st Infantry Division. When I returned home in 1945 I continued my education by taking an accelerated course in commercial law at New Orleans. I re-enlisted in the Army late in 1946 and at that time decided to make the Army my career.

"I was in one of the first wave of troops ot enter Korea on July 4, 1950. In 1951 I returned to the United States and was assigned as an advisor to the Louisiana National Guard at Morgan City. After my tour there I was reassigned in 1953 to the tri-zone in Europe as a border operations sergeant. The tri - zone includes East and West Germany and Czechoslovakia.

"I was again assigned to Louisiana upon my return to the U. S., this time as an instructor at Byrd and Fair Park high schools in Shreveport in 1956. I served there until 1959 when I returned to Korea once more and was assigned the job of provost sergeant of the First Calvary Division. In 1960 I was back in the U. S., first as a career counselor in Little Rock, Ark., then as a first sergeant at Fort Polk in 1962. Upon retirement I was holding the position of sergeant major there.

"I am a graduate of Monterey High School and on my own time have accumulated two year's of college credits towards a degree. I am a graduate of the Adjutant General's School of Administration at Fort Ben Harrison, Ind., and have served as a narcotics and vice investigator for the Army.

"I believe in state's rights and above all, segregation of the races. I think that educational aid should be expanded, enabling more children to attend college. I believe that the welfare system of our state should be more carefully studied and revised and that the old age assistance program should be adjusted to meet the rising cost of living.

"I think the surplus foodstuffs that the federal government now has on hand should be given to the public school systems so as to reduce the prices that are now in effect for school lunches.

"At present, as in the past, the governor of our state has complete control of the state treasury. I think that the treasury should be conrolled by the legislature and not by one man. I think that there is too much money spent on special legislation. This work should be done, if at all possible, while in regular session.

"Before I vote for a bill that is before the senate, I will consider the effects that this particular bill will have on our children as well as ourselves.

"If you elect me as your senator, you will have a progressive, sincere and honest man representing you. If I am elected, I will work with the officials from each and every parish for the benefit of the people of this state. On Dec. 7, vote for Clark H. Burrill for senator and you will have a friend in the senate — one that cannot be bought for any price."

Mine Explodes After Visit By President Tomaz

LISBON, Portugal (AP) —A land mine exploded in the Portuguese West African enclave of Cabinda Saturday about an hour after Portugal's President, Adm. Americo Tomaz had left for Angola by plane, the Lusitania News Agency reported Saturday night.

It said shrapnel from the mine had hit a jeep.

Riders 'Dance'

Plans for a square dance on horseback practice session in West Monroe were announced Saturday by the Tri-State Rough Riders Quadrille.

J. C. Cruse, one of the organizers of the square dance group, said the practice workout will take place 7 p.m. Monday at Cloyd's Speedway Area on Old Natchitoches Road.

Sixteen riders have joined the organization since its formation about two and a half weeks ago, Cruse said.

"This is just a group of riders that go into a figure eight at full speed while square dance records are being played. They will dos-a-dos just like square dancers on foot and work at close formation with knees bumping together."

STEAMBOAT SMOG

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —The Belle of Louisville, a county-owned steamboat purchased for a museum and recreation facility on the Ohio River, got into trouble with the Air Pollution Control Board.

Engineers said the Belle gave off dense black smoke, probably because of old equipment and the use of too much oil.

Riders 'Dance'

Plans for a square dance on horseback practice session in West Monroe were announced Saturday by the Tri-State Rough Riders Quadrille.

J. C. Cruse, one of the organizers of the square dance group, said the practice workout will take place 7 p.m. Monday at Cloyd's Speedway Area on Old Natchitoches Road.

Sixteen riders have joined the organization since its formation about two and a half weeks ago, Cruse said.

STEAMBOAT SMOG

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —The Belle of Louisville, a county-owned steamboat purchased for a museum and recreation facility on the Ohio River, got into trouble with the Air Pollution Control Board.

Engineers said the Belle gave off dense black smoke, probably because of old equipment and the use of too much oil.

Montgomery In Race For Police Jury

A. E. Montgomery Jr., 34-year-old native of Ouachita Parish, has announced his candidacy for the Ouachita Parish Police Jury from Ward 10.

He has been in the insurance business here for the past seven years.

A graduate of the Tulane University School of Law, Montgomery is a veteran of the Korean War, having served as an officer with the U. S. Marine Corps.

He is married and the father of three children.

Montgomery is a member of Grace Episcopal Church, the board of directors of United Cerebral Palsey Association of Northeast Louisiana, the board of directors of the Ouachita Parish Association of Insurance Agents.

He made the following statement in connection with his candidacy:

"Ouachita Parish stands on the threshold of a period of economic growth which can be fully attained by aggressive leadership of our local governing bodies. Strong conservative government for the people of this parish through energetic leadership will not only discourage federal and state interference in our local affairs, but will allow us to keep peace with the rapid growth of Louisiana. In view of my business experience and my dealings with the public I feel that I have acquired invaluable experience necessary to fulfill the requirements of leadership for modern government.

"I shall conduct an aggressive campaign as an independent candidate. While I realize it will be difficult to personally contact every voter in Ward 10 prior to the election, I will certainly try to do so. I seek constructive criticism and help from all citizens of Ouachita Parish. I pledge to the voters of Ward 10 that I will represent them to the best of my ability, keeping in mind my responsibility to the people of the entire parish and the necessity of full co-operation with other members of the Jury in furtherance of good and progressive government. Further, I pledge to the members of my ward that I shall welcome their advice prior to voting on major issues, and at all times shall be available to discuss problems of the parish with them.

"I respectfully request the vote and support of the citizens of Ward 10."

Veneer Plant Dedication Is Slated Today

CHATHAM (Special)—The new $300,000 Louisiana Venner Co. plant here will be dedicated 3 p.m. today.

Ceremonies will include a ribbon-cutting, and speeches by O. E. Leehy Sr., plant president and manager, Jackson Parish Rep. I. J. Allen of Jonesboro and State Sen. Jamar Adcock.

Garland Shell of Monroe will make the dedication and act as master of ceremonies, while Rev. Leon Scott, pastor of Chatham Methodist Church, is scheduled to deliver the invocation.

Largely instrumental in securing the new plant was Chatham Area Development Corp. The corporation netted a loan of $300,000 from the Small Business Administration to build the veneer plant several months ago.

The plant will employ about 45 workers and will have a monthly payroll of between $10,000 and $12,000.

It will use mainly sweet gum, but will also utilize magnolia, bay and poplar.

WRIGGLING, BAWLING

Quints Pass Week In Good Condition

ABERDEEN, S.D. (UPI) — The Fischer quints wriggled and bawled noisly through their one-week anniversary Saturday in fine shape.

There was some indication that the citizenry of Aberdeen finally is waking up to the truth of the fact that, as one man said "we've got something here."

Two of the quints, James Andrew and Mary Catherine, were doing especially well. Dr. James N. Berbos increased their feedings by 2 ccs.

That meant they were getting three teaspoonsful of formula every two hours. The other quints were getting somewhat lesser amounts.

Dr. Berbos announced that all of the quints had a good night and that their color and activity were good.

"This is going to make Aberdeen improve—it'll help the whole town," a man in a drug store said to the clerk after reading the big sidewalk sign at Bean's supermarket at the corner of Main Street and 12th Avenue.

The sidewalk sign, normally carrying a spiel about daily specials, said:

Farther down Main Street, the Capitol Theater ("where the big pictures play") greeted Saturday crowds with this sign on the north end of its marquee:

"Happy birthday, Fischer quints."

On the south end, a sign said: "The Fischer quints, 4 Marys and James."

Mrs. Mary Ann Fischer, 30, the mother went into the nursery Saturday and saw her babies close-up again.

They were squirming, bawling, and the boy was moving his legs so vigorously that he frequently turned himself sideways in his "isolette" incubator.

Mrs. Fischer, who has been worried about her five children at home who range in age from three to seven, will be taken home by her husband, Andrew, 38, at 1 p.m. Monday.

The quints were born between 1:58 a.m. and 3:01 a.m. last Saturday.

Dr. Berbos, who has delivered all 10 of Mrs. Fischer's children, was up most of Friday night and then came in to St. Luke's Hospital Saturday morning and delivered two babies between 5 and 7 a.m.

Montgomery In Race For Police Jury

A. E. Montgomery Jr., 34-year-old native of Ouachita Parish, has announced his candidacy for the Ouachita Parish Police Jury from Ward 10.

He has been in the insurance business here for the past seven years.

A graduate of the Tulane University School of Law, Montgomery is a veteran of the Korean War, having served as an officer with the U. S. Marine Corps.

He is married and the father of three children.

Montgomery is a member of Grace Episcopal Church, the board of directors of United Cerebral Palsey Association of Northeast Louisiana, the board of directors of the Ouachita Parish Association of Insurance Agents.

He made the following statement in connection with his candidacy:

"Ouachita Parish stands on the threshold of a period of economic growth which can be fully attained by aggressive leadership of our local governing bodies. Strong conservative government for the people of this parish through energetic leadership will not only discourage federal and state interference in our local affairs, but will allow us to keep peace with the rapid growth of Louisiana. In view of my business experience and my dealings with the public I feel that I have acquired invaluable experience necessary to fulfill the requirements of leadership for modern government.

"I shall conduct an aggressive campaign as an independent candidate. While I realize it will be difficult to personally contact every voter in Ward 10 prior to the election, I will certainly try to do so. I seek constructive criticism and help from all citizens of Ouachita Parish. I pledge to the voters of Ward 10 that I will represent them to the best of my ability, keeping in mind my responsibility to the people of the entire parish and the necessity of full co - operation with other members of the Jury in furtherance of good and progressive government. Further, I pledge to the members of my ward that I shall welcome their advice prior to voting on major issues, and at all times shall be available to discuss problems of the parish with them.

"I respectfully request the vote and support of the citizens of Ward 10."

PONCA CITY GEMS

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Mrs. Erma Carmack, public health nurse here, turns Ponca City boys into GEMS—good emergency mothers.

Mrs. Carmack conducts a baby-sitting course to show young boys —and girls, too — how to care for younger children. Instruction includes feeding, changing and even bathing.

Veneer Plant Dedication Is Slated Today

CHATHAM (Special)—The new $300,000 Louisiana Venner Co. plant here will be dedicated 3 p.m. today.

Ceremonies will include a ribbon-cutting, and speeches by O. E. Leehy Sr., plant president and manager, Jackson Parish Rep. I. J. Allen of Jonesboro and State Sen. Jamar Adcock.

Garland Shell of Monroe will make the dedication and act as master of ceremonies, while Rev. Leon Scott, pastor of Chatham Methodist Church, is scheduled to deliver the invocation.

Largely instrumental in securing the new plant was Chatham Area Development Corp. The corporation netted a loan of $300,000 from the Small Business Administration to build the veneer plant several months ago.

The plant will employ about 45 workers and will have a monthly payroll of between $10,000 and $12,000.

It will use mainly sweet gum, but will also utilize magnolia, bay and poplar.

WRIGGLING, BAWLING

Quints Pass Week In Good Condition

ABERDEEN, S.D. (UPI) — The Fischer quints wriggled and bawled noisly through their one-week anniversary Saturday in fine shape.

There was some indication that the citizenry of Aberdeen finally is waking up to the truth of the fact that, as one man said "we've got something here."

Two of the quints, James Andrew and Mary Catherine, were doing especially well. Dr. James N. Berbos increased their feedings by 2 ccs.

That meant they were getting three teaspoonsful of formula every two hours. The other quints were getting somewhat lesser amounts.

Dr. Berbos announced that all of the quints had a good night and that their color and activity were good.

"This is going to make Aberdeen improve—it'll help the whole town," a man in a drug store said to the clerk after reading the big sidewalk sign at Bean's supermarket at the corner of Main Street and 12th Avenue.

The sidewalk sign, normally carrying a spiel about daily specials, said:

Farther down Main Street, the Capitol Theater ("where the big pictures play") greeted Saturday crowds with this sign on the north end of its marquee:

"Happy birthday, Fischer quints."

On the south end, a sign said: "The Fischer quints, 4 Marys and James."

Mrs. Mary Ann Fischer, 30, the mother went into the nursery Saturday and saw her babies close-up again.

They were squirming, bawling, and the boy was moving his legs so vigorously that he frequently turned himself sideways in his "isolette" incubator.

Mrs. Fischer, who has been worried about her five children at home who range in age from three to seven, will be taken home by her husband, Andrew, 38, at 1 p.m. Monday.

The quints were born between 1:58 a.m. and 3:01 a.m. last Saturday.

Dr. Berbos, who has delivered all 10 of Mrs. Fischer's children, was up most of Friday night and then came in to St. Luke's Hospital Saturday morning and delivered two babies between 5 and 7 a.m.

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

Before the fall campaigning for governor captures the entertainment spotlight in Louisiana, we might take a look at the live entertainment offered under the name on the "big two" listings in this part of the state, namely, the Louisiana Tech Concerts Association, and the Northeast State Concerts Association.

These — in alphabetical order — are the organizations which look up to a financial zero every year in order to import or produce locally fine, live entertainment.

And when we say "look up to a financial zero," we mean just that. All have found from past experiences that the public wants to see certain attractions listed in advance. This means a financial commitment on the part of the local groups. Then, when membership drives are commenced, the object is to get out of the red. Hence the term "non profit" organization. The application is accurate on the local level.

Of course, the visiting artists collect their fees, as do their agents and advertisers. There's still money in the performing arts. But the local college officials and volunteer campaign workers feel they are making a contribution to the community by keeping the footlights glowing.

Here's why. The northeast Louisiana area is growing, but it's still too small for agents of Broadway road companies or concert attractions to set up a box office and sell attractions separately. Thus if it weren't for the interested local groups contributing their time, such things as "Fiorello," "The Music Man," or "Camelot" would stick to the larger metropolitan areas.

Shreveport, for example, was unable to provide a large enough audience several years ago to balance box office books on a traveling production of one of the musicals named above.

On the other hand, the Northeast Concerts group booked "Carnival" last year and the funds for the production were already on hand when the curtain opened thanks to the assistance of interested volunteer workers.

The same was true regarding the elaborate traveling production of "Sound of Music" which played on the La. Tech series in Ruston last year.

PRACTICAL IDEA

It's sort of a practical ideal which has worked well for providing American communities with live entertainment. The ideal rests with a desire on the part of many persons to boost the cultural outlook for the area. This may seem of secondary importance until an individual or family is planning to move here. Then it seems one of the first questions asked is: "Do they have a concert series or any live theatre?"

In making out brochures which are aimed at boosting the community generally, Chambers of Commerce always include concerts and theatre outlets.

It may appear to be a minor point where entertainment is concerned, but the participation of the audience in a season actually adds something to a community's vitality. We don't mean participation in the sense of a "sing-along" or even the reactions through laughter or applause. It's more the will to dress up and go, to meet and talk with people, and to follow the action or the music or even just part of it that makes this sort of entertainment an active force.

These are just some of the things you might ponder when you hear that any one of the cultural groups in northeast Louisiana has a membership campaign in progress. The workers get behind such a movement because they want to keep a worthwhile community project going. And they want to do so without raising taxes or floating new bonds.

Birmingham Quiet, Tense After Terror

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Quiet now but still nervous, Birmingham Saturday approached another sabbath with fervent hope of avoiding another outbreak of racial violence.

It was the first weekend since the bombing of a Negro church killed four Negro children and touched off a day of terror which left two other Negroes dead.

There were scattered incidents as the weekend began, but none reached serious proportions.

Two white teen-agers remained in jail meanwhile on murder charges in the killing of a Negro boy. An adult Negro was arrested after a scuffle with two state troopers and the stabbing of a white man.

Police said two other Negro youths had been charged with telephoning bomb threats to a school.

Long-seething racial tension has erupted into new violence in the past two weeks since three of the city's 93 schools were desegregated under federal court orders.

The unrest reached a bloody climax last Sunday when a bomb, placed beneath a stairway at the 16th Street Baptist Church, exploded during Sunday school services and killed four Negro girls.

In the hours that followed, a Negro youth accused of throwing rocks at a police car was shot to death by a patrolman, and another Negro boy was killed by pistol shots fired from an approaching motor scooter on which two white youths were riding.

The white teen-agers, Michael Lee Farley and Larry Joe Sims, both 16, were bound over to a grand jury without bond after a hearing before county Judge Elias Watson Jr. The grand jury, meeting Oct. 7, will decide whether to indict them for murder. The boys signed a statement saying Sims had shot the Negro, Virgil Ware, 13.

Coroner J. O. Butler said the grand jury also will be asked to investigate the death of the other Negro youth, Johnny Brown Robinson.

James Hall, 35, a Negro, was charged with assault and battery and assault with intent to murder after the stabbing of a white man on a downtown street Friday night.

Detective C. L. Pierce said the Negro first had shoved one of two state troopers, flashed a knife, and was dragged away by other Negroes. A short time later, said Pierce, the Negro stabbed Aubrey Hogan while the white man waited for a bus.

Liner At Sea Reports Theft

NEW YORK (AP) — A theft at sea of $25,000 in jewelry by someone presumably still aboard the liner France with the loot was reported Saturday by police.

The French liner sailed from New York Thursday and is due at Le Havre, France, on Tuesday.

J. R. Gordon, president of the International Nickel Co., reported the theft to the ship's captain.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Books For All Types Available

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

During the past week a wealth of new books have been added to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. There are books to interest readers of every type and the collection has been enriched by the additions to many fields. First let's look at the new books of fiction. Catherine Gaskin is one of the best modern writers of novels about strong and dominant women, with the scene laid in period surroundings. Her latest novel "The Tilsit Inheritance" follows this pattern and all readers will enjoy following the career of Ginny Tilsit. "Rebel In Blue" by Herman Toepperwein is an exciting story of the Southwest Frontier during the Civil War period. It is concerned with the German immigrants of Southwest Texas, who chose to remain loyal to the Union and covers a period about which little has been written. A very strong novel is "Molokai" by O. A. Bushnell. This is the story of the leper island of Hawaii. It is beautifully written and will capture the interest of many readers. "Tio Pepe" by Mary Lasswell is a delightful story by this humorous author, with the scene laid in Mexico.

A book for which we have had advance requests is "The Banker" by Leslie Waller. This is a novel about the tycoons of high finance and their mysterious world. It is an exciting book and is certain to be popular. "Tortoise by Candlelight" by Nina Bawden is a delightful and simple story which makes the reader feel better. Emmie Bean, the heroine is an enchanting character and one whom you will not soon forget. Gunter Grass, the German novelist, has quite a following in this country who will welcome his latest book "Cat and Mouse." "The Platinum Yoke" by McCready Houston is another of his excellent family stories.

Mystery stories and stories of intrigue and suspense are always in demand and there are several new titles this week. "On Her Majesty's Service" by Ian Fleming is the latest James Bond story. "The Distant Clue" by the Lockeidge's is the latest Captain Heimrich mystery. Agatha Christie is always good and her new book is "The Mirror Cracked." "Bound to Kill" is the title of the new mystery by John Blackburn and "Cry Havoc" by Richard Martin Stern is a novel of psychological suspense.

There are also a number of interesting non - fiction books offered this week. "God on the Secular Campus" by Richard Butler is an interesting discussion of the religious life of college students today. "Portrait of Karl Barth" by Georges Casalis is an interesting account of the theology of this minister who is so well-known on the European continent. "English Grammar Simplified" by James C. Fernald is a very fine book, for the person who wants to review his English grammar. "88 Men and 2 Women" is the title of a book by Clinton T. Duffy, who for many years was warden of San Quentin Prison. "The 365 Days" by Keith Irwin is a good discussion of our calendar. Parent's who need help with planning the education of their children, will want to read Nancy Larrick's "A Parent's Guide to Children's education. "Careers and Opportunities in Commercial Art" by J. I. Bigeleisen is a book which should interest many young people.

"Knit to Fit" by Ida Duncan will be useful to many women. "The New Jazz Book" by Joachim Berendt is a good study of that musical form. Thomas J. Watson has written the story of the IBM in a book which he calls "A Business and its Beliefs." "The Anxious Years" by Louis Filler is a collection of contemporary writing in the nineteen thirties. Two delightful books of humor are "Which Way to the Melting Pot" by Mircea Vasiliu and "Coronet Among the Weeds" by Charlotte Bingham.

"William Shakespeare; a Reader's Guide" by Alfred Harbage is a very useful study of this author. John A. Crow has written a very fine history of Spanish civilazation with the title "Spain; the Root and the Flower." A book about a little known land is "Mongolia, Unknown Land" by Jorgen Bisch. Samuel B. Griffith has made a contribution to the history of World War II with his "The Battle for Guadalcanal.

Latest In Series On King Louis

THE AGE OF LOUIS XIV. By Will and Ariel Durant. Simon & Schuster. $10.

With "The Age of Louis XIV," the Durants' impressive panorama of history, "The Story of Civilization," started back in 1935 with "Our Oriental Heritage," unfolds its eighth volume. There are two more to come.

The initial tone of this latest work is muted, surprising for such an effervescent writer as Will Durant, who undoubtedly is still the main creative force, whatever the contributions by his wife. However, we should in fairness remind ourselves that this is not merely one more in the series but actually a continuation of the previous volume, "The Age of Reason Begins." The Durants are grappling a major problem, that of adapting to four volumes the material that had been gathered for one, to cover the vast and complicated story of Western history, primarily European, between the Reformation and the French Revolution.

Wallace Is Provocative In New Book

THE THREE SIRENS. By Irving Wallace. Simon & Schuster. $5.95.

What could be spicier than a yarn contrasting primitive and modern attitudes towards sex, love, marriage and divorce?

Wallace, who stirred up a fuss with his novel about Nobel laureates in "The Prize," and earlier with his fictional account of sex surveys in "The Chapman Report," is back in the spice box with this one.

He makes use of a remote South Pacific Isle, on which a small, secret colony of mixed English and Polynesian ancestry has some uninhibited approaches to the he-and-she equation. A team of social anthropologists invades this Eden to study its mores.

The expedition is led by an elderly widow, Maud Hayden, who is ambitious about staging a scholarly coup. Most of those who accompany her bring a variety of their own sexual problems to this supposedly unbisaed investigation of the naive islanders.

Maud's anthropologist son is envious of his mother and has made a botch of his recent marriage. An academic expert on sex is a prudish, mamma's boy bachelor. A botanist and photographer has brought his 16-year-old daughter along, to get her away from a fast teen-age crowd. A woman psychoanalyst has a mental block preventing her from marrying. A very ugly nurse is weary of being a back-street mistress. And the wife of the team's financial backer, feeling middle-aged at 40, has insisted on joining the expedition because she is bored with social life.

Officers Aren't Human In Novel Army School

A SIGNIFICANT EXPERIENCE. By Gwyn Griffin. Holt. Rinehart. $3.

Short, shocking, barbaric is this book. Yet the reading of it may be summed up by reciting its own title.

The scene is a British training school for cadet officers, during the last war. An underage cadet is needed for intelligence work, and is sent to the school so that he may have a commission.

He is an English citizen, of English-Dutch parentage, but French - educated. Psychologically he is in another world from the Regular Army officers, arrogantly Prussian-like, who run a school dedicated to pounding out automatons with the right regimental insignia. So the boy becomes their hapless, fumbling, defenseless victim.

The crux of the story is a sadistic beating, vividly portrayed, which is inflicted on the young cadet by a clique of cruellly callous men who uphold a time-encrusted military tradition. The aftermath is ironically just.

The novel is more than a powerful indictment of the medieval, professional military mind. As one witness — a reserve officer — realizes, this is a catastrophe created by "a high, blank and solid wall of irrational class prejudice and caste totems, a wall which guarded and shut from the defiling touch of ordinary men a mass of ancient privileges, rites and traditions, a huge herd of ornamental but utterly useless sacred cows."

Griffin has demonstrated, in such novels as "Master of This Vessel" and "Freedom Observed," that he is a skilled delineator of man's battle against the forces of nature and the more vicious traits of his brethren.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Books For All Types Available

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

During the past week a wealth of new books have been added to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. There are books to interest readers of every type and the collection has been enriched by the additions to many fields. First let's look at the new books of fiction. Catherine Gaskin is one of the best modern writers of novels about strong and dominant women, with the scene laid in period surroundings. Her latest novel "The Tilsit Inheritance" follows this pattern and all readers will enjoy following the career of Ginny Tilsit. "Rebel In Blue" by Herman Toepperwein is an exciting story of the Southwest Frontier during the Civil War period. It is concerned with the German immigrants of Southwest Texas, who chose to remain loyal to the Union and covers a period about which little has been written. A very strong novel is "Molokai" by O. A. Bushnell. This is the story of the leper island of Hawaii. It is beautifully written and will capture the interest of many readers. "Tio Pepe" by Mary Lasswell is a delightful story by this humorous author, with the scene laid in Mexico.

A book for which we have had advance requests is "The Banker" by Leslie Waller. This is a novel about the tycoons of high finance and their mysterious world. It is an exciting book and is certain to be popular. "Tortoise by Candlelight" by Nina Bawden is a delightful and simple story which makes the reader feel better. Emmie Bean, the heroine is an enchanting character and one whom you will not soon forget. Gunter Grass, the German novelist, has quite a following in this country who will welcome his latest book "Cat and Mouse." "The Platinum Yoke" by McCready Houston is another of his excellent family stories.

Mystery stories and stories of intrigue and suspense are always in demand and there are several new titles this week. "On Her Majesty's Service" by Ian Fleming is the latest James Bond story. "The Distant Clue" by the Lockeidge's is the latest Captain Heimrich mystery. Agatha Christie is always good and her new book is "The Mirror Cracked." "Bound to Kill" is the title of the new mystery by John Blackburn and "Cry Havoc" by Richard Martin Stern is a novel of psychological suspense.

Chips From The Stump

John McKeithen

CLINTON (Special) — "The civil rights turmoil in these United States now can be laid directly at the door of the Washington administration who have tried to change a century old way of life with legislation," gubernatorial candidate John McKeithen told a crowd here Saturday.

McKeithen continued: "Civil rights legislation is with us because it got through an enlarged rules committee. A committee enlarged by the vote of one of the candidates in this race, the Kennedy assistant whip, Congressman Gillis Long."

"Congressman Long is obligated to tell the people of Louisiana who put him in this race, and who will he support in the 1964 presidential campaign," McKeithen said. "Morrison has made his position clear, he will support the Democratic nominee no matter what. The other candidates in this race, including me, have clearly stated that we will not support any administration that advocates the type of legislation now before Congress no matter what party."

"Only Congressman Long is conspicuous in his silence on this matter. He has tried instead to divert public attention from this paramount issued by resorting to name calling and accusation."

Kennon Rally

Robert F. Kennon, the candidate for governor, and Francis Dugas, lt. governor candidate, will be accompanied by Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman and Frank Voelker, state campaign manager.

Following the meeting here Monday night at 7 p.m., the Kennon - Dugas ticket will kickoff their first stump speeches in this area. They have chosen Farmerville at 10 a.m. Tuesday for the first stump speeches of the campaign.

At 4 p.m. on the same day they will appear in Bastrop. Passman and Voelker will appear with the candidates.

Passman endorsed the Kennon-Dugas ticket about two weeks ago. Voelker, who was a candidate for governor, withdrew from the race and announced his support of the Kennon - Dugas candidacy.

Kennon has made several stops throughout the state but has not conducted any stump appearances until the one Tuesday. The former governor, who served in 1952-56, has announced a platform covering a broad scope on principles of good government and a pledge to lead efforts to stop the re-election of President John F. Kennedy.

Dugas, now a Thibodaux lawyer, is a former member of the Louisiana House of Representatives from Lafourche parish.

A Kennon - Dugas - Voelker state - wide television appearance has been scheduled for next week. They will appear on stations serving the Monroe - West Monroe area Monday night.

Favors Leave

BATON ROUGE (AP) —Joseph Smither, a candidate for State Senate from East Baton Rouge, Saturday called on Education Supt. Shelby M. Jackson to place his daughter on leave of absence "since she apparently is acting as his campaign manager."

Jackson, a candidate for governor, forced members of his department, including Smither, to take a leave of absence while seeking public office. Smither, the department's public relations officer, earlier called on Jackson himself to take a leave during the campaign.

Smither said Jackson's daughter, Miss Patricia Jackson, is employed in the department at a reported yearly salary of $7,500 as executive secretary for youth study.

"I insist that Mr. Jackson, in fairness to all, should grant his very capable daughter a leave of absence so that she may devote full time to her duties as his campaign manager during the upcoming campaign," Smither said.

Morrison

LAPLACE, La. (AP)—DeLesseps Morrison, a candidate for governor, told the Democratic Association of Louisiana here Saturday that he was "unalterably opposed" to the Kennedy administration's civil rights program.

He called it "unjust and unworkable."

Morrison also criticized unwarranted federal intervention in state affairs, adding: "I believe sound local government is the root of our democracy."

He cautioned voters not to be sidetracked by false issues, saying some candidates were attempting to make the presidential campaign an issue in the governor's race.

Mrs. Hinkel Named Adviser

RUSTON (Special) — Mrs. Martha Condra Hinkel, former dean of women at Louisiana Tech, has been appointed women's adviser at the University of Connecticut, according to information received here.

Mrs. Hinkel, a native of Browndale, Tex., is the wife of Dr. Cecil Hinkel, head of the department of theater at the University of Connecticut.

GOP Candidate Hits Demos In Mississippi Race

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Rubel Phillips, the Republican candidate for governor, charged Saturday that members of the Mississippi Municipal Association's executive committee viewed the governor's race only in terms of "their own political security."

Phillips said in a prepared statement that the committee, which endorsed Democrat Paul Johnson Friday, is "not interested in issues, qualifications, of anything other than their own political security."

The committee came out for Johnson after hearing him speak. It has invited Phillips to address its October meeting.

"I am surprised," said Phillips, "that the committee was not interested in hearing both candidates."

'Sugar Week' Gets Underway In State Today

The week of promotion for the multi-million-dollar industry is sponsored by the American Sugar Cane League and other cooperating agricultural organizations.

Gov. Davis cited the industry for producing about three-fourths of the sugar cane grown in the United States. Retail value of this crop is about $120 million.

Denver Lupe, LSU agricultural extension service sugar cane specialist, said Louisiana growers annually harvest about 300,000 acres of cane and spend millions producing their crops.

Chips From The Stump

John McKeithen

CLINTON (Special) — "The civil rights turmoil in these United States now can be laid directly at the door of the Washington administration who have tried to change a century old way of life with legislation," gubernatorial candidate John McKeithen told a crowd here Saturday.

McKeithen continued: "Civil rights legislation is with us because it got through an enlarged rules committee. A committee enlarged by the vote of one of the candidates in this race, the Kennedy assistant whip, Congressman Gillis Long."

"Congressman Long is obligated to tell the people of Louisiana who put him in this race, and who will he support in the 1964 presidential campaign," McKeithen said. "Morrison has made his position clear, he will support the Democratic nominee no matter what. The other candidates in this race, including me, have clearly stated that we will not support any administration that advocates the type of legislation now before Congress no matter what party."

"Only Congressman Long is conspicuous in his silence on this matter. He has tried instead to divert public attention from this paramount issued by resorting to name calling and accusation."

Kennon Rally

Robert F. Kennon, the candidate for governor, and Francis Dugas, lt. governor candidate, will be accompanied by Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman and Frank Voelker, state campaign manager.

Following the meeting here Monday night at 7 p.m., the Kennon - Dugas ticket will kickoff their first stump speeches in this area. They have chosen Farmerville at 10 a.m. Tuesday for the first stump speeches of the campaign.

At 4 p.m. on the same day they will appear in Bastrop. Passman and Voelker will appear with the candidates.

Passman endorsed the Kennon-Dugas ticket about two weeks ago. Voelker, who was a candidate for governor, withdrew from the race and announced his support of the Kennon - Dugas candidacy.

Kennon has made several stops throughout the state but has not conducted any stump appearances until the one Tuesday. The former governor, who served in 1952-56, has announced a platform covering a broad scope on principles of good government and a pledge to lead efforts to stop the re-election of President John F. Kennedy.

Dugas, now a Thibodaux lawyer, is a former member of the Louisiana House of Representatives from Lafourche parish.

A Kennon - Dugas - Voelker state - wide television appearance has been scheduled for next week. They will appear on stations serving the Monroe - West Monroe area Monday night.

Favors Leave

BATON ROUGE (AP) —Joseph Smither, a candidate for State Senate from East Baton Rouge, Saturday called on Education Supt. Shelby M. Jackson to place his daughter on leave of absence "since she apparently is acting as his campaign manager."

Jackson, a candidate for governor, forced members of his department, including Smither, to take a leave of absence while seeking public office. Smither, the department's public relations officer, earlier called on Jackson himself to take a leave during the campaign.

Smither said Jackson's daughter, Miss Patricia Jackson, is employed in the department at a reported yearly salary of $7,500 as executive secretary for youth study.

"I insist that Mr. Jackson, in fairness to all, should grant his very capable daughter a leave of absence so that she may devote full time to her duties as his campaign manager during the upcoming campaign," Smither said.

Morrison

LAPLACE, La. (AP)—DeLesseps Morrison, a candidate for governor, told the Democratic Association of Louisiana here Saturday that he was "unalterably opposed" to the Kennedy administration's civil rights program.

He called it "unjust and unworkable."

Morrison also criticized unwarranted federal intervention in state affairs, adding: "I believe sound local government is the root of our democracy."

He cautioned voters not to be sidetracked by false issues, saying some candidates were attempting to make the presidential campaign an issue in the governor's race.

Mrs. Hinkel Named Adviser

RUSTON (Special) — Mrs. Martha Condra Hinkel, former dean of women at Louisiana Tech, has been appointed women's adviser at the University of Connecticut, according to information received here.

Mrs. Hinkel, a native of Browndale, Tex., is the wife of Dr. Cecil Hinkel, head of the department of theater at the University of Connecticut.

GOP Candidate Hits Demos In Mississippi Race

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Rubel Phillips, the Republican candidate for governor, charged Saturday that members of the Mississippi Municipal Association's executive committee viewed the governor's race only in terms of "their own political security."

Phillips said in a prepared statement that the committee, which endorsed Democrat Paul Johnson Friday, is "not interested in issues, qualifications, of anything other than their own political security."

The committee came out for Johnson after hearing him speak. It has invited Phillips to address its October meeting.

"I am surprised," said Phillips, "that the committee was not interested in hearing both candidates."

GEORGE B. CAIN

Voting Machines Custodian Post Sought By Cain

George B. Cain, former supervisor of the Fifth District voting machine department, of Monroe has entered the state race for custodain of voting machines.

Cain, 38, resigned from the department to run for the office in the December 7th first Democratic primary.

A native of New Orleans, Cain has lived here for the past 10 years. He has over 10 years experience with automatic voting machines in Louisiana.

Cain is married to the former Glorida St. Pierre of St. Mary Parish. They have five chidlren.

He said he was an independent candidate.

His announcement follows:

"With over 10 years experience in the Voting Machine Department, I feel I am fully qualified for this office. Having been connected with the machines and elections, I have full knowledge of the many problems of the commissioners and other election officials.

"I will work with these officials and seek legislation in an attempt to solve these problems. I am aware of the many things that have gone on in this department in the past few years and they have cost the taxpayers of this state thousands of dollars and reduced the effeciency of this department. This needless waste should and must be stopped."

"I advocate good, honest, efficient and economical government and know that this is a department in which it can start. Since this department was separated from the Secretary of state in 1956, I have seen a needless rise in the cost of elections in his state."

"There are many ways in which the cost can be greatly reduced, such as the elimination of dead head payrolls, stop the use of state owned vehicles for private interests and many other things that are now going on in this department which I will discuss during my campaign.

"I have entered this race at the insistance of many people throughout this state, who are interested in seeing economy and efficiency returned to this department.

"I will campaign on my experience and past record of service rendered to the voters of Louisiana.

"I humbly solicit your vote and active support in my behalf."

Four From Tech Slated To Serve As Consultants

RUSTON (Special) — Four members of the Louisiana Tech faculty will serve as workshop consultants for the Webster Parish 1963-64 in-service program for teachers, which is sponsored by the International Paper Co. at Springhill.

The first of the series is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 24. Others will be held later during the school year.

Mrs. Maxine Pepper, third grade supervising teacher in the A. E. Phillips School at Tech, will serve as consultant for the study of arithmetic in the primary grades. She is a graduate of Delta State Teachers College and Boston University and has had considerable experience in working with teachers in formulating elementary school programs.

Miss Dorothy Hines, sixth grade supervising teacher at the Phillips school, will direct a study entitled "Individual Reading" for upper grade teachers. She is a graduate of Tech and the University of Arkansas. Her early program of individualized reading has provided experience and opportunities for leadership on the organizational plan of teaching reading.

Dr. Jason C. Owen, director of the campus laboratory school and associate professor of education at Tech, will direct the program on teaching reading in the primary grades. Dr. Owen has earned degrees from Louisiana Tech, Colorado State College of Education and the University of Missouri.

Miss Margaret Sumrall, associate professor of mathematics at Tech, will direct the study of mathematics for the upper grade teachers. Her educational background includes degrees from Mississippi State College for Women and Peabody College. She has served as a specialist for public school mathematics programs.

Theatre Nears Another Milestone

The Little Theatre of Monroe has charted a long course of progress since its modest beginning in the summer of 1932, when pans of ice and fans were placed around the room at the old Grand Street Theatre to provide the audience with a little relief from the heat. Here is a summation of some of the high points in the organization's history, and a preview of things to come.

STRAUSS PLAYHOUSE on Lamy Lane, home of Little Theatre of Monroe, Inc., represents an investment of around a quarter of a million dollars. It is one of the most modern and best equipped playhouses to be occupied by a community theatre.

Monroe Morning World

Monroe, La., Sept. 22, 1963 Page 1-B
Editorial — Spotlight — Sports

Another milestone in a long, successful history will be reached next month with the 150th major production of the Little Theatre of Monroe.

"Auntie Mame" is the colorful comedy chosen to celebrate this event as the opener of the 32nd play season of the local amateur group. A spectacular success on Broadway, the play is noted for its amusing situations, exotic costumes and elaborate settings.

Cast members from the first Little Theatre production in 1932, past presidents and representatives of other community theatres will be invited to the opening. The lobby of Strauss Playhouse will have on display 147 programs of the plays that preceded "Auntie Mame." Two have still not been found.

HIT PRODUCTIONS

The 1963-64 season will continue with an outstanding series of hits: "The Glass Menagerie," one of Tennessee Williams' finest; "Once Upon A Mattress," the gay musical that rocketed Carol Burnett to Broadway stardom; "Breath Of Spring," an uproarious British farce; and the Art Carney comedy success, "Take Her, She's Mine."

The Little Theatre is now in its annual membership drive. In contrast to earlier years when the roster seldom exceeded 1,000 and on occasion fell below 100, this season's total is expected to reach the newly adopted limit of 3,000. An attractive brochure describing the season's shows and the four classes of membership may be obtained by writing the Little Theatre at Box 868 or calling Mrs. Dewitt Milam or Mrs. Harold L. Woods Jr.

A community theatre does not achieve its 32nd season or its 150th production by accident. The history of the local group is a typical "rags to riches" story. It was organized in 1932 with the knowledge that several similar ventures had struggled and failed. At times it seemed that the new group would have no better fate.

BIG INVESTMENT

Today, of course, the Little Theatre of Monroe occupies the magnificent new Strauss Playhouse on Lamy Lane. Named in honor of the late F. "Pap" Strauss, prominent Monroe businessman, it represents an investment of nearly $250,000, without a penny of debt.

Each of the 257 reclining seats has a good view of the stage, the acoustics are excellent and air-conditioning provides comfort in all seasons. Backstage the 50-foot flyloft with 18 overhead lines permits rapid scene shifting, while the complete light and sound boards supply the effects needed for any show. Ample dressing rooms and a Green Room or lounge with kitchen equipment are appreciated by the amateur actors.

Strauss Playhouse with its modern facilities is the envy of many larger communities. But it was not always thus. When the newly organized group gave its first full length play, "The Whole Town's Talking," on July 14, 1932, pans of ice had to be placed around the room with fans in back of them to give the audience a little relief from the summer heat.

The scene for this production was the old Grand Street Theatre at 2300 South Grand, now converted to other purposes. After a few presentations there, the Little Theatre began 17 years of wandering from one temporary stage to another. The nearest it came to a permanent home was a rented warehouse which served as a place to build sets and hold rehearsals.

PERFORMANCES

Performances were given at various schools, notably Northeast State College, host to some 50 Little Theatre productions. For a while performances were alternated between Monroe and the Crosley School in West Monroe. At different times, Georgia Tucker, Central Grammar, Neville, and the old Ouachita Parish high school made their stages available. On three occasions courtroom dramas were given in the realistic setting of the parish courthouse.

World War II brought major problems to the Little Theatre as its workers left for military service. Even paper for programs was scarce. Helped by the influx of air force personnel at Selman Field, the group survived this crisis. During the war Shelley Winters happened to be in Monroe for a short time and acted in the Little Theatre production of "Twin Beds" in 1943.

The end of hostilities sent the military away while returning Monroyans were still preoccupied with matters more pressing than Little Theatre. For almost a year it proved impossible to give any plays at all and disbandment was threatened. Eventually two shows got on the boards in the spring of 1945 and the next season saw three.

TIDE TURNS

After this ebb in Little Theatre fortunes, the tide began to turn. Full seasons of five plays were quickly restored. In 1949 the long search for a permanent home was ended when the group secured the use of an old Red Cross recreation building at Selman Field. With limited funds, but unbounded enthusiasm, Selman Field Play-House was made ready for the theatre audiences that would congregate there for the next 12 years.

Ramshackle as it was, Selman Field Playhouse was a blessing. It saved Little Theatre the trouble of building sets at one place and staging its shows at another. A modest investment in lights and other equipment could be made. Too, the group dared to attempt shows that would have been impractical without a home of its own.

One such venture turned out to be the springboard to another upturn in Little Theatre fortunes. Its first musical comedy, "The Boy Friend," was an instantaneous success when offered in 1958. "Pajama Game" ran 14 performances to packed houses the following season. It was then that events were set in motion that two years later culminated in Strauss Play house.

BETTER SHOWCASE

After the acclaim won by "Pajama Game," Monroe businessman and philanthropist Clifford M. Strauss and his culturally - minded wife Roselyn decided the Little Theatre deserved a better showcase Hence the Strauss Foundation, already the donor of the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, offered a substantial sum for a new playhouse if others would match it.

Monroe architect Paul F. Stewart, in conjunction with theatre consultants, drew plans. United Gas donated the attractive two-acres site. Many other gifts were in the form of materials or services. Cash contributions came from a dozen large givers and hundreds of smaller ones. Over $25,000 was raised from subscriptions to seats at $100 apiece; each bears a plate with the name of the donor or someone honored by him. It was an outpouring of generosity beyond all expectations.

With its new playhouse in operation, the Little Theatre set out to serve Monroe, West Monroe and northeast Louisiana even more broadly. Two new classes of membership were established to attract a wider audience. Not only the Twin Cities, but 20 communities in northeast Louisiana and surrounding states are represented in the roll of members. Membership has tripled.

SPONSORSHIP

For the past three summers, Northeast Louisiana State college and Little Theatre have jointly sponsored a program which combines instruction in drama for academic credit with production of a play series for hot weather entertainment. Children's theatre has been another new development to which the Junior Charity League has made an effective contribution.

In a single season, Strauss Playhouse was scene of first amateur productions for two plays, "Bye, Bye Birdie," and "Come Blow Your Horn." Indeed the latter was still running on Broadway when it was seen here in May, 1962.

Without changing its 15 man board of directors, the Little Theatre introduced new officerships, standing committee and a board of trustees to help handle its enlarged functions. Today it is estimated that some 25,000 volunteer manhours per year are required to keep Little Theatre going.

Acting is but one phase, for there are many tasks backstage and in membership, box office, play reading, programs and dozens more.

RECOGNITION

The business firms of the area have been quick to recognize the value of community theatre as a cultural influence, a creative outlet and a drawing card for industry. Many take advertisements in the attractive play programs of Little Theatre, place its posters in their windows and lend furnishings and props needed for shows.

Publicity is the lifeblood of the entertainment field. Little Theatre has been fortunate in the support given its activities by the News-Star—World, KNOE-TV, and the other news media of Monroe and the surrounding area. The "Curtain Call" column in the Sunday World broadcasts Little Theatre news to a wide audience.

The present executive director, Richard M. Clark, now entering upon his fourth season here, draws on academic training secured while earning his master's degree at the University of Texas and on a wealth of practical experience gained in the theatre. For the past three years he has journeyed to New York each Christmas season for a concentrated round of play-going that keeps him up to date on the newest developments in Broadway productions.

TECHNICAL AID

Technical director Lonny Fraze will mastermind the sets for the new season. Fresh from a summer stock company where he was responsible for staging 11 shows in 13 weeks, Fraze is well qualified to aid Clark in all technical matters.

There is no other entertainment media which generates the special magic of a theatre with live actors on stage. But no enterprise succeeds unless it has a good product. Any Little Theatre eventually stands or falls on public acceptance of its presentations. The Monroe group has always been uncompromising in its insistence on highest quality of production that its resources would permit.

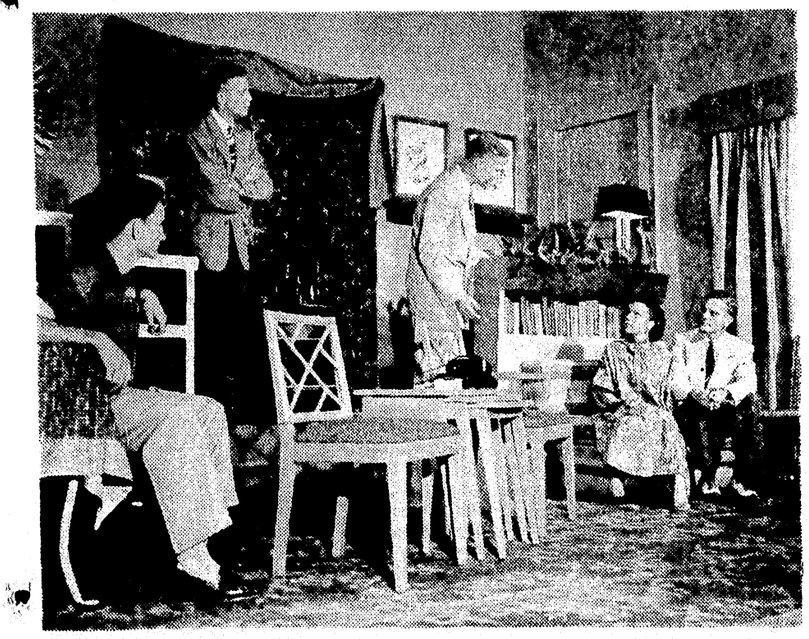

Today with unsurpassed facilities and with membership at a record level, Little Theatre of Monroe is on the threshold of what promises to be the greatest season in its history. "Auntie Mame" sets off fireworks to begin the banner year.

FEEJEE CARMACK, who is to play "Auntie Mame," makes-up in the ladies' dressing room at Strauss Playhouse.

Little Theatre Nears Another Milestone

The Little Theatre of Monroe has charted a long course of progress since its modest beginning in the summer of 1932, when pans of ice and fans were placed around the room at the old Grand Street Theatre to provide the audience with a little relief from the heat. Here is a summation of some of the high points in the organization's history, and a preview of things to come.

STRAUSS PLAYHOUSE on Lamy Lane, home of Little Theatre of Monroe, Inc., represents an investment of around a quarter of a million dollars. It is one of the most modern and best equipped playhouses to be occupied by a community theatre.

Another milestone in a long, successful history will be reached next month with the 150th major production of the Little Theatre of Monroe.

"Auntie Mame" is the colorful comedy chosen to celebrate this event as the opener of the 32nd play season of the local amateur group. A spectacular success on Broadway, the play is noted for its amusing situations, exotic costumes and elaborate settings.

Cast members from the first Little Theatre production in 1932, past presidents and representatives of other community theatres will be invited to the opening. The lobby of Strauss Playhouse will have on display 147 programs of the plays that preceded "Auntie Mame." Two have still not been found.

HIT PRODUCTIONS

The 1963-64 season will continue with an outstanding series of hits: "The Glass Menagerie," one of Tennessee Williams' finest; "Once Upon A Mattress," the gay musical that rocketed Carol Burnett to Broadway stardom; "Breath Of Spring," an uproarious British farce; and the Art Carney comedy success, "Take Her, She's Mine."

The Little Theatre is now in its annual membership drive. In contrast to earlier years when the roster seldom exceeded 1,000 and on occasion fell below 100, this season's total is expected to reach the newly adopted limit of 3,000. An attractive brochure describing the season's shows and the four classes of membership may be obtained by writing the Little Theatre at Box 868 or calling Mrs. Dewitt Milam or Mrs. Harold L. Woods Jr.

A community theatre does not achieve its 32nd season or its 150th production by accident. The history of the local group is a typical "rags to riches" story. It was organized in 1932 with the knowledge that several similar ventures had struggled and failed. At times it seemed that the new group would have no better fate.

BIG INVESTMENT

Today, of course, the Little Theatre of Monroe occupies the magnificent new Strauss Playhouse on Lamy Lane. Named in honor of the late F. "Pap" Strauss, prominent Monroe businessman, it represents an investment of nearly $250,000, without a penny of debt.

Each of the 257 reclining seats has a good view of the stage, the acoustics are excellent and air-conditioning provides comfort in all seasons. Backstage the 50-foot flyloft with 18 overhead lines permits rapid scene shifting, while the complete light and sound boards supply the effects needed for any show. Ample dressing rooms and a Green Room or lounge with kitchen equipment are appreciated by the amateur actors.

Strauss Playhouse with its modern facilities is the envy of many larger communities. But it was not always thus. When the newly organized group gave its first full length play, "The Whole Town's Talking," on July 14, 1932, pans of ice had to be placed around the room with fans in back of them to give the audience a little relief from the summer heat.

The scene for this production was the old Grand Street Theatre at 2300 South Grand, now converted to other purposes. After a few presentations there, the Little Theatre began 17 years of wandering from one temporary stage to another. The nearest it came to a permanent home was a rented warehouse which served as a place to build sets and hold rehearsals.

PERFORMANCES

Performances were given at various schools, notably Northeast State College, host to some 50 Little Theatre productions. For a while performances were alternated between Monroe and the Crosley School in West Monroe. At different times, Georgia Tucker, Central Grammar, Neville, and the old Ouachita Parish high school made their stages available. On three occasions courtroom dramas were given in the realistic setting of the parish courthouse.

World War II brought major problems to the Little Theatre as its workers left for military service. Even paper for programs was scarce. Helped by the influx of air force personnel at Selman Field, the group survived this crisis. During the war Shelley Winters happened to be in Monroe for a short time and acted in the Little Theatre production of "Twin Beds" in 1943.

The end of hostilities sent the military away while returning Monroyans were still preoccupied with matters more pressing than Little Theatre. For almost a year it proved impossible to give any plays at all and disbandment was threatened. Eventually two shows got on the boards in the spring of 1945 and the next season saw three.

TIDE TURNS

After this ebb in Little Theatre fortunes, the tide began to turn. Full seasons of five plays were quickly restored. In 1949 the long search for a permanent home was ended when the group secured the use of an old Red Cross recreation building at Selman Field. With limited funds, but unbounded enthusiasm, Selman Field Play-House was made ready for the theatre audiences that would congregate there for the next 12 years.

Ramshackle as it was, Selman Field Playhouse was a blessing. It saved Little Theatre the trouble of building sets at one place and staging its shows at another. A modest investment in lights and other equipment could be made. Too, the group dared to attempt shows that would have been impractical without a home of its own.

One such venture turned out to be the springboard to another upturn in Little Theatre fortunes. Its first musical comedy, "The Boy Friend," was an instantaneous success when offered in 1958. "Pajama Game" ran 14 performances to packed houses the following season. It was then that events were set in motion that two years later culminated in Strauss Play house.

BETTER SHOWCASE

After the acclaim won by "Pajama Game," Monroe businessman and philanthropist Clifford M. Strauss and his culturally - minded wife Roselyn decided the Little Theatre deserved a better showcase Hence the Strauss Foundation, already the donor of the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, offered a substantial sum for a new playhouse if others would match it.

Monroe architect Paul F. Stewart, in conjunction with theatre consultants, drew plans. United Gas donated the attractive two-acres site. Many other gifts were in the form of materials or services. Cash contributions came from a dozen large givers and hundreds of smaller ones. Over $25,000 was raised from subscriptions to seats at $100 apiece; each bears a plate with the name of the donor or someone honored by him. It was an outpouring of generosity beyond all expectations.

With its new playhouse in operation, the Little Theatre set out to serve Monroe, West Monroe and northeast Louisiana even more broadly. Two new classes of membership were established to attract a wider audience. Not only the Twin Cities, but 20 communities in northeast Louisiana and surrounding states are represented in the roll of members. Membership has tripled.

SPONSORSHIP

For the past three summers, Northeast Louisiana State college and Little Theatre have jointly sponsored a program which combines instruction in drama for academic credit with production of a play series for hot weather entertainment. Children's theatre has been another new development to which the Junior Charity League has made an effective contribution.

In a single season, Strauss Playhouse was scene of first amateur productions for two plays, "Bye, Bye Birdie," and "Come Blow Your Horn." Indeed the latter was still running on Broadway when it was seen here in May, 1962.

Without changing its 15 man board of directors, the Little Theatre introduced new officerships, standing committee and a board of trustees to help handle its enlarged functions. Today it is estimated that some 25,000 volunteer manhours per year are required to keep Little Theatre going.

Acting is but one phase, for there are many tasks backstage and in membership, box office, play reading, programs and dozens more.

RECOGNITION

The business firms of the area have been quick to recognize the value of community theatre as a cultural influence, a creative outlet and a drawing card for industry. Many take advertisements in the attractive play programs of Little Theatre, place its posters in their windows and lend furnishings and props needed for shows.

Publicity is the lifeblood of the entertainment field. Little Theatre has been fortunate in the support given its activities by the News-Star—World, KNOE-TV, and the other news media of Monroe and the surrounding area. The "Curtain Call" column in the Sunday World broadcasts Little Theatre news to a wide audience.

The present executive director, Richard M. Clark, now entering upon his fourth season here, draws on academic training secured while earning his master's degree at the University of Texas and on a wealth of practical experience gained in the theatre. For the past three years he has journeyed to New York each Christmas season for a concentrated round of play-going that keeps him up to date on the newest developments in Broadway productions.

TECHNICAL AID

Technical director Lonny Fraze will mastermind the sets for the new season. Fresh from a summer stock company where he was responsible for staging 11 shows in 13 weeks, Fraze is well qualified to aid Clark in all technical matters.

There is no other entertainment media which generates the special magic of a theatre with live actors on stage. But no enterprise succeeds unless it has a good product. Any Little Theatre eventually stands or falls on public acceptance of its presentations. The Monroe group has always been uncompromising in its insistence on highest quality of production that its resources would permit.

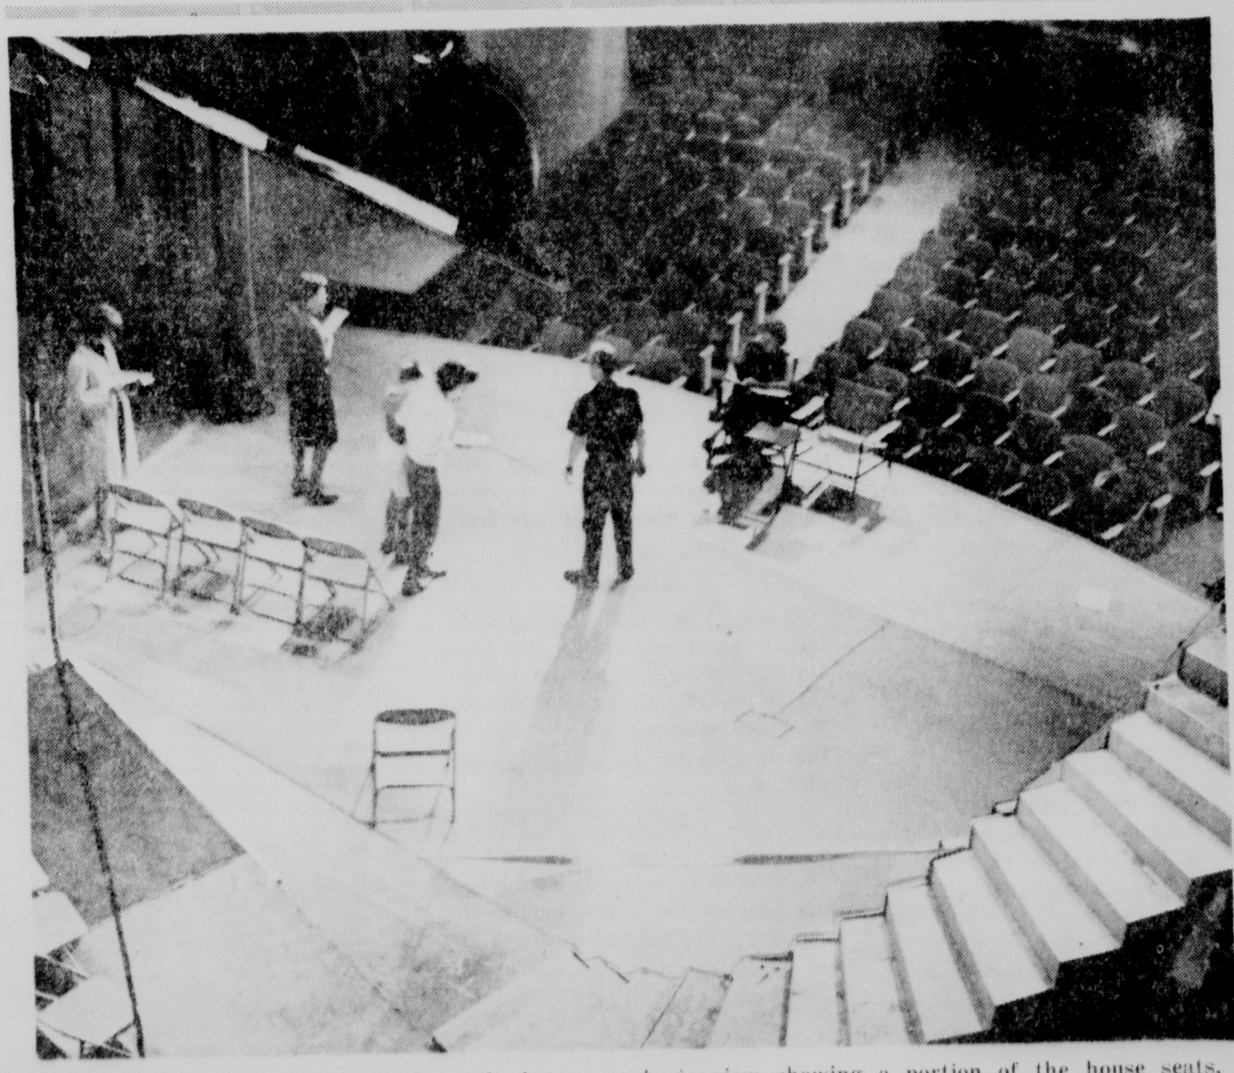

Today with unsurpassed facilities and with membership at a record level, Little Theatre of Monroe is on the threshold of what promises to be the greatest season in its history. "Auntie Mame" sets off fireworks to begin the banner year.

Church And State

To most people, the United States constitutional amendment providing separation of church and state is simple enough. It means the church won't try to run state or secular affairs and the state won't try to run religious affairs.

It is uncomplicated and there was never any need to ban worship from schools or other public institutions, as long as they were not trying to run religious affairs — which they were not.

Now we seem to have reached two extremely undesirable situations. In one, the supreme court actually is interfering with religion by banning recognition of it in state institutions. In another, an organization which bears a church name and which claims to represent millions of church people has become an active political organization, attempting to impose its influence in national and state political affairs.

Sacred Thing

In the lives of millions of people, the most sacred thing is their religion. Ancestors of many of us came to this country to enjoy religious freedom. By this, our forefathers meant not merely the right to worship as they chose but also the right to have their religion kept free of politics.

It is profoundly disturbing to many Protestants that the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. should have, in the 13 years of its existence, grown into an ambitious political organization that runs counter to the deepest beliefs of an extremely large proportion of those millions of members it purports to represent.

Most recent cause for dismay among concerned churchmen was the role of the council's commission on religion and race in organizing the August 28 march on Washington and in demending that congress take specific legislative action.

Many members of the denominations belonging to the Council of Churches were shocked to discover that the organization had acted in a widely publicized manner in cooperation with the Freedom House organization.

They were equally shocked to discover that the council had affiliated itself in publicity and paid propaganda with such individuals as Roy Wilkins, Negro head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Paul G. Hoffman, who is director of the United Nations special fund which is currently aiding Fidel Castro's government with American funds contributed through the U. N.

Other Protestants were startled to discover that the Council of Churches had gone on record as favoring "a massive federal publics works program." This is shocking pa[illegible]ation in state and secular affairs by an organization which purports to represent many of the Protestant churches and which should stay out of politics, particularly at the level to which it has intruded.

Amazingly, the Council of Churches has published statements in the language of left-wing radical extremists, which coincides almost exactly with those of the communists. The council has repeated baseless charges of "police brutality" and people working "at slave wages."

What has all this to do with religion? asked many concerned churchmen. This is the same question that other citizens asked in 1959 when the World Order Study Conference, sponsored by the Council of Churches, proposed recognition of Red China and its admission to the United Nations.

Other churchmen bore in mind the fact that the council's department of church and economic life had been helped into existence by funds provided by the United Auto Workers Union, of which Walter Reuther is president. In addition, the council received funds from the Philip Murray Foundation and the Sidney Hillman Foundation, organizations established in memory of former leaders of the C. I. O. The council's consistent record of favoring the same political objectives as big unionism has to be thought of in connection with these gifts.

There is a strong wave of protest within Protestant churches that is directed against the council. Many individual churches have registered a dissent from the council's stands. But local churches often are unable, because of complicated organizational arrangements, to individually remove financial support. Within the council itself, a small group of leaders holds great power.

The record of council officials becoming involved in radical causes is a continuing insult to responsible church members whose churches are caught up in membership. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, for instance — former head of the council — has been a signer of innumerable radical petitions. For example, he lent his name in 1961 to the Conference of Greater New York Peace Groups which opposed nuclear defenses for America's allies. Other signers included Cyrus Eaton, the industrialist who boasts of his friendship with Nikita Khrushchev, W. E. DuBois, the late founder of the N.A.A.C.P., who openly joined the Communist Party a year ago; Owen Lattimore, an advocate of appeasement in Asia; and Norman Thomas, longtime socialist leader.

The average Protestant churchmen believe that the council's role should be restricted to missionary and other related charitable work. Deeply feared and resented is the development of the councils into an organization that not only calls on Congress to pass radical legislation but that becomes militantly involved in the organization and direction of mass movements that many citizens and churchmen regard as destructive of law and order and the intelligent conduct of the public business.

When a purported church organization plunges deep into secular politics and adopts the tactics of demagogues and paid propagandists, as well as those of the Communist party, it forfeits any claims to respect which it formerly may have made. It violates the intent of the constitutional amendment which said church and state should remain separate.

Never Quite Enough

One scientist, opposing moon race expenditures, suggested, among other things, that more money be spent on old age pensions and possibly other phases of welfare.

If we were to abandon efforts to break out of a world that is fast becoming too small, which we probably won't, it might be better to give taxpayers the benefit of money thus saved by reducing taxes.

Today, more people are on relief than in the great depression. The cost of relief far exceeds $100 a year per taxpaying family. This has occurred despite social security, unemployment compensation and other welfare measures.

The drop in crime that was supposed to accompany liberalized relief has not materialized.

Eventually, when virtually everybody gets on relief or government payrolls, we arrive at full socialism, living standards and wage standards drop, the government bosses everything and freedom is gone.

Queen Elizabeth I is said to haunt the library at Windsor Castle and to appear at the battlements on Christmas eve. Guards say they recognize the Queen by her flaming-red wig and olive complexion.

American Cabinet Seeing New Racial Infiltrations

FOR THE FIRST TIME within their recollection newspaper copy desks are having trouble spelling the names of members of the president's cabinet. With a Celebrezze as Secretary of Health Education and Welfare — the desks asks whether the last syllable has two ee's or two zz's? — and now a Gronouski as Postmaster General — do you spell that with a u or a w? — the blue pencil boys are shaking heads as they did when large athletic gentleman with difficult alphabetical combinations for surnames were headlined as the "Fighting Irish" of Notre Dame.

In short the cabinet is seeing new racial infiltrations. The Italians and the Poles, sizeable segments of the American electorate, are represented for the first time by Anhony J. Celebrezze, former Mayor of Cleveland and a native of Italy, as Secretary of HEW and by John A. Gronousky, a native of Wisconsin of Polish descent, as Postmaster General.

It is taken for granted that the White House considered the large Italian and Polish votes, chiefly in midwestern and eastern urban centers, in going outside the traditional range of Anglo-Saxon, Scotch-Irish - German names in the last two cabinet picks.

FEW PEOPLE CAN rattle off the names of the President's cabinet without pause. These important functionaries, for whom the Constitution of the United States makes no specific provision, came into existence in 1789 when George Washington named the earliest four to head the government departments which he set up. But the cabinet proper did not include the Postmaster General until forty years later.

There was a Postmaster General from the beginning, but he came under the Treasury Department. Only a long range dreamer then would have foreseen the Department of Health Education and Welfare, created in 1953, but now almost as well known to the general public as the Post Office Department.

The suspicion that the Postmaster General, like the Secretary of HEW before him was named with some idea that his choice would influence a great mass of voters (of Polish descent) gives a new twist to the political implications of the Postmaster Generalship. For the first half of this century, most holders of that office were chosen because they were regarded as master politicians able to run party affairs.

The Post Office Department got along very well under civil service and the PMG concentrated on handling out political patronage to keep the party organization strong.

THAT ERA ENDED with President Harry S. Truman who had a Missouri politician, Robert E. Hannegan, as his party liaison officer. Some Republicans speak of A. E. Summerfield of Michigan, the Eisenhower PMG, as a patronage distributor, but others recall that he was singularly inept in party politics though an excellent administrator of the department.

Gronousky was picked over half a dozen other mentioned possibilities who probably know more about politics than he. As the Wisconsin state tax commissioner, he is said to have been first considered for internal revenue commissioner but that job is held by an exceptionally able chief, Mortimer M. Caplin.

It is also probably more than coincidence that the state from which the new cabinet officers come, Ohio and Wisconsin, are two in the middle west which Kennedy lost to Richard M. Nixon in 1960, a disappointment the President is determined shall not recur. With passing years, less attention has been given to the state distribution of cabinet jobs.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Nurse Interferes In Child-Raising

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My problem isn't very serious, although it may develop into an unpleasant situation. I am related by marriage to a registered nurse, who has not practiced for quite a long while. She is always with my husband's family and causes quite a bit of needless worry.

She insists that our 2-year-old has worms. I have consulted my doctor and he said that she hasn't. Well, yesterday she said that our child has yellow jaundice. The doctor pooh-poohs that, too. The nurse also says that our youngest, 4 months old, is miserably nervous. I have listened to this time after time, until I really sick of it.

What should I do? I like this lady very much, and she is wonderful to children. I haven't yet told her that the doctor says she is wrong on all counts. How can I handle this without hurting her feelings? I'd like this stopped before all my children become neurotic. — Young Mommie

HOW TO HANDLE HER

Comment: You say this nurse is good - hearted and a nice person. That's the trouble with some people who are so basically nice and want to be helpful, that they treat where they shouldn't.

Any doctor will tell you that medical diagnosis is beset with many pitfalls. Lord knows, we doctors make more diagnostic mistakes than we'd like.

The point I am trying to make is that no one but a doctor — whether it be a nurse, or a doctor's wife — should venture into this dangerous game. The stakes are too high: health and life.

What to do? You will have to choose between hurting her feelings and, as you say, bringing up a family of neurotics. If she is understanding, it shouldn't be difficult. Just tell her that from now on you've decided to take medical advice only from your family doctor.

LOW BLOOD SUGAR

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I recently read a letter in your column from a young woman who had complaints similar to mine. This poor soul complained of many nervous symptoms (dizziness, palpitation, etc.), all of which I have experienced.

I discussed it with several doctors and some made a big joke out of the whole thing. One said I was imagining it and that if I didn't pull myself together he'd have to refer me to a psychiatrist.

I got to the point that I continually felt as if I were losing my balance and falling. No luck. The next step was the eye doctor.

I could bless him. He said he could find nothing wrong with my eyes, but he had seen a case similar to mine which turned out to be due to hyperinsulinism (low blood sugar).

He immediately referred me to a new internist who was interested in metabolic diseases. He took blood sugars and other tests. Lo and behold! My trouble was low blood sugar.

He said it wasn't due to any tumor in the pancreas gland; he called it "idiopathic hypoglycemia" — which, as you know, means low blood sugar of unknown origin.

He put me on a high protein, low carbohydrate diet, and within weeks I began to feel like a normal human being again. My reason for writing is in hopes that my experiences may help many other people who go from doctor to doctor not realizing what is wrong. — Mrs. B.

COMMENT: Low blood sugar often goes undiagnosed and is treated as nervousness. In severe cases the cause may be an "islet tumor" in the pancreas. Operation removes the cause and the patient gets well.

But there are many more cases of idopathic hypoglycemia. We don't know the cause. Whereas we used to give carbohydrates to such cases years ago, now we help by reducing these and increasing protein intake. I think many nervous patients should have the benefit of blood sugar studies.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "Practical Information for Shingles Patients," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

Labor Boss Tries To Hurt Company

FOR MOST PEOPLE, labor-management relations mean strikes, charge and counter-charge, and industrial dislocation. For some companies and unions, however, it means finding a way to co-exist peacefully, to pay the maximum wages yet keep industry alive. In the case of General Electric and the International Union of Electrical Workers (AFL-CIO), it is confusion compounded.

On the one hand, the company tries its best to do the right thing by its employees—as it has always done. On the other hand, the union (or to be fair about it, its pugnacious president, James Carey) feels that to get along with management will violate all the rules and perhaps put into office a more reasonable labor leadership. As a result, Mr. Carey has devoted himself less to labor relations and more to violent name-calling. Given another kind of management, the dues payer would have lost substantially.

The proof of the pudding — and it should serve to inform other companies and unions — is in General Electric's brand new increase in pension payments to retired employees. Without any prompting or threats from the IUE, GE has increased its medical and hospitalization insurance coverage to some 25,000 retired employees — making them eligible for non-Kennedy Medicare payments up to $6,000 a year for themselves and their wives.

Jim Carey is, of course, furious at this new development. He likes it better when the companies doing business with the IUE are nasty to workers. Then he can justify his unshakable anti-business policy. This is good labor politics, or so Mr. Carey believes. It reflects a vewpoint perhaps conditioned by the fact that Mr. Carey has not done a day's work in a plant since he was 21 years old. Those of us who have had to work for a living think somewhat differently.

GENERAL ELECTRIC'S unilateral increase in the benefits it gives its employees has only been a continuation of its traditional policy of getting along with unions. This policy has, sadly enough, not paid off in the eyes of Jim Carey and other doctrinaire labor leaders. They hate GE precisely because it has met the union more than halfway.

A look at the record show that GE established a pioneer pension plan in 1912. Under the New Deal, it agreed voluntarily to collective bargaining, thus sparing its workers the kind of violent strikes which shook other industries. The Harvard Business Review recently pointed out that "by 1938, GE had signed a company-wide agreement with the newly formed (United Electrical Workers)" — precursor of the IUE — "without strike or legal bickering."

The GE story is important today because the company developed a new philosophy of collective bargaining in order to cope with Master Carey's explosive demagoguery. Under Lemuel Boulware, one of its vice presidents, GE embarked on a collective bargaining course which involved a "communications" program with its employees. The Boulware line: Tell them the truth. The unions immediately tagged this new approach "Boulwarism" and tried to make the term a dirty word.

BUT "BOULWARISM" was simply an application to collective bargaining practices of American business principles. It meant that a company would carefully examine labor's demands, compare them with its capabilities and abilities for increasing wages and fringe benefits, and then make the best possible offer. In the past, to meet labor's onslaught, management's counter-offer was always hypocritically low to permit "bargaining." (Read: Haggling.) GE, moreover, was always ready to revise its offer if the union provided information which justified a bigger settlement— and in a number of instances, it readily increased its offer.

Jim Carey did not like this. For one thing, it deprived him of the chance to proclaim a great (and paper) victory after every contract negotiation. Secondly, it made the company look good to employees. The National Labor Relations Board seems to agree with him that "bargaining in good faith" means making an unconscionably low offer and then backing down—a practice common in the bazaars of the Orient.

An NLRB examiner has cited GE — and, if his decision sticks, all of management — for an "unfair labor practice" because of "Boulwarism." The examiner listed five legal acts by GE, and said that in combination they were illegal. As the Harvard Business Review noted, the examiner constructed a "theory of illegality resulting from a series of legal acts."

Given this kind of reasoning, I am surprised that Jim Carey, the IUE, and the NLRB have not attempted to throw GE into the tank for offering a pension plan which makes Medicare unnecessary and unwanted. In the upside-down reasoning of the labor moguls, the more management does right, the wronger it is, which may explain why the IUE is losing members.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U.S. Senator From Arizona

ADM. GEORGE W. Anderson recently supplied an interesting footnote to the struggle of the military men in the Pentagon to keep from being entirely subordinated to computer-minded civilians. The former Chief of Naval Operations warned that a lack of confidence and trust was developing in the Pentagon that could jeopardize our national security.

It will be remembered that Admiral Anderson was retired as America's naval chieftain last July 1 after serving one two-year term. The administration decided not to renew his term, partly because of his outspoken criticism of the Pentagon decision on the TFX fighter plane contract and partly because of what was regarded as his uncooperative attitude toward the civilian staff of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

The admiral's remarks came as a surprise to even his closest Navy friends. They were made before the National Press Club just one day after Anderson was sworn in as Ambassador to Portugal. It had been believed that this continued close association with the New Frontier would muffle or halt his criticism of the Defense Department.

Admiral Anderson told the assembled newsmen that he had decided to speak out because of his growing concern over trends developing in the Pentagon.

"I question neither the motivation, patriotism, dedication or ability of anyone, but rather the trend of the organization in being," Admiral Anderson declared.

"My first concern is over the prospective naval and maritime position of the United States versus the Soviet Union. There is no doubt that the Soviets are moving forward rapidly on the high seas, both economically and militarily.

"On the other hand, much of our Navy is growing old. The status of American commercial shipping also is declining, while that of the Russians is increasing.

"Secondly, I am gravely concerned that within the Department of Defense there is not the degree of confidence and trust between the civilian and military echelons that the importance of their common objective requires. This two-way responsibility requires wisdom, respect and understanding from both sides.

"Uniformed personnel know that they must be continually responsive to national security requirements. They must also be responsible to any particular form of administrative civilian authority prevailing in the department at any particular time and to the statutory responsibilities of their service secretaries.

"Civilian officials and staff assistants should recognize that forceful expression of contrary views in proper channels or in frank response to congressional inquiry do not represent a challenge to the valid concept of civilian control. There is no such challenge. Our civilian officials should appreciate that the standard of service integrity equals that of religious communities and must be kept that way. Mutual confidence and trust are built the hard way and can be broken down quickly by one or two impulsive actions or intemperate judgments.

"Thirdly, I am concerned also regarding a trend in the major procurement policies with the Department of Defense to ultimate detriment of our military services. One proposal has been eliminate the requirements for advanced which would in effect specific recommendations by military personnel on matters such as design competitions or source selection procedures.

"I view any diminution of military recommendations on weapons procurement with grave alarm. Certainly the abrupt reversal of military recommendations without interim consultation, as was the case in the TFX and V-STOL (tactical fighter) contracts, is fraught at a minimum with unpleasant developments and potentially with grave dangers."

How do you stand, sir?

To most people, the United States constitutional amendment providing separation of church and state is simple enough. It means the church won't try to run state or secular affairs and the state won't try to run religious affairs.

It is uncomplicated and there was never any need to ban worship from schools or other public institutions, as long as they were not trying to run religious affairs — which they were not.

Now we seem to have reached two extremely undesirable situations. In one, the supreme court actually is interfering with religion by banning recognition of it in state institutions. In another, an organization which bears a church name and which claims to represent millions of church people has become an active political organization, attempting to impose its influence in national and state political affairs.

Sacred Thing

In the lives of millions of people, the most sacred thing is their religion. Ancestors of many of us came to this country to enjoy religious freedom. By this, our forefathers meant not merely the right to worship as they chose but also the right to have their religion kept free of politics.

It is profoundly disturbing to many Protestants that the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. should have, in the 13 years of its existence, grown into an ambitious political organization that runs counter to the deepest beliefs of an extremely large proportion of those millions of members it purports to represent.

Most recent cause for dismay among concerned churchmen was the role of the council's commission on religion and race in organizing the August 28 march on Washington and in demending that congress take specific legislative action.

Many members of the denominations belonging to the Council of Churches were shocked to discover that the organization had acted in a widely publicized manner in cooperation with the Freedom House organization.

They were equally shocked to discover that the council had affiliated itself in publicity and paid propaganda with such individuals as Roy Wilkins, Negro head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Paul G. Hoffman, who is director of the United Nations special fund which is currently aiding Fidel Castro's government with American funds contributed through the U. N.

Other Protestants were startled to discover that the Council of Churches had gone on record as favoring "a massive federal publics works program." This is shocking pa ation in state and secular affairs by an organization which purports to represent many of the Protestant churches and which should stay out of politics, particularly at the level to which it has intruded.

Amazingly, the Council of Churches has published statements in the language of left-wing radical extremists, which coincides almost exactly with those of the communists. The council has repeated baseless charges of "police brutality" and people working "at slave wages."

What has all this to do with religion? asked many concerned churchmen. This is the same question that other citizens asked in 1959 when the World Order Study Conference, sponsored by the Council of Churches, proposed recognition of Red China and its admission to the United Nations.

Other churchmen bore in mind the fact that the council's department of church and economic life had been helped into existence by funds provided by the United Auto Workers Union, of which Walter Reuther is president. In addition, the council received funds from the Philip Murray Foundation and the Sidney Hillman Foundation, organizations established in memory of former leaders of the C. I. O. The council's consistent record of favoring the same political objectives as big unionism has to be thought of in connection with these gifts.

There is a strong wave of protest within Protestant churches that is directed against the council. Many individual churches have registered a dissent from the council's stands. But local churches often are unable, because of complicated organizational arrangements, to individually remove financial support. Within the council itself, a small group of leaders holds great power.

The record of council officials becoming involved in radical causes is a continuing insult to responsible church members whose churches are caught up in membership. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, for instance — former head of the council — has been a signer of innumerable radical petitions. For example, he lent his name in 1961 to the Conference of Greater New York Peace Groups which opposed nuclear defenses for America's allies. Other signers included Cyrus Eaton, the industrialist who boasts of his friendship with Nikita Khrushchev, W. E. DuBois, the late founder of the N.A.A.C.P., who openly joined the Communist Party a year ago; Owen Lattimore, an advocate of appeasement in Asia; and Norman Thomas, longtime socialist leader.

The average Protestant churchmen believe that the council's role should be restricted to missionary and other related charitable work. Deeply feared and resented is the development of the councils into an organization that not only calls on Congress to pass radical legislation but that becomes militantly involved in the organization and direction of mass movements that many citizens and churchmen regard as destructive of law and order and the intelligent conduct of the public business.

When a purported church organization plunges deep into secular politics and adopts the tactics of demagogues and paid propagandists, as well as those of the Communist party, it forfeits any claims to respect which it formerly may have made. It violates the intent of the constitutional amendment which said church and state should remain separate.

Never Quite Enough

One scientist, opposing moon-r a c e expenditures, suggested, among other things, that more money be spent on old age pensions and possibly other phases of welfare.

If we were to abandon efforts to break out of a world that is fast becoming too small, which we probably won't, it might be better to give taxpayers the benefit of money thus saved by reducing taxes.

Today, more people are on relief than in the great depression. The cost of relief far exceeds $100 a year per taxpaying family. This has occurred despite social security, unemployment compensation and other welfare measures.

The drop in crime that was supposed to accompany liberalized relief has not materialized.

Eventually, when virtually everybody gets on relief or government payrolls, we arrive at full socialism, living standards and wage standards drop, the government bosses everything and freedom is gone.

American Cabinet Seeing New Racial Infiltrations

FOR THE FIRST TIME within their recollection newspaper copy desks are having trouble spelling the names of members of the president's cabinet. With a Celebrezze as Secretary of Health Education and Welfare — the desks asks whether the last syllable has two ee's or two zz's? — and now a Gronouski as Postmaster General — do you spell that with a u or a w? — the blue pencil boys are shaking heads as they did when large athletic gentleman with difficult alphabetical combinations for surnames were headlined as the "Fighting Irish" of Notre Dame.

In short the cabinet is seeing new racial infiltrations. The Italians and the Poles, sizeable segments of the American electorate, are represented for the first time by Anhony J. Celebrezze, former Mayor of Cleveland and a native of Italy, as Secretary of HEW and by John A. Gronousky, a native of Wisconsin of Polish descent, as Postmaster General.

It is taken for granted that the White House considered the large Italian and Polish votes, chiefly in midwestern and eastern urban centers, in going outside the traditional range of Anglo-Saxon, Scotch-Irish - German names in the last two cabinet picks.

FEW PEOPLE CAN rattle off the names of the President's cabinet without pause. These important functionaries, for whom the Constitution of the United States makes no specific provision, came into existence in 1789 when George Washington named the earliest four to head the government departments which he set up. But the cabinet proper did not include the Postmaster General until forty years later.

There was a Postmaster General from the beginning, but he came under the Treasury Department. Only a long range dreamer then would have foreseen the Department of Health Education and Welfare, created in 1953, but now almost as well known to the general public as the Post Office Department.

The suspicion that the Postmaster General, like the Secretary of HEW before him was named with some idea that his choice would influence a great mass of voters (of Polish descent) gives a new twist to the political implications of the Postmaster Generalship. For the first half of this century, most holders of that office were chosen because they were regarded as master politicians able to run party affairs.

The Post Office Department got along very well under civil service and the PMG concentrated on handling out political patronage to keep the party organization strong.

THAT ERA ENDED with President Harry S. Truman who had a Missouri politician, Robert E. Hannegan, as his party liaison officer. Some Republicans speak of A. E. Summerfield of Michigan, the Eisenhower PMG, as a patronage distributor, but others recall that he was singularly inept in party politics though an excellent administrator of the department.

Gronousky was picked over half a dozen other mentioned possibilities who probably know more about politics than he. As the Wisconsin state tax commissioner, he is said to have been first considered for internal revenue commissioner but that job is held by an exceptionally able chief, Mortimer M. Caplin.

It is also probably more than coincidence that the state from which the new cabinet officers come, Ohio and Wisconsin, are two in the middle west which Kennedy lost to Richard M. Nixon in 1960, a disappointment the President is determined shall not recur. With passing years, less attention has been given to the state distribution of cabinet jobs.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Nurse Interferes In Child-Raising

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My problem isn't very serious, although it may develop into an unpleasant situation. I am related by marriage to a registered nurse, who has not practiced for quite a long while. She is always with my husband's family and causes quite a bit of needless worry.

She insists that our 2-year-old has worms. I have consulted my doctor and he said that she hasn't. Well, yesterday she said that our child has yellow jaundice. The doctor pooh-poohs that, too. The nurse also says that our youngest, 4 months old, is miserably nervous. I have listened to this time after time, until I really sick of it.

What should I do? I like this lady very much, and she is wonderful to children. I haven't yet told her that the doctor says she is wrong on all counts. How can I handle this without hurting her feelings? I'd like this stopped before all my children become neurotic. — Young Mommie

Comment: You say this nurse is good - hearted and a nice person. That's the trouble with some people who are so basically nice and want to be helpful, that they treat where they shouldn't.

Any doctor will tell you that medical diagnosis is beset with many pitfalls. Lord knows, we doctors make more diagnostic mistakes than we'd like.

The point I am trying to make is that no one but a doctor — whether it be a nurse, or a doctor's wife — should venture into this dangerous game. The stakes are too high: health and life.

What to do? You will have to choose between hurting her feelings and, as you say, bringing up a family of neurotics. If she is understanding, it shouldn't be difficult. Just tell her that from now on you've decided to take medical advice only from your family doctor.

LOW BLOOD SUGAR

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I recently read a letter in your column from a young woman who had complaints similar to mine. This pour soul complained of many nervous symptoms (dizziness, palpitation, etc.), all of which I have experienced.

I discussed it with several doctors and some made a big joke out of the whole thing. One said I was imagining it and that if I didn't pull myself together he'd have to refer me to a psychiatrist.

I got to the point that I continually felt as if I were losing my balance and falling. No luck. The next step was the eye doctor.

I could bless him. He said he could find nothing wrong with my eyes, but he had seen a case similar to mine which turned out to be due to hyperinsulinism (low blood sugar).

He immediately referred me to a new internist who was interested in metabolic diseases. He took blood sugars and other tests. Lo and behold! My trouble was low blood sugar.

He said it wasn't due to any tumor in the pancreas gland; he called it "idiopathic hypoglycemia" — which, as you know, means low blood sugar of unknown origin.

He put me on a high protein, low carbohydrate diet, and within weeks I began to feel like a normal human being again. My reason for writing is in hopes that my experiences may help many other people who go from doctor to doctor not realizing what is wrong. — Mrs. B.

COMMENT: Low blood sugar often goes undiagnosed and is treated as nervousness. In severe cases the cause may be an "islet tumor" in the pancreas. Operation removes the cause and the patient gets well.

But there are many more cases of idopathic hypoglycemia. We don't know the cause. Whereas we used to give carbohydrates to such cases years ago, now we help by reducing these and increasing protein intake. I think many nervous patients should have the benefit of blood sugar studies.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "Practical Information for Shingles Patients," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

Labor Boss Tries To Hurt Company

FOR MOST PEOPLE, labor-management relations mean strikes, charge and counter-charge, and industrial dislocation. For some companies and unions, however, it means finding a way to co-exist peacefully, to pay the maximum wages yet keep industry alive. In the case of General Electric and the International Union of Electrical Workers (AFL-CIO), it is confusion compounded.

On the one hand, the company tries its best to do the right thing by its employees—as it has always done. On the other hand, the union (or to be fair about it, its pugnacious president, James Carey) feels that to get along with management will violate all the rules and perhaps put into office a more reasonable labor leadership. As a result, Mr. Carey has devoted himself less to labor relations and more to violent name-calling. Given another kind of management, the dues payer would have lost substantially.

The proof of the pudding — and it should serve to inform other companies and unions — is in General Electric's brand new increase in pension payments to retired employees. Without any prompting or threats from the IUE, GE has increased its medical and hospitalization insurance coverage to some 25,000 retired employees — making them eligible for non-Kennedy Medicare payments up to $6,000 a year for themselves and their wives.

Jim Carey is, of course, furious at this new development. He likes it better when the companies doing business with the IUE are nasty to workers. Then he can justify his unshakable anti-business policy. This is good labor politics, or so Mr. Carey believes. It reflects a vewpoint perhaps conditioned by the fact that Mr. Carey has not done a day's work in a plant since he was 21 years old. Those of us who have had to work for a living think somewhat differently.

GENERAL ELECTRIC'S unilateral increase in the benefits it gives its employees has only been a continuation of its traditional policy of getting along with unions. This policy has, sadly enough, not paid off in the eyes of Jim Carey and other doctrinaire labor leaders. They hate GE precisely because it has met the union more than halfway.

A look at the record show that GE established a pioneer pension plan in 1912. Under the New Deal, it agreed voluntarily to collective bargaining, thus sparing its workers the kind of violent strikes which shook other industries. The Harvard Business Review recently pointed out that "by 1938, GE had signed a company-wide agreement with the newly formed (United Electrical Workers)" — precursor of the IUE — "without strike or legal bickering."

The GE story is important today because the company developed a new philosophy of collective bargaining in order to cope with Master Carey's explosive demagoguery. Under Lemuel Boulware, one of its vice presidents, GE embarked on a collective bargaining course which involved a "communications" program with its employees. The Boulware line: Tell them the truth. The unions immediately tagged this new approach "Boulwarism" and tried to make the term a dirty word.

BUT "BOULWARISM" was simply an application to collective bargaining practices of American business principles. It meant that a company would carefully examine labor's demands, compare them with its capabilities and abilities for increasing wages and fringe benefits, and then make the best possible offer. In the past, to meet labor's onslaught, management's counter-offer was always hypocritically low to permit "bargaining." (Read: Haggling.) GE, moreover, was always ready to revise its offer if the union provided information which justified a bigger settlement— and in a number of instances, it readily increased its offer.

Jim Carey did not like this. For one thing, it deprived him of the chance to proclaim a great (and paper) victory after every contract negotiation. Secondly, it made the company look good to employees. The National Labor Relations Board seems to agree with him that "bargaining in good faith" means making an unconscionably low offer and then backing down—a practice common in the bazaars of the Orient.

An NLRB examiner has cited GE — and, if his decision sticks, all of management — for an "unfair labor practice" because of "Boulwarism." The examiner listed five legal acts by GE, and said that in combination they were illegal. As the Harvard Business Review noted, the examiner constructed a "theory of illegality resulting from a series of legal acts."

Given this kind of reasoning, I am surprised that Jim Carey, the IUE, and the NLRB have not attempted to throw GE into the tank for offering a pension plan which makes Medicare unnecessary and unwanted. In the upside-down reasoning of the labor moguls, the more management does right, the wronger it is, which may explain why the IUE is losing members.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U.S. Senator From Arizona

ADM. GEORGE W. Anderson recently supplied an interesting footnote to the struggle of the military men in the Pentagon to keep from being entirely subordinated to computer-minded civilians. The former Chief of Naval Operations warned that a lack of confidence and trust was developing in the Pentagon that could jeopardize our national security.

It will be remembered that Admiral Anderson was retired as America's naval chieftain last July 1 after serving one two-year term. The administration decided not to renew his term, partly because of his outspoken criticism of the Pentagon decision on the TFX fighter plane contract and partly because of what was regarded as his uncooperative attitude toward the civilian staff of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

The admiral's remarks came as a surprise to even his closest Navy friends. They were made before the National Press Club just one day after Anderson was sworn in as Ambassador to Portugal. It had been believed that this continued close association with the New Frontier would muffle or halt his criticism of the Defense Department.

Admiral Anderson told the assembled newsmen that he had decided to speak out because of his growing concern over trends developing in the Pentagon.

"I question neither the motivation, patriotism, dedication or ability of anyone, but rather the trend of the organization in being," Admiral Anderson declared.

"My first concern is over the prospective naval and maritime position of the United States versus the Soviet Union. There is no doubt that the Soviets are moving forward rapidly on the high seas, both economically and militarily.

"On the other hand, much of our Navy is growing old. The status of American commercial shipping also is declining, while that of the Russians is increasing.

"Secondly, I am gravely concerned that within the Department of Defense there is not the degree of confidence and trust between the civilian and military echelons that the importance of their common objective requires. This two-way responsibility requires wisdom, respect and understanding from both sides.

"Uniformed personnel know that they must be continually responsive to national security requirements. They must also be responsible to any particular form of administrative civilian authority prevailing in the department at any particular time and to the statutory responsibilities of their service secretaries.

"Civilian officials and staff assistants should recognize that forceful expression of contrary views in proper channels or in frank response to congressional inquiry do not represent a challenge to the valid concept of civilian control. There is no such challenge. Our civilian officials should appreciate that the standard of service integrity equals that of religious communities and must be kept that way. Mutual confidence and trust are built the hard way and can be broken down quickly by one or two impulsive actions or intemperate judgments.

"Thirdly, I am concerned also regarding a trend in the major procurement policies with the Department of Defense to ultimate detriment of our military services. One proposal has been eliminate the requirements for advanced which would in effect specific recommendations by military personnel on matters such as design competitions or source selection procedures.

"I view any diminution of military recommendations on weapons procurement with grave alarm. Certainly the abrupt reversal of military recommendations without interim consultation, as was the case in the TFX and V-STOL (tactical fighter) contracts, is fraught at a minimum with unpleasant developments and potentially with grave dangers."

How do you stand, sir?

Democrats Scared?

Democratic party chiefs, it seems, have been working on the assumption that Senator Barry Goldwater had a big head start on the GOP nomination, and won't lose it unless the divided opposition can find and coalesce around a hero with as much grass-roots appeal. The pet theory previously cherished by Goldwater's GOP opponents and the Democrats that he would be knocked out of the primaries — has all but vanished. This is based in part on reports from New Hampshire, where the first primary will be held, that Goldwater can beat all comers — including President Kennedy if he would enter, which obviously he won't. Wisconsin and Illinois, the next two primary states, also show signs of leaning toward Goldwater Republicanism. The Democratic strategists have also developed some respect for the thesis that Goldwater can carry enough of the South, West and Midwest to beat Kennedy by winning only one or two big industrial states.

The Southern Negro Vote

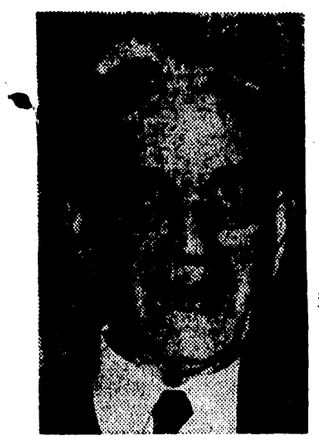

There is an excellent possibility that President Kennedy could lose most of the Southern States in the 1964 presidential election. In fact, Kennedy's men have already written off Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana.

However, his advisors are working on the theory that they could sneak up and upset GOP calculations with the Negro vote. Since the 1960 election, when Negro votes provided the balance for Kennedy in South Carolina and Texas, upwards of 250,000 more Negroes have registered in the 11 Dixie states. Between now and election day, Negro leaders predict at least another 250,000 will have registered, for a total of some 1,750,000. They predict that while Kennedy only captured between 50 to 75 per cent of the southern Negro votes last time, he will get better than 90 per cent next year. If this happens, it could easily give Kennedy Tennessee and Florida, which Nixon carried by small margins, as well as Texas, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

However, even close Kennedy advisers admit as of right now, the picture is anything but bright. The Kennedys strong drive in favor of the Negro has cost him many votes in other sections of the nation besides the south.

Washington Wash

SPEAKER John W. McCormack of the House came up with a new-type of charge the past week. He accused the Republicans of trying to kill President Kennedy's tax cut bill with a sneak back-door attack, adding it would be more "courageous" for them to fight in the open.

McCORMICK

McCormack made his charge after the Republicans accused Kennedy of double-talk in his pledges to put a lid on federal spending if Congress passes his two-year $11-billion tax reduction bill. At issue was a GOP rider to the bill when it comes up for House debate next week. The rider would bar the proposed reductions unless Kennedy submitted a substantially reduced budget. Earlier, Kennedy had appealed for public support of the measure and also against what he called partisan efforts to dilute or delay the bill. McCormack reported he was confident a tax bill would be passed by the House, but that he was merely "hopeful" that the Republican proposal would be beaten.

GOP National Chairman William E. Miller has charged the President "preached economic brinksmanship" and "credit card government."

OUTSIDE OF THE proposed tax cut, the biggest news development on capitol hill the past week was the various statements concerning the Test Ban Treaty. The Senate has agreed to vote at 11 a.m. next Tuesday on the ratification of the ban and the vote is expected to be overwhelmingly in favor of it, although some of the top men in the senate as well as military leaders see some danger in the treaty.

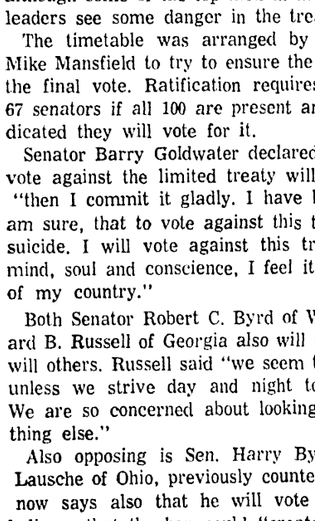

The timetable was arranged by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield to try to ensure the biggest possible turnout for the final vote. Ratification requires a two-thirds majority, or 67 senators if all 100 are present and voting. Some 80 have indicated they will vote for it.

Senator Barry Goldwater declared at the weekend that if his vote against the limited treaty will mean his political suicide, "then I commit it gladly. I have been told, as have others, I am sure, that to vote against this treaty is to commit political suicide. I will vote against this treaty because in my heart, mind, soul and conscience, I feel it detrimental to the strength of my country."

Both Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia and Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia also will vote against the measure as will others. Russell said "we seem to believe we could not exist unless we strive day and night to create the proper image. We are so concerned about looking pretty, we abandon everything else."

Also opposing is Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia. Sen. Frank Lausche of Ohio, previously counted as a supporter of the ban, now says also that he will vote against its ratification. He believes that the ban could "create a condition that will bring Russia to a position of supremacy in power."

ON THE RACIAL side, Rep. Carl Vinson, powerful chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, accused Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara of seeking to make servicemen into political agents in the fight against racial discrimination. Vinson announced he has introduced legislation that would make it a court-martial offense for military men to use the powers McNamara gave them July 26. Said Vinson — "My bill does not deal with segregation or integration. My bill keeps the military where it belongs — in the business of defending the nation." McNamara had authorized base commanders to declare off-limits areas where "relentless discrimination persists against Negro servicemen and their families." Later the Air Force had barred participation by its men and equipment in any public event where racial discrimination is practiced.

VINSON

Meanwhile, a House judiciary subcommittee has tentatively approved the voting rights and school desegregation sections of the President's civil rights bill. In some instances, the new bill is stronger than the one sought by Kennedy. In its present form, the voting section would cover state as well as federal election. Kennedy had only asked coverage of federal elections. The school section also was broadened to cover lawsuits aimed at desegregating publicly - owned facilities such as parks and beaches. Kennedy's original bill would have authorized the Justice Department to file desegregation suits on its own initiative only in school cases.

Still no action has been taken on the public accommodation section of the proposal, which faces heavy Republican opposition. It has been put aside.

Late Thursday, the President conferred with Negro leaders on the Birmingham situation which hit a new explosive point the past week when a bomb was thrown into a Negro church. Four Negro children were killed in the blast. After the meeting, the President announced he was sending Earl H. Blaik, former Army football coach, and Kenneth C. Royall, former secretary of the Army, into Birmingham to try to ease racial tensions there. At the same time he called for cooperation and restraint for all citizens in the city.

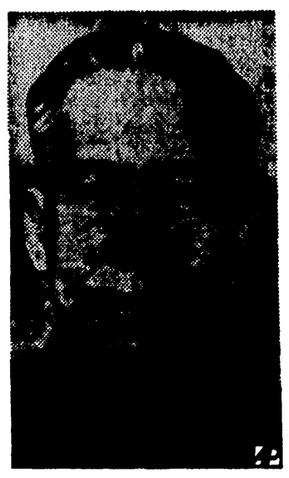

Earlier, Negroes had asked that federal troops be sent into the city. Apparently this was vetoed. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, obviously speaking for the administration, said he does not think that the sending of troops to Birmingham would solve the racial crisis there. He said: "We are not going to get the answer to this problem with bayonets. The answer, in the last analysis, rests in the local community and in the hearts of people."

IN ANOTHER development, Rep. Bob Wilson of California accused the President of "trying to pull the rug out from under the constitution. "Under the President's leadership," he said. "the new frontier has pushed backdoor spending which violates the spirit of the Constitution, tax-setting powers by the executive, which also runs contrary to the intent of our founders, and in general has attempted to circumvent, deride and downgrade the Constitution as the blueprint of our government."

A Lot Of Trouble

One word described the foreign scene the past week—Trouble. Anyplace you looked there was strife and explosive situations.

The word battle, coupled with thinly clad threats, continued between Russia and Red China. The Soviet Union started off by placing the blame squarely on Peking for starting the border fighting last fall with India; Said the Soviets — "we have to consider . . . that there are not and never have been grounds for the breaking out of the frontier conflict between India and China, let alone for this conflict to reach the stage of armed clashes." Later Russia warned Red China that good relations between states depends on respect for existing borders. Ironically the Soviet Union contains large chunks of former Chinese territory. The Chinese previously had issued statements about lost territories and had reminded the Russians that their 19th century ancestors had been more active than any other power at snatching Chinese territory under treaties.

SHAO-CHI

Then later in the week Liu Shao-Chi, president of Red China and heir - apparent of Communist party boss Mao Tze-tung, accused the Soviet Union of replacing revolution with survival as its guiding philosophy. He said the U.S. would not dare to use nuclear weapons in dealing with what he called wars of national liberation "because it would be most unpopular to use them. All in all there seemed to be little doubt but what the dispute between the two nations was getting worse — much worse . . .

THE BIRTH of Malaysia, which is made up of a federation of the British colonies of Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo, resulted in violent outbreaks. In Indonesia, one of the nation's opposing the federation, mobs burned the British embassy and destroyed other British property. British civilians started leaving Indonesia in droves even as the Indonesian government, at the prodding of London and Washington, declared martial law. The Philippines also gave the new federation a cold shoulder.

IN ANOTHER section of Asia, India and Pakistaini forces exchanged fire in a disputed border area between East Pakistan and India's State of Assam. The section is the subject of a disputed interpretation of the border settlement made after the partition of India and Pakistan. And in Caracas, Venezuela, terrorist gangs destroyed the DuPont Company's paint warehouse with fire bombs. Shouting pro-Castro slogans, the gang — armed with submachine guns — overpowered guards and set fire to the warehouse for the second time this year.

IN LONDON, Queen Elizabeth announced she is expecting her fourth child next year. On the other side of the government, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government was trying to decide what to do with the 50,000-word report by Lord Denning on the sex scandal that almost resulted in the government's fall. Word has leaked out that the report by Denning, who was named by Macmillan to ivestigate the situation, cleared all government ministers of "grave and scandalous" charges. The scandal broke after War Minister John D. Profumo admitted he had an affair with playgirl Christine Keeler at the same time she was also having relations with former Soviet naval attache Eugene Ivanov . . . .

ALSO IN London, a Church of England minister is defending the right of his pretty blonde wife to wear slacks in public. "Why shouldn't my wife wear slacks?" asked the Rev. Donald Lugg, 38, vicar of St. Alphage." Mrs. Lugg, 35, mother of two children, appeared at a recent church bazaar in a pair of fairly tight-fitting green slacks. A number of parishioners complained this was not dignified dress for a vicar's wife.

Along Domestic Row

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko came up the past week with new proposals on disarmanent — including the holding of an 18-nation summit meeting on that issue before next June 30. And he offered Moscow as a site. His proposals were contained in a major policy speech to the U.N. General Assembly that was devoid of cold war language. In general UN diplomats welcomed the mild language and Western leaders said they would give careful study of the proposals. . .

GROMYKO

ON FRIDAY, President Kennedy addressed the UN and said the world may have reached " a pause in the cold war." He suggested it be dramatized by a U.S.-Soviet expedition to the moon with the two nations pooling research and experience in space. His speech was described as a major foreign policy pronouncement. The President claimed the limited nuclear test ban treaty — which he predicted would win "overwhelming endorsement" from the U.S. senate next week — could prove "the start of a long and fruitful journey" toward peace. This speech was viewed in many quarters as the tipoff on what Kennedy will seek to win reelection on — peace and the test-ban treaty . . .

MEANWHILE, it was announced that Mrs. John F. Kennedy will make a private visit to Greece for two weeks in October. She will leave October 2 to join her sister and brother-in-law, Prince and Princess Stanislas Radziwill who have rented a house near Athens. . . .

IN LOS ANGELES, Sen. Barry Goldwater talked like a presidential candidate. He lashed President Kennedy for what he called "rocking chair leadership" and then pleaded for unity within his own Republican party, free or "purge" tactics. He said: "Rocking chair leadership isn't enough. Holding the line, preserving the status quo, isn't enough. Bit talk and little actions aren't enough. A frontier full of oxcart philosphies isn't enough".

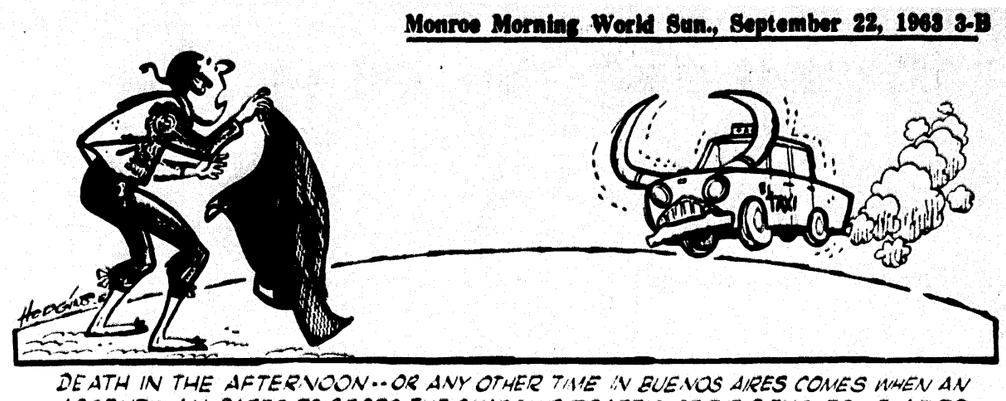

AT BATON ROUGE, an announcement said Louisiana tax collections in August amounted to $39,697,922, an increase of 10 per cent over August of 1962. State Collector Roland Cocreham said the collections for the first two months of the current fiscal year which began July 1 amounted to $78,773,208, a boost of $7,704,116. . . .

THE ARREST of five Negroes charged in connection with the operation of a check theft ring in Jackson, Mississippi was announced by the U.S. Secret Service. Two of the five were murder parolees, and the other three had served prison terms. The five were charged in connection with the theft and forgery of 15 treasury and three state welfare checks totaling about $1,000. . . .

IN JACKSON, Michigan, a racial fight erupted among pupils at a new high school over the beating of a white youth. A witness said Negroes threw rocks at helmeted policemen and knocked at least one to the ground. Ten Negro youths were arrested on disorderly conduct charges. . . .

A SURPRISE development the past week was the endorsement of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York by Teamsters Chief James R. Hoffa. Hoffa said he hopes Rockefeller wins the 1964 Republican presidential nomination "because I believe that he is a seasoned individual. . .

A SAD EVENT took place in New Brunswick, N.J. It came when the towering white oak that inspired the poem "Trees" by Joyce Kilmer got the ax. A band of tree experts braved a pouring rain on the Rutgers University campus to cut down the tree because it was rotting away. At its prime, the big oak stood 68 feet tall, and had a limb spread of 108 feet. Kilmer wrote the famous poem in 1914 and was killed in action in France four years later at the age of 31. The poem said in part—"I think that I shall never see . . . a poem lovely as a tree."

DEATH IN THE AFTERNOON--OR ANY OTHER TIME IN BUENOS AIRES COMES WHEN AN ARGENTINIAN DARES TO CROSS THE CHARGING TRAFFIC OF THE CITY'S BOULEVARDS. IT IS HOW YOU SAY, THE MOMENT OF TRUTH.

WHY DOES A PEDESTRIAN IN BUENOS AIRES CROSS THE STREET? TO REACH THE OTHER SIDE? MAYBE, BUT FEW OF THEM EVER MAKE IT.

TO AN ARGENTINE TAXI DRIVER, PEDESTRIANS ARE NOT ONLY BENEATH CONTEMPT; THEY'RE OFTEN BENEATH HIS FRONT WHEELS

Pedestrian's Life In Buenos Aires Is A Most Hazardous Thing At Best

EDITORS NOTE — Neither stop lights (they don't have any) nor police (drivers beat them up) nor pedestrians (they're beneath contempt as well as front wheels) keep the Argentine motorist from speeding at breakneck pace on his appointed rounds. It makes for the wildest traffic in the world, so terrifying New York's traffic commissioner took one look and fled.

By KEN DAVIS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Once upon a time a king of Spain ordered the streets of Buenos Aires, his kingdom on the River Plate, be built wide enough for two carts. Anything wider had to pay a royal tax.

Unfortunately, he didn't know the carts would turn into more than 300,000 automobiles, each piloted by a fearless fanatic and that, as a result, pedestrians would have to scurry across streets in coveys like quail to make it alive.

TRAFFIC BAD

In Paris, they tell how a new driver made 50 circuits of the Arc d'Triomphe before he escaped. In Buenos Aires, he wouldn't have lived to make the 50 circuits.

In Rio de Janeiro, they say when you're seated on a bus you have to hang onto handles or risk broken ribs. In Buenos Aires, who gets to sit down?

In Sao Paulo, Brazil, a New York news photographer of unchallenged Irish bravery started for an evening stroll, couldn't get up nerve enough to cross the street in front of the hotel and finally went to bed. In Buenos Aires, most of the streets are wider—therefore, happier hunting for the 18,000 cabs.

In Buenos Aires, the real test of bravery is an intersection—just any intersection. There they play a local bit of foolhardiness which is second cousin to Russian roulette. In the States it's called "chicken."

You steam up to an intersection under a full head of Argentina gasoline. The driver who doesn't lose his nerve — or get killed—makes it across the street first.

I know a Texan who reads the scrap paper in his pocket notebook on cab rides. "I just don't have nerve enough to watch what's happening to me," he confesses.

HARDENED

I haven't become hardened sufficiently to read anything yet. I just sit frozen in disbelief and horror. Every time I climb onto the sidewalks, safe, I expect applause similar to that for the high-wire act without net.

I took a 30-cent ride which covered a small area of this city of six million and my cabby, whose timing was off that day, scored three near-misses — two-inch margins, which is above par —and one light thump on a pedestrian silly enough to step off the curb. This was a conscientious cabby. He looked in his rear-vision mirror for nearly a block.

Over the years police have found more pedestrians getting killed than the combined total of drivers and passengers.

So they're putting up 1,000 electric traffic signals.

One hundred seventy are installed. Two hundred eight more go up in the next 100 days. Eventually, some of the charm of just being alive and on foot may be gone.

About two years ago, Buenos Aires put up its first light near the Retiro railroad station. It wasn't accidental, it seems to me, that the station's name means "haven." The streets there were just too wide to give the pedestrian a chance.

They took the light down after awhile. They said it didn't work.

About 18 months or so ago, city authorities tried again. They began putting in lights at some major intersections.

JAYWALKING

In a campaign against jaywalking earlier this year, city fathers marked some streets, increased its traffic force and tried to get tough. One trouble was that you couldn't tell the bonafide jaywalkers from earnest pedestrians fleeing some cab at an intersection.

On a visit, Henry Barnes, city traffic safety director of New York, took a few looks and said: "I was scared to death," He thought the situation was the worst in the world.

Police earlier tried to deal with double parking. The wife of a judge belted one traffic inspector into the hospital with her handbag; a male citizen popped another inspector solidly on the chops and the hunting season was on. Finally, they had to send armed police around with inspectors.

GOING TO SCHOOL in summer and loving it are the students in this social science class of the Governor's School for Gifted Children at Salem College in Winston-Salem, N.C. The teacher, Jivan Tabibian, born in Lebanon and four years in the U.S., teaches at Wake Forest College in Winston-Salem. Teachers were gathered from all over for the unique eight-week school at which 400 of North Carolina's most gifted students received free extra education, without credits or grades.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—"It was wild," bubbled a high school student.

"It was a gratifying feeling," chimed in a political science teacher.

"And I'm still unwinding," retorted C. Douglas Carter, program director of the first Governor's School for Gifted Children.

They generally reflect the way 400 of North Carolina's most fited students, 27 select faculty members and administrative officials feel about a unique, eight-week school session held here this summer.

IT WAS WILD

Dickie Blackwell, a student at Reynolds High School in Winston-Salem and one of the students from 85 of North Carolina's 100 counties who attended the school, described it this way: "It was wild. I liked the way the teachers went about it. And the students—they were such a great bunch of kids."

Jivian Tabibian, 25, a teacher at Wake Forest College, said: "It's a gratifying feeling to be with students who have such a high degree of motivation."

The National Education Association says that never before in this country has a school such as the governor's school been assembled.

Gov. Terry Sanford's staff in Raleigh first proposed the idea of a school for the state's gifted children. Sanford, who has made education the prime purpose of his administration, took the plan to the Carnegie Foundation in New York and received $225,000. He then turned to Winston-Salem businessmen for another $225,000. These funds will operate the school for three years at no cost to taxpayers.

The school, which was free to the 400 students, was an attempt to give gifted children something extra in education which they would not gain during a regular term. No credits or grades were given, and students selected were especially gifted in the academic fields or talented in the performing arts.

The students were assigned to 11 major fields for concentrated study. They also choose a minor in the arts and attended a class entitled "Essential Ideas."

Enrollment ranges from 54 students each in English, social science and instrumental music to five in piano.

Students were chosen solely on their intellectual abilities as measured by a series of tests. No mention of race was made on the application and 30 Negroes attended.

Carter said the students were one of the best behaved and motivated groups he had ever been associated with in the field of education. It took only 30 minutes to get the school organized, he added.

Valjean Griggs, a 16-year-old, Winston-Salem Negro, said she made some 400 friends at the school. There were no racial incidents, and Valjean said, "One girl told me she was ready to go home and do something about the race problem."

The Week In Focus

by Jack Gates

Democrats Scared?

Democratic party chiefs, it seems, have been working on the assumption that Senator Barry Goldwater had a big head start on the GOP nomination, and won't lose it unless the divided opposition can find and coalesce around a hero with as much grass-roots appeal. The pet theory previously cherished by Goldwater's GOP opponents and the Democrats that he would be knocked out of the primaries — has all but vanished. This is based in part on reports from New Hampshire, where the first primary will be held, that Goldwater can beat all comers — including President Kennedy if he would enter, which obviously he won't. Wisconsin and Illinois, the next two primary states, also show signs of leaning toward Goldwater Republicanism. The Democratic strategists have also developed some respect for the thesis that Goldwater can carry enough of the South, West and Midwest to beat Kennedy by winning only one or two big industrial states.

The Southern Negro Vote

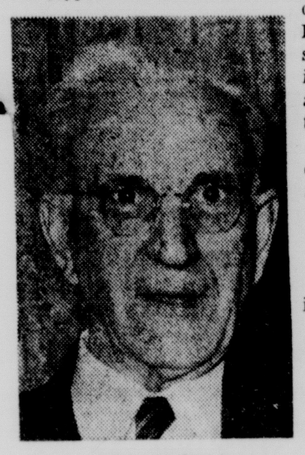

There is an excellent possibility that President Kennedy could lose most of the Southern States in the 1964 presidential election. In fact, Kennedy's men have already written off Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana.

However, his advisors are working on the theory that they could sneak up and upset GOP calculations with the Negro vote. Since the 1960 election, when Negro votes provided the balance for Kennedy in South Carolina and Texas, upwards of 250,000 more Negroes have registered in the 11 Dixie states. Between now and election day, Negro leaders predict at least another 250,000 will have registered, for a total of some 1,750,000. They predict that while Kennedy only captured between 50 to 75 per cent of the southern Negro votes last time, he will get better than 90 per cent next year. If this happens, it could easily give Kennedy Tennessee and Florida, which Nixon carried by small margins, as well as Texas, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

However, even close Kennedy advisers admit as of right now, the picture is anything but bright. The Kennedys strong drive in favor of the Negro has cost him many votes in other sections of the nation besides the south.

Washington Wash

SPEAKER John W. McCormack of the House came up with a new-type of charge the past week. He accused the Republicans of trying to kill President Kennedy's tax cut bill with a sneak back-door attack, adding it would be more "courageous" for them to fight in the open.

McCORMICK

McCormack made his charge after the Republicans accused Kennedy of double-talk in his pledges to put a lid on federal spending if Congress passes his two-year $11-billion tax reduction bill. At issue was a GOP rider to the bill when it comes up for House debate next week. The rider would bar the proposed reductions unless Kennedy submitted a substantially reduced budget. Earlier, Kennedy had appealed for public support of the measure and also against what he called partisan efforts to dilute or delay the bill. McCormack reported he was confident a tax bill would be passed by the House, but that he was merely "hopeful" that the Republican proposal would be beaten.

GOP National Chairman William E. Miller has charged the President "preached economic brinksmanship" and "credit card government."

OUTSIDE OF THE proposed tax cut, the biggest news development on capitol hill the past week was the various statements concerning the Test Ban Treaty. The Senate has agreed to vote at 11 a.m. next Tuesday on the ratification of the ban and the vote is expected to be overwhelmingly in favor of it, although some of the top men in the senate as well as military leaders see some danger in the treaty.

The timetable was arranged by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield to try to ensure the biggest possible turnout for the final vote. Ratification requires a two-thirds majority, or 67 senators if all 100 are present and voting. Some 80 have indicated they will vote for it.

Senator Barry Goldwater declared at the weekend that if his vote against the limited treaty will mean his political suicide, "then I commit it gladly. I have been told, as have others, I am sure, that to vote against this treaty is to commit political suicide. I will vote against this treaty because in my heart, mind, soul and conscience, I feel it detrimental to the strength of my country."

Both Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia and Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia also will vote against the measure as will others. Russell said "we seem to believe we could not exist unless we strive day and night to create the proper image. We are so concerned about looking pretty, we abandon everything else."

Also opposing is Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia. Sen. Frank Lausche of Ohio, previously counted as a supporter of the ban, now says also that he will vote against its ratification. He believes that the ban could "create a condition that will bring Russia to a position of supremacy in power."

ON THE RACIAL side, Rep. Carl Vinson, powerful chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, accused Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara of seeking to make servicemen into political agents in the fight against racial discrimination. Vinson announced he has introduced legislation that would make it a court-martial offense for military men to use the powers McNamara gave them July 26. Said Vinson — "My bill does not deal with segregation or integration. My bill keeps the military where it belongs — in the business of defending the nation." McNamara had authorized base commanders to declare off-limits areas where "relentless discrimination persists against Negro servicemen and their families." Later the Air Force had barred participation by its men and equipment in any public event where racial discrimination is practiced.

VINSON

Meanwhile, a House judiciary subcommittee has tentatively approved the voting rights and school desegregation sections of the President's civil rights bill. In some instances, the new bill is stronger than the one sought by Kennedy. In its present form, the voting section would cover state as well as federal election. Kennedy had only asked coverage of federal elections. The school section also was broadened to cover lawsuits aimed at desegregating publicly - owned facilities such as parks and beaches. Kennedy's original bill would have authorized the Justice Department to file desegregation suits on its own initiative only in school cases.

Still no action has been taken on the public accommodation section of the proposal, which faces heavy Republican opposition. It has been put aside.

Late Thursday, the President conferred with Negro leaders on the Birmingham situation which hit a new explosive point the past week when a bomb was thrown into a Negro church. Four Negro children were killed in the blast. After the meeting, the President announced he was sending Earl H. Blaik, former Army football coach, and Kenneth C. Royall, former secretary of the Army, into Birmingham to try to ease racial tensions there. At the same time he called for cooperation and restraint for all citizens in the city.

Earlier, Negroes had asked that federal troops be sent into the city. Apparently this was vetoed. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, obviously speaking for the administration, said he does not think that the sending of troops to Birmingham would solve the racial crisis there. He said: "We are not going to get the answer to this problem with bayonets. The answer, in the last analysis, rests in the local community and in the hearts of people."

IN ANOTHER development, Rep. Bob Wilson of California accused the President of "trying to pull the rug out from under the constitution. "Under the President's leadership," he said. "the new frontier has pushed backdoor spending which violates the spirit of the Constitution, tax-setting powers by the executive, which also runs contrary to the intent of our founders, and in general has attempted to circumvent, deride and downgrade the Constitution as the blueprint of our government."

A Lot Of Trouble

One word described the foreign scene the past week—Trouble. Anyplace you looked there was strife and explosive situations.

The word battle, coupled with thinly clad threats, continued between Russia and Red China. The Soviet Union started off by placing the blame squarely on Peking for starting the border fighting last fall with India; Said the Soviets — "we have to consider . . . that there are not and never have been grounds for the breaking out of the frontier conflict between India and China, let alone for this conflict to reach the stage of armed clashes." Later Russia warned Red China that good relations between states depends on respect for existing borders. Ironically the Soviet Union contains large chunks of former Chinese territory. The Chinese previously had issued statements about lost territories and had reminded the Russians that their 19th century ancestors had been more active than any other power at snatching Chinese territory under treaties.

SHAO-CHI

Then later in the week Liu Shao-Chi, president of Red China and heir - apparent of Communist party boss Mao Tze-tung, accused the Soviet Union of replacing revolution with survival as its guiding philosophy. He said the U.S. would not dare to use nuclear weapons in dealing with what he called wars of national liberation "because it would be most unpopular to use them. All in all there seemed to be little doubt but what the dispute between the two nations was getting worse — much worse . . .

THE BIRTH of Malaysia, which is made up of a federation of the British colonies of Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo, resulted in violent outbreaks. In Indonesia, one of the nation's opposing the federation, mobs burned the British embassy and destroyed other British property. British civilians started leaving Indonesia in droves even as the Indonesian government, at the prodding of London and Washington, declared martial law. The Philippines also gave the new federation a cold shoulder.

IN ANOTHER section of Asia, India and Pakistaini forces exchanged fire in a disputed border area between East Pakistan and India's State of Assam. The section is the subject of a disputed interpretation of the border settlement made after the partition of India and Pakistan. And in Caracas, Venezuela, terrorist gangs destroyed the DuPont Company's paint warehouse with fire bombs. Shouting pro-Castro slogans, the gang — armed with submachine guns — overpowered guards and set fire to the warehouse for the second time this year.

IN LONDON, Queen Elizabeth announced she is expecting her fourth child next year. On the other side of the government, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government was trying to decide what to do with the 50,000-word report by Lord Denning on the sex scandal that almost resulted in the government's fall. Word has leaked out that the report by Denning, who was named by Macmillan to ivestigate the situation, cleared all government ministers of "grave and scandalous" charges. The scandal broke after War Minister John D. Profumo admitted he had an affair with playgirl Christine Keeler at the same time she was also having relations with former Soviet naval attache Eugene Ivanov . . . .

ALSO IN London, a Church of England minister is defending the right of his pretty blonde wife to wear slacks in public. "Why shouldn't my wife wear slacks?" asked the Rev. Donald Lugg, 38, vicar of St. Alphage." Mrs. Lugg, 35, mother of two children, appeared at a recent church bazaar in a pair of fairly tight-fitting green slacks. A number of parishioners complained this was not dignified dress for a vicar's wife.

Carter said the students were one of the best behaved and motivated groups he had ever been associated with in the field of education. It took only 30 minutes to get the school organized, he added.

Valjean Griggs, a 16-year-old, Winston-Salem Negro, said she made some 400 friends at the school. There were no racial incidents, and Valjean said, "One girl told me she was ready to go home and do something about the race problem."

New England Storm Of 25 Years Ago Is Described

EDITOR'S NOTE — A vicious storm slammed into New England with winds as high as 186 miles per hour 25 years ago this month. Known thereafter as the hurricane of '38, it left desolation and death in its wake. This recreation of its furor dramatically illustrates progress in protection against such storms which has been achieved in the intervening years.

By CHARLES T. BURNS

BOSTON (AP) — All afternoon, it had been oppressively humid. Strong gusts of wind, under a peculiarly colored sky, whipped trees, signs, people and the waters along New England's coasts.

It was Sept. 21, 1938.

As the afternoon waned, sheets of rain rode in on the now-whistling wind. The sun blurred all day, gave up and was lost behind thick, rolling clouds.

Something unusual was going on but weather-wise New Englanders didn't pay much attention. It was the time for line storms, anyway.

FULL FURY

About 6 o'clock, the full fury of the storm—a hurricane—struck and death and destruction were everywhere.

Pedestrians drowned in the streets of downtown Providence swamped under 13 feet of salt water; substantial homes along the shore whirled away in wild ocean waters; boats of all sizes were smashed to bits; children were snatched from the arms of panicked parents, and then the parents, in many cases, also lost their battle with wind and wave.

The was southern New England — from Connecticut, through Rhode Island, into Massachusetts —25 years ago when the first recorded hurricane in more than a century struck the six-state area.

When the tremendous, murderous storm moved away late that night, stunned residents of the battered area began counting their losses.

At least 600 dead—the true figure obscured since many were swept out to sea or buried under tons of sand hurled onto beaches by the waves accompanying the hurricane.

Any property damage came to around $500 million.

The Weather Bureau — which then lacked the elaborate hurricane-hunting system of today—issued a warning the day before and forecast that the storm would "probably pass considerably to the southward of Nantucket." Nobody paid too much attention.

LONG LAPSE

There was a long lapse in information about the onrushing hurricane. Ironically, it was the Weather Bureau warning that caused the lack of continuing information — ships steered out of the course of the storm after the first warning, and in 1938 they were the chief source of data about ocean storms for the Weather Bureau.

The bureau was without eyes during the early hours of Sept. 21. And the storm hurtled up the coastline, taking dead aim on the wide, exposed, relaxed shores of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

That's why there was no boarding-up of windows, beaching of small boats, or hasty leavetaking from shore cottages so common today when the Weather Bureau speaks the word "hurricane."

The storm struck with winds of such force that none of that generation could remember any so strong. There were gusts up to 186 miles an hour recorded at Blue Hills Observatory near Boston.

Before that wind, plus a wave some said was 30 feet high, houses became mere chips, trees fell everywhere, big ships and small pleasure boats were hurled far inland or were broken to bits at their moorings.

An eyewitness description was given after the storm by Lillian Carcone, then 11, of Providence. She was visiting with family friends at Shawomet Beach. The house broke into bits and she and her freinds scrambled on a raft which had been a wall of the friends' home.

"Then a big wave hit me and I went off the raft," she said. "I finally reached a big timber. Then another big wave swept over me. I was rolled under the timber and then up on top again.

"The wind took my breath, it was so fierce. It tore at me, but I flattened out along the timber and held on. I never saw so many things in the water. Houses, roofs, boats, all kinds of things, just floating and bobbing. I was up on a hill of water one minute, then down in a deep valley."

Providentially, Lillian was hurled ashore — "I was so glad I just yelled at the wind" — but her landing place was West Barrington, several miles across the mad waters of Narragansett Bay.

Her companions never were seen again.

At Somerset, Mass., a huge oil tanker was tossed ashore, its bow nearly across a riverside highway. And, at New London, Conn., a Coast Guard buoy tender — 175 feet long—was thrown across the New Haven Railroad tracks.

Contrary to the average hurricane which loses strength over land, the one in 1938 swirled inland across Massachusetts into New Hampshire and Vermont. And the resultant job of salvaging timber from toppled trees was described as the largest single lumbering operation in history.

In the wake of the storm—the next day, mercifully, was pleasant and warm—New Englanders found themselves without electricity and telephone service. Most railroad lines were smashed, bridges gone, and in some areas, there was no drinking water.

The cleanup jon took weeks.

In the intervening years, five more hurricanes have slammed into the New England area.

They created far less damage because of two basic changes that have come over the years — extreme precautions have been built into exposed areas of New England's long coastline — and hurricanes now have names well a long in advance of their appearance on the scene.

Chinese Reds Are Feared In Asia

TOKYO (AP) — The war of name-calling between Peking and Moscow may have its amusing aspects in the West, but it is no laughing matter in non-Communist Asia.

Along Red China's frontiers, nations large and small fear that the quarrel will mean more trouble for them. Even in this age of nuclear bombs, the force most feared in Asia is a horde of infantrymen dressed in cotton quilt uniforms and carrying burp guns —China's "People's Army."

This fear is evident in a survey which Associated Press correspondents made this week. There is worry that Peking wants to prove its main theory in the quarrel with Moscow—to show that a stern offensive and war, if necessary, will win huge gains for Communism.

South Koreans, Indians and Thais, especially, fear that their rice paddies and villages may be selected as the proving ground, either in an all-out attack or in guerrilla warfare.

THE U.S.

Asked "What will you do?" many Asians answer "What will the United States do?"

Generally, with the United States heavily involved throughout the area, reaction to the threat of Red China falls into one of three categories:

1. We can lick them now.
2. We are arming and with outside help can protect ourselves.
3. Maybe we can placate the Red giant, steer a neutral course and stay out of trouble.

Countries in category No. 1 often do a little drum-thumping—usually on a drum made in the United States.

Nationalist China, for example, contends its American-equipped army, if backed by U.S. air and naval power, could successfully invade Red China.

South Korea, predicting Communist pressure throughout Asia, makes a less pretentious claim. Strongman Chung Hee Park says his army, similarly backed by the United States, can stop the Communists.

In countries that would like to be neutral, such as Japan, Peking's influence is increasing.

India—Dedicated to nonalignment despite last year's border war with Red China but accepting military aid from the Soviet Union and the West. Some influential Indians want to play a more positive diplomatic role against Chinese expansion in Southeast Asia but shun Western-aligned military pacts. The Communist party, after severe reverses, is committed to Moscow's "peaceful coexistence" line.

Pakistan—At odds with India and friendly toward the Chinese amid increasing tension with Washington. Pakistan still is a member of the anti-Communist Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Nepal—This tiny mountain kingdom may be taking a stronger pro-India stand. A high official declares Nepalis would let northern invaders cross to India only "over our dead bodies."

Afghanistan—Also bordering the Soviet Union, Afghanistan welcomes prospects of a demarcation agreement on its short frontier with Red China.

Burma—Trying to make do with socialism at home and neutralism abroad, but many Burmese say they must get rid of all Western influence to please the Chinese.

Thailand — Strong member of anti-Communist SEATO and bracing for a possible increase in Chinese - instigated subversion. Community development projects are being rushed in remote, poverty-stricken areas.

Laos — Pro-Chinese Communist Pathet Lao controls half the country. Neither the shaky coalition government nor its right-wing faction seems able to do much. Peking has made "U.S. imperialism" allegedly existing in Laos a main propaganda target.

Cambodia—Neutralist; desperately afraid of offending Red China and attracting the same trouble that has befallen South Viet Nam.

Viet Nam—Red China declares support of North Viet Nam and Red guerrillas operating in South Viet Nam, but the northern Communist regime appears wary of accepting too much Chinese help and thereby falling under Peking's absolute control.

Malaysia—Two strong anti-Communist nations, Malaya and Singapore, form the nucleus of this new federation. Barring Communist takeover in Laos or Viet Nam, Malaysia probably will rock along without recognizing either China and without joining anti-Communist pacts.

Indonesia — A big question is whether President Sukarno can continue playing off West against East, and his non-Communist army against Indonesia's 2½-million-member Communist party. Moscow and Washington help finance the government; Peking smuggles in money to the Communist party. Sukarno would like to head a "third force" bloc but has had little success.

Nigeria To Become Nation October 1

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — This African giant of 40 million people becomes a republic Oct. 1, with a president replacing Britain's Queen Elizabeth II as head of state.

American-educated Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe, 59, a former newspaper editor and currently governor general, will be the country's first president. He will be a figurehead rather than an executive head of state, however.

For three years, since its freedom from British colonial rule, Nigeria has been cited as a showpiece of democracy in Africa. The country's federal makeup has proved a safeguard against the one-party system adopted by almost every other newly independent African state.

But Nigeria approaches Republican status in an atmosphere of political uncertainty. The opposition leader and his deputy have been jailed for long terms on treason charges. Proposals for a preventive detention act allowing the government to jail "subversive elements" without trial have been only temporarily shelved.

Under the republican Constitution, judges will be appointed by the ruling politicans, thereby lessening the separation of executive and judiciary.

"We shall witness such features as sit-tight ministers, a corrupt civil service, inequality of opportunity, scarcities in the midst of plenty, favoritism, inefficiency, unemployment, millionaire politicians, improverishment of the peasantry, highway robbery, prostitution, religious bankruptcy, moral decay and social agglutination."

Not many share Ememe's pessimism, but there is anxiety. Rivalry among the major tribes, each centered in a spearate semi-autonomous region, remains a potential threat to national unity.

Nigeria's voice already is powerful in African and international affairs. It generally counsels moderation and caution. This is one of the few African countries still host to a Portuguese diplomatic representative.

Even on the thorny issue of apartheid in South Africa, Foreign Minister Jaja Wachuku said recently: "I am not pessimistic of a peaceful solution being found to the South African problem within the next 5 or 10 years."

Four separate regions — north, east, west and midwest — make up the Federation of Nigeria, with nearly 60 per cent of population, the northern region sends more legislators to parliament than all the others and consequently dominates national politics.

The Northern People's Congress headed by Sir Ahmadu Bello, 53, is the largest single party in the federal Assembly. This autocratic grandson of the founder of the old Sokoto empire is premier of the Northern Region and probably the most powerful figure in Nigerian politics.

The government's declared policy is one of nonalignment, but the country generally is sympathetic to the West. It intends to remain a member of the British Commonwealth.

Lagos, the capital, has five daily newspapers, lively, often irreverent publications instrumental in getting the preventive detention act shelved.

Some 75 per cent of the nation's total output is derived from farming, and over 80 per cent of the people live on the land. Main products are peanuts, cocoa, palm oil and kernels and cotton. Industrialization has bounded ahead, and Nigeria now boasts more than 1,000 manufacturing plants. Oil prospects are exciting.

Per capita income of $82 yearly, low by Western standards, is high by African.

Population Explosion On Ceylon Cited

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

Malaria was eliminated 17 years ago from this island off south India. Since then the population has been growing at one of the highest rates recorded anywhere. The superintendent of census, A.B.S.N. Pullenayegul, estimates the growth rate at 2.8 per cent a year.

The population of Ceylon was 10,644,809 last July 8, Pullenayegul's census takers reported. That was double what it was in 1931.

The island still has plenty of room, although it has almost six times as many people as West Virginia puts into only slightly less area.

The southwestern quarter is a lush, well-watered tropical area where food grows easily for the dense population. The mountainous central part produces tea and rice. Much of the eastern and northern part of the island can support only thin populations until irrigation is provided.

Irrigation costs money. The government is hardpressed to keep social services up with the rising population. Money that might go into development is spent on food subsidies that have been averaging 15 per cent of government budgets, and on education and health services.

AS THE WEST German army is built up, volunteer recruits for the Panzergrenadiers receive field training. In 1955 West Germany was admitted to full membership in the Western bloc's North Atlantic Treaty Organization and was given permission to maintain its own armed forces for the first time since World War II. Today its forces number more than 400,000. These decisions, tying West Germany to the West against the Soviet bloc, were triumphs for West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

A Concise Look Back At The Adenauer Era In Germany

EDITOR'S NOTE — One old man has dominated West Germany's turbulent postwar years and helped it to regain a measure of greatness. Here, on the eve of his retirement from the active political scene, is a concise look back at the Adenauer era.

By JOHN WEYLAND

BONN (AP)—Sometime around the middle of October, an old man will step down as chancellor of West Germany and an era will end.

Admirers and critics both may well recall the desolation that seemed to stretch endlessly into the future when Konrad Adenauer, a comparative unknown, first was elected in 1949.

West Germany then was a new, troubled country, representing a source of doubt and concern in international affairs. The United States, Britain and France had created it out of their occupation zones established at the end of World War II. The three wartime allies had determined to rebuild the former enemy into a bulwark against the advances of communism in Europe.

West Germany itself was ravaged by war, disrupted, poverty-stricken. It's 50 million people were discouraged and uncertain. The situation seemed ripe for new radical political movements in a land where they had thrived in the past.

TENURE

During the long Adenauer tenure in office, all this changed. City rubble gave way to handsome new buildings. Factories were rebuilt, largely with U.S. Marshall Plan aid. Assembly lines began to hum and West Germany emerged as one of Europe's most prosperous and productive nations where unemployment was unknown.

Adenauer's admirers are convinced the era now ending establishes the 87-year-old chancellor as a great historic figure. They see him as the architect of West Germany's rise to wealth and influence. They credit him with winning a solid place in the Western alliance for West Germany and for establishing a democracy in a country with a notoriously authoritarian past.

At Adenauer's side during the transformation has been a hefty, cigar-smoking economist who shares much of the credit for West Germany's astonishing financial recovery.

He is Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard, the man slated to succeed Adenauer and carry on the present middle-of-the-road coalition government until new elections in 1965.

Erhard, a champion of free enterprise economic policies, contributed heavily to the Adenauer successes on the home front.

Adenauer oversaw the recovery program but seldom bothered with the details. He concentrated on foreign policy, considering it of overriding importance. He served as his own foreign minister for the first six years and continued to determine policy afterward through his hand-picked Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

CLEAR CONCEPT

Adenauer had a clear concept of how Europe should be reordered and the place in this new scheme of things for Germany. His four main objectives and how he fared with them:

1. To remove the distrust of West Germany and the limitations on its sovereignty that resulted from the Nazi past. Here he met with success. In 1955, the Western Allies gave this country its full independence. By then the concept of collective German guilt had been officially abandoned.

West Germany gradually was being accepted as a respectable member of the family of nations. France, formerly the most bitter enemy, gave back the Saar. In January 1963, President Charles de Gaulle signed a bilateral treaty of cooperation. This was the final gesture of reconciliation, of burying the past.

2. Commit West Germany against the Soviet bloc and fit it irrevocably into the Western Alliance.

This policy also succeeded.

The country was made a full member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in 1955. For the first time since World War II it was allowed to maintain armed forces. Today these number over 400,000.

3. Promote a United States of Europe, subordinating historic national divisions.

"The present patchwork of European states has a past but no future," Adenauer said early in his career as chancellor. But the patchwork continues. West Germany has joined the European Common Market and its related organizations, but these are a far cry from a federated Eruope. In 1954, France blocked the European Defense Community, one of the major attempted starts toward supranationality. Further efforts have similarly foundered on French resistance.

4. Get back the eastern part of Germany, which the Soviet Union took over in the war and later made into a separate state.

Unreconciled to the loss, Adenauer has sought the re-establishment of Germany as it existed in 1937. This year was picked to avoid claims on territories later acquired by Hitler. Adenauer has managed to prevent non-Communist nations from accepting the division of Germany as permanent and from extending diplomatic recognition to East Germany.

His policy is based on the hope that the Soviet Union will eventually agree to the reunification demand in the interests of a general East - West settlement, If anything, such Soviet agreement seems more unlikely today than ever.

While Adenauer's foreign policies have met with only mixed success, he has triumphed in that all major West German political parties have accepted them.

Kurt Schumacher, for years the head of the opposition Social Democratic party, used to sneer at Adenauer as "the chancellor of the Allies"—meaning the tool of victorious foreign powers. In West Germany's early history there was support for neutralism, opposition to NATO, agitation for a more flexible policy toward the Soviet Union.

ESSENTIALS

By 1959, the Social Democratic party has come completely around adopting the essentials of Adenauer's foreign policies. Today these have the full support of the Bundestag — parliament. West Germany is as fully committed to the U.S. side in the world struggle as any nation could be.

Despite his triumphs, Adenauer began losing popularity in 1959. The immediate cause was his refusal to resign as chancellor, as he had agreed to do, and take the largely honorary position of president. There was a widespread feeling he was getting too old and too used to power.

Under the republican Constitution, judges will be appointed by the ruling politicans, thereby lessening the separation of executive and judiciary.

"We shall witness such features as sit-tight ministers, a corrupt civil service, inequality of opportunity, scarcities in the midst of plenty, favoritism, inefficiency, unemployment, millionaire politicians, improverishment of the peasantry, highway robbery, prostitution, religious bankruptcy, moral decay and social agglutination."

Not many share Ememe's pessimism, but there is anxiety. Rivalry among the major tribes, each centered in a spearate semi-autonomous region, remains a potential threat to national unity.

Nigeria's voice already is powerful in African and international affairs. It generally counsels moderation and caution. This is one of the few African countries still host to a Portuguese diplomatic representative.

Even on the thorny issue of apartheid in South Africa, Foreign Minister Jaja Wachuku said recently: "I am not pessimistic of a peaceful solution being found to the South African problem within the next 5 or 10 years."

Four separate regions — north, east, west and midwest — make up the Federation of Nigeria. with nearly 60 per cent of population, the northern region sends more legislators to parliament than all the others and consequently dominates national politics.

The Northern People's Congress headed by Sir Ahmadu Bello, 53, is the largest single party in the federal Assembly. This autocratic grandson of the founder of the old Sokoto empire is premier of the Northern Region and probably the most powerful figure in Nigerian politics.

The government's declared policy is one of nonalignment, but the country generally is sympathetic to the West. It intends to remain a member of the British Commonwealth.

Lagos, the capital, has five daily newspapers, lively, often irreverent publications instrumental in getting the preventive detention act shelved.

Some 75 per cent of the nation's total output is derived from farming, and over 80 per cent of the people live on the land. Main products are peanuts, cocoa, palm oil and kernels and cotton. Industrialization has bounded ahead, and Nigeria now boasts more than 1,000 manufacturing plants. Oil prospects are exciting.

Per capita income of $82 yearly, low by Western standards, is high by African.

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

Malaria was eliminated 17 years ago from this island off south India. Since then the population has been growing at one of the highest rates recorded anywhere. The superintendent of census, A.B.S.N. Pullenayegul, estimates the growth rate at 2.8 per cent a year.

The population of Ceylon was 10,644,809 last July 8, Pullenayegul's census takers reported. That was double what it was in 1931.

The island still has plenty of room, although it has almost six times as many people as West Virginia puts into only slightly less area.

The southwestern quarter is a lush, well-watered tropical area where food grows easily for the dense population. The mountainous central part produces tea and rice. Much of the eastern and northern part of the island can support only thin populations until irrigation is provided.

Irrigation costs money. The government is hardpressed to keep social services up with the rising population. Money that might go into development is spent on food subsidies that have been averaging 15 per cent of government budgets, and on education and health services.

AS THE WEST German army is built up, volunteer recruits for the Panzergrenadiers receive field training. In 1955 West Germany was admitted to full membership in the Western bloc's North Atlantic Treaty Organization and was given permission to maintain its own armed forces for the first time since World War II. Today its forces number more than 400,000. These decisions, tying West Germany to the West against the Soviet bloc, were triumphs for West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

EDITOR'S NOTE — One old man has dominated West Germany's turbulent postwar years and helped it to regain a measure of greatness. Here, on the eve of his retirement from the active political scene, is a concise look back at the Adenauer era.

By JOHN WEYLAND

BONN (AP)—Sometime around the middle of October, an old man will step down as chancellor of West Germany and an era will end.

Admirers and critics both may well recall the desolation that seemed to stretch endlessly into the future when Konrad Adenauer, a comparative unknown, first was elected in 1949.

West Germany then was a new, troubled country, representing a source of doubt and concern in international affairs. The United States, Britain and France had created it out of their occupation zones established at the end of World War II. The three wartime allies had determined to rebuild the former enemy into a bulwark against the advances of communism in Europe.

West Germany itself was ravaged by war, disrupted, poverty-stricken. It's 50 million people were discouraged and uncertain. The situation seemed ripe for new radical political movements in a land where they had thrived in the past.

TENURE

During the long Adenauer tenure in office, all this changed. City rubble gave way to handsome new buildings. Factories were rebuilt, largely with U.S. Marshall Plan aid. Assembly lines began to hum and West Germany emerged as one of Europe's most prosperous and productive nations where unemployment was unknown.

Adenauer's admirers are convinced the era now ending establishes the 87-year-old chancellor as a great historic figure. They see him as the architect of West Germany's rise to wealth and influence. They credit him with winning a solid place in the Western alliance for West Germany and for establishing a democracy in a country with a notoriously authoritarian past.

At Adenauer's side during the transformation has been a hefty, cigar-smoking economist who shares much of the credit for West Germany's astonishing financial recovery.

He is Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard, the man slated to succeed Adenauer and carry on the present middle-of-the-road coalition government until new elections in 1965.

Erhard, a champion of free enterprise economic policies, contributed heavily to the Adenauer successes on the home front.

Adenauer oversaw the recovery program but seldom bothered with the details. He concentrated on foreign policy, considering it of overriding importance. He served as his own foreign minister for the first six years and continued to determine policy afterward through his hand-picked Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

CLEAR CONCEPT

Adenauer had a clear concept of how Europe should be reordered and the place in this new scheme of things for Germany. His four main objectives and how he fared with them:

1. To remove the distrust of West Germany and the limitations on its sovereignty that resulted from the Nazi past. Here he met with success. In 1955, the Western Allies gave this country its full independence. By then the concept of collective German guilt had been officially abandoned.

West Germany gradually was being accepted as a respectable member of the family of nations. France, formerly the most bitter enemy, gave back the Saar. In January 1963, President Charles de Gaulle signed a bilateral treaty of cooperation. This was the final gesture of reconciliation, of burying the past.

2. Commit West Germany against the Soviet bloc and fit it irrevocably into the Western Alliance.

This policy also succeeded.

The country was made a full member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in 1955. For the first time since World War II it was allowed to maintain armed forces. Today these number over 400,000.

3. Promote a United States of Europe, subordinating historic national divisions.

"The present patchwork of European states has a past but no future," Adenauer said early in his career as chancellor. But the patchwork continues. West Germany has joined the European Common Market and its related organizations, but these are a far cry from a federated Eruope. In 1954, France blocked the European Defense Community, one of the major attempted starts toward supranationality. Further efforts have similarly foundered on French resistance.

4. Get back the eastern part of Germany, which the Soviet Union took over in the war and later made into a separate state.

Unreconciled to the loss, Adenauer has sought the re-establishment of Germany as it existed in 1937. This year was picked to avoid claims on territories later acquired by Hitler. Adenauer has managed to prevent non-Communist nations from accepting the division of Germany as permanent and from extending diplomatic recognition to East Germany.

His policy is based on the hope that the Soviet Union will eventually agree to the reunification demand in the interests of a general East - West settlement, If anything, such Soviet agreement seems more unlikely today than ever.

While Adenauer's foreign policies have met with only mixed success, he has triumphed in that all major West German political parties have accepted them.

Kurt Schumacher, for years the head of the opposition Social Democratic party, used to sneer at Adenauer as "the chancellor of the Allies"—meaning the tool of victorious foreign powers. In West Germany's early history there was support for neutralism, opposition to NATO, agitation for a more flexible policy toward the Soviet Union.

ESSENTIALS

By 1959, the Social Democratic party has come completely around adopting the essentials of Adenauer's foreign policies. Today these have the full support of the Bundestag — parliament. West Germany is as fully committed to the U.S. side in the world struggle as any nation could be.

Despite his triumphs, Adenauer began losing popularity in 1959. The immediate cause was his refusal to resign as chancellor, as he had agreed to do, and take the largely honorary position of president. There was a widespread feeling he was getting too old and too used to power.

THE HIGH COST OF CARELESSNESS

More than $100,000,000 a year

That's how much your government must spend to fight forest fires. This figure doesn't even count the staggering losses of natural resources and wild life. And tragic but true—nine out of every ten forest fires are caused by man. Do your part to prevent them. Follow Smokey's ABC's.

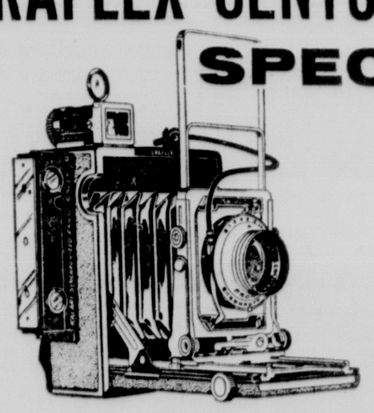

Always break matches in two.
Be sure you drown all fires out.
Crush all smokes dead in an ash tray.

Stocks Rise To New High During Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week edged to another historic high amid continuing cross currents.

It was the third straight week that the list has achieved new peaks, and the eighth straight week of advance.

In the week just ended, the market had two sharp moves — a decline on Wednesday and a advance on Thursday which more than wiped out the Wednesday loss.

On the other three days, the movements of the averages were very small.

The market was still chewing away at resistance in the form of large blocks of stock put up for sale by long-term holders. Analysts noted, with some concern, that the advance of the averages was due to the performance of relatively few stocks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials this week advanced 3.47 to end the week at a historic closing record of 743.60.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.0 to 281.5 — a historic high that was first reached Thursday. The average held unchanged Friday.

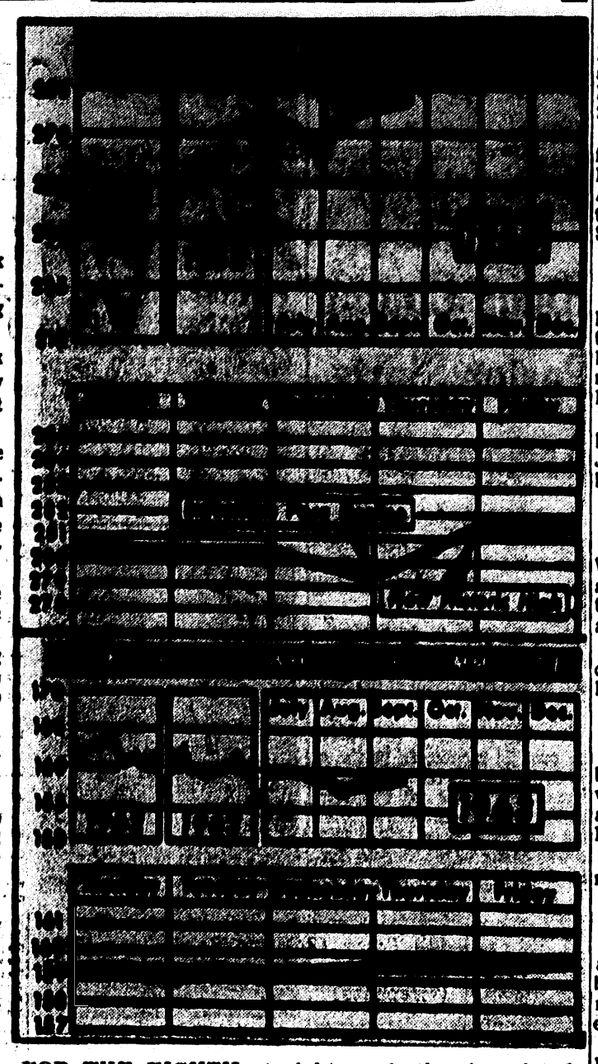

Standard & Poors' 500-stock index also closed the week at a record peak of 73.30.

The rise in these market indicators was due to the advance of heavily weighted blue chips whch are represented in them. The behavior of the entire market, however, is reflected by the fact that of 1,505 issues traded this week, losers outnumbered gainers by 737 to 590.

In the face of a contradiction between such statistics and the performance of the averages, the verdict usually goes in favor of the averages because these represent stocks which have huge amounts of outstanding stock and millions of shareholders, whereas the host of lesser stocks represent a smaller factor in the market.

Bond prices turned irregular last week's following the previous week's recovery move. Most U.S. Treasury securities continued upward, again primarily due to the Treasury's record $32 billion advance refund. Corporates, on the other hand, fell back with utilities and investment grade issues leading the slide.

Volume on the exchange totaled $21,518,000 par value compared with $22,982,400 the previous week.

FOR THE EIGHTH straight week the Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced, closing at a new historic high of 281.5. A week earlier the high was 280.5. Led by food and non-ferrous metals the commodity index moved up to 159.9 from last week's 159.1. (AP Wirephoto)

Drill Collars Are Cemented In Rankin Site

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — California Co. was reported Saturday to have cemented drill collars in its Rankin County wildcat, the West No. 1, sec. 34-8n-3e, after controlling a near blowout.

The venture encountered carbon dioxide gas with extremely high pressures while drilling at 14,925 feet. The blowout preventers were closed and surface pressure was about 2,300 pounds in four hours.

The well is thought to be in the top part of the Smackover Lime Formation. It is thought operators will pull drill pipe and drill a sidetrack hole to contract depth of 16,000 feet. The test is about four miles northwest of Goshen Springs near the reservoir.

The Smackover Lime oil field find in Smith County has been designated as the Bienville Forest Feld. The discovery well was Austral Oil Company's No. 1, U.S.A. sec. 14-4n-9e, completed last week from the Smackover Lime at 14,141-51 feet. The well flowed at the rate of 390 barrels of oil per day and is the first oil to be produced in Mississipp from the Smackover formaton.

The discovery set off a large scale lease boom in Smith, Scott, Jasper and Newton counties with reports the activity is still continuing.

Southwest Gas Producing Co. and W. C. Feazel have completed their Jefferson County wildcat the Noble No. 1, sec. 30-10n-1w, as the discovery of a new field. The well flowed at the rate of 144 barrels of oil and 620,000 cubic feet of gas per day from perforations in the lower Tuscaloosa Formation at 9,603-05 feet. The well is two miles south of the Rodney Field.

In Smith County, Larue-Smith Production Co. ran electrical log at its wildcat, the Austin-McCollum No. 1, sec. 10-10n-16w, about two miles southeast of the Magee field. The venture is at depth of 13,865 feet and was deepening from original contract depth of 13,200 feet after shows were logged in the Rodessa Formation.

In Clay County about two miles northeast of the Siloam Field Crump, Hadaway and Pepper drilled below 4,900 feet in their wildcat the Calvert No. 1, sec. 16-16s-5e, a scheduled 9,000 foot try.

IN MONROE DISTRICT

Seven Completed Wells Reported

Drillers in the Monroe Oil & Gas District finalled seven wells in six parishes last week, while staking locations for 41 new wells in a nine - parish area.

One of the completions was in Ouachita Parish, a gas well in the Monroe Field. Other finals were singles in Catahoula, Concordia, LaSalle and Rapides Parishes, and two in Union Parish, the Monroe Field.

The new locations included seven in the Monroe Field, five in Union Parish, two in Morehouse. Others were three more in Union Parish, nine in LaSalle, seven in Concordia, six in Catahoula, two in Rapides, three each in Tensas and Avoyelles and one in Caldwell Parish.

The number of new locations just about held last week's high levels, according to District Manager Duncan S. Cook, while the number of rigs active throughout the 15 parishes fell moderately to 21.

The active rigs included one in Ouachita Parish, testing at 9000 feet in the Calhoun Field. LaSalle Parish had six active rigs, Catahoula and Tensas had four each, Avoyelles had three, Concordia two and Rapides one.

The week's activity also included one recompletion. It was in the Morehouse Parish Monroe Gas Field and was Crescent Drilling's W. A. Archie H. S. Ut. No. 271, recompleted in Harrell Sand at 2313 feet. The rig is in section 22-20-4E.

Seventeen wells were abandoned during the week and there were 105 inactive sites in the district. Locations numbered 98.

Here is further information on the week's completions, active rigs and new locations. The list of new locations is partial, but will be complete in weeks to come.

ON THEIR HONOR

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Jefferson County Sheriff William Cranfill had a purpose when he appointed two honorary deputies.

He gave the appointments to 13-year-old and 7-year-old Valley Station boys who had run away from home. Cranfill told them "you are being deputized to see that it does not happen again."

Business Briefs

CONFERENCE

W. F. Frost, general agent, of Monroe attended a regional management conference of American National Insurance Co., Sept. 19, 20 and 21, in Atlanta, Ga.

The 35 insurance executives from seven states and Puerto Rcio, were headed by James R. Adams, Birmingham, Ala., director of ordinary agencies for the Scutheastern division.

NEW DIRECTOR

Henry Richmond Favrot, well known in Baton Rouge and longtime New Orleans resident, has been elected to the board of directors of Guaranty Income Life Insurance Company.

The announcement was made by President George A. Foster Jr. following a meeting of the board of directors.

INSTITUTE

Leonard Mark Webb, CPA of West Monroe, has been elected a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Webb is associated with the accounting firm of Garelick, Bradley & Heller in Monroe.

He replaces John B. Soell who resigned.

LARGEST CAKE

The largest cake ever baked anywhere in the world will soon be on dispaly in Nashville, Tennessee — and then served to the entire populace.

The occasion will mark a weeklong nation - wide celebration of the 60th anniversary of the Life and Casualty Insurance Company of Tennessee, one of the largest insurance organizations in the country, Sept. 9-14.

The anniversary cake, which will stand more than 18 feet high and weigh over 6,000 pounds, will be an exact scale model of the 31-story Life and Casualty Tower, the tallest building in the mid-South, and will be placed on display in the tower lobby.

Businessmen and industries throughout Nashville have donated a great deal of their time and materials to make this project a success and an exciting occasion for the whole community. The cake itself will cost Life and Casualty approximately $3,700.

DEALER MEET

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Inabnet, owner of Northeast Motors, and daughter, Lee met in Dallas with top executives of American Motors Corporation at the company's annual dealer conference.

Inabnet said Rambler shattered all-time sales marks this year, and said that on the basis of the company's product program and a booming automobile market, he anticipates new records for this fall and the coming year.

NEW PLANT

Plans to construct one of Louisiana's largest gas treating plants near Gibson and a liquefied petroleum gas fractionation plant at Geismar have been announced by J. E. Wilson, vice president of Shell Oil Company's New Orleans Exploration and Production area.

The gas treating plant, to be located near Gibson on a sixty acre site adjacent to Shell's Gibson barge terminal, has been designed to treat up to 950 million cubic feet of gas daily from the lines of United Gas Pipe Line Co. and Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation. The gas is produced from numerous fields in south Louisiana and offshore Louisiana.

Cotton Futures Activity Slow

Prices closed 20 cents lower to 65 cents higher with only the nearby October delivery showing any decline. Trading was dull.

The previous week prices closed off 5 cents to up 5 cents.

Tax, Trade Funds Provide Major Business Interest

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tax dollars and trade dollars provided the major interest in governmental and business circles the past week.

President Kennedy expressed his views on both subjects.

In each case the dominating idea was to get the economy going at a higher rate.

Urging support of tax-reduction legislation, Kennedy said it is in the national interest for Congress to produce favorable action.

He said it would mean higher profits for business men and hope of a new car, a new home, conveniences, education and travel for individuals.

He said his tax program would mean "release of $11 billion of extra after-taxes purchasing power into the private economy before another downturn can begin."

He added: "No wasteful, inefficient or unnecessary governmental activity will be tolerated."

Kennedy also proposed a new growth target for American business. This is a 10 per cent increase in exports. He said it would erase the balance-of-payments deficit.

He made his views known in an address to 400 industry executives and others holding a conference on export expansion. Five of his Cabinet members supported his ideas.

"If you can add just 10 per cent to your exports—and that should not be too great a task for the enterprisers of the United States —it will help us solve all our problems," the President said.

An Associated Press survey of foreign business men indicated that American industry could improve its sales overseas if it would pursue business more vigorously.

To implement this idea, more than a score of "little White House conferences" will be held in major U.S. cities in the next six weeks to encourage local companies to move into foreign markets.

Economists found encouragement in the fact that the current business upswing is ripening into old age without signs of abatement.

They pointed out that historically the average age of U.S. business expansions is 30 months. The current upturn crossed the 30-month mark Sept. 1. The usual ailments which point to an end are absent.

Personal incomes rose $700 million in August to a record annual rate of $464.9 billion. However, this was the smallest monthly increase since a dip in February.

The government reported that sales and earnings of manufacturers advanced sharply to record heights in the April-June quarter. Sales were estimated at $105.1 billion, a gain of nine per cent over the prior quarter and six per cent above a year earlier.

On the other hand, the annual rate of factory payrolls fell to $98.7 billion in August from the July level but exceeded the $95.1 billion of August 1962.

CALDWELL EVENT

Art Festival's Theme Reported

COLUMBIA (Special) — "Miracles Are Wrought by Hands" is the theme of the eighth annual Caldwell Parish Library Art Festival which will be staged Sept. 28 at the Community Grounds here.

The festival attracted more than 1,000 persons its first year, and each year the number has increased.

According to co-chairman Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, "all ages from children to adults, from amateurs to professionals are welcomed in equal fashion."

She said that ribbons for prizes and few, if any rules except that the work be arranged by 10 a.m. and left until 5 p.m., artists are privileged to bring "as much and as many media as they wish."

Mrs. Reynolds said there is no handling fee, and that only original work is considered for judging.

Each artist and program participant will have his hand drawn on a mural by Mrs. Drew N. Hays with special interest of each sketched.

"It is traditional for many to wear Louisiana heritage costumes, and everyone is invited to join this group to celebrate the 125th year of the founding of Caldwell. In case of rain, the show will go on at the Caldwell Parish High School between Columbia and Grayson, but festival hosts are looking for an eighth straight win, weatherwise," Mrs. Reynolds said.

Division chairmen are: clerical — Mrs. John W. Crump; decoration — Mrs. W. M. Causey; refreshments — Mr. Carey Hancock; style show — Mrs. Wooten Morris; telephone — Mrs. Edna McConnell; electrical equipment — Marcus Thornhill; stage setting — The Trend House; hanging — Oliver Wilson; official photographers — Mr. and Mrs. Earl Williams; programs and printing — Mr. and Mrs. Ted H. Woods; Tea — Cloumbia Garden Club; — grounds — Ronald Pair; hospitality — Mrs. C. R. Godfrey; props — Boyd Wilkins and Charles E. Mullins; luncheon hosts for program participants — A. D. Bridger, Caldwell Bank and Trust Co.; display tables — Clayton James, Citizen' Progressive Bank; commercial exhibits — Mrs. Guy Alford; theme, art interpretation — Jerry Haynes.

Judges will be: adult art — Elbert W. Price of Lake Charles; adult handicraft — Edward W. Schutz of Monroe; Youth art — Mrs. Ken Grubbs of Ruston and Mrs. J. E. Dupuy of West Monroe; and needlecraft — Miss Lola Caldwell of Columbia.

The program co-ordinated by Cameron C. Minard in the morning and Mrs. Guy Alford in the afternoon, will include an inspirational talk, "Look Over Your Shoulder" by Robert C. Snyder; a review of her latest book, Babe Didrikson, Girl Athlete," by Mrs. Lena Y. De Grummond; "Generating an Idea" by Dr. Shirley K Stephenson in collaboration with Easter Pony" by the author, Suzie Blair (Mrs. C.R.), and the photographer, Tommy Kahara; "Children's Art in Louisiana by Mrs. Ted Brode, Commercial Art by Mr. Roy Odom; "Louisiana, With a View Toward Education" by Lee Estes featureing his color slides; "The Department of Art Education"—Mrs. Irma Sompayrac Willard; a style show by the merchants of Caldwell Parish and the Home Demonstration Clubs, produced and narrated by Mrs. Wooten Morris; a tea by the Columbia Garden Club with a band concert by Caldwell Parish High School, Mrs. Charles Pollard, director, in the Garden area.

Western Demos Urge GOP To Fight Birchites

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Western Democrats asked Republicans Saturday to join them in denouncing the John Birch Society and what they called the radical right movement.

In a resolution they also warned "our fellow citizens about the infiltration tactics of the John Birch Society and other radical right groups."

A resolution, adopted by the Western Democratic Conference after three days of speeches attacking the far right, urged "our loyal Republican opposition to denounce the John Birch Society and radical right movement, to expel those Republican organizations which have come under John Birch Society domination, and to insist that all candidates for office on the Republican ticket campaign free of association with the John Birch Society or other radical right groups."

Stocks Rise To New High During Week

FOR THE EIGHTH straight week the Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced, closing at a new historic high of 281.5. A week earlier the high was 280.5. Led by food and non-ferrous metals the commodity index moved up to 159.9 from last week's 159.1. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week edged to another historic high amid continuing cross currents.

It was the third straight week that the list has achieved new peaks, and the eighth straight week of advance.

In the week just ended, the market had two sharp moves — a decline on Wednesday and a advance on Thursday which more than wiped out the Wednesday loss.

On the other three days, the movements of the averages were very small.

The market was still chewing away at resistance in the form of large blocks of stock put up for sale by long-term holders. Analysts noted, with some concern, that the advance of the averages was due to the performance of relatively few stocks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials this week advanced 3.47 to end the week at a historic closing record of 743.60.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.0 to 281.5 — a historic high that was first reached Thursday. The average held unchanged Friday.

Standard & Poors' 500-stock index also closed the week at a record peak of 73.30.

The rise in these market indicators was due to the advance of heavily weighted blue chips whch are represented in them. The behavior of the entire market, however, is reflected by the fact that of 1,505 issues traded this week, losers outnumbered gainers by 737 to 590.

In the face of a contradiction between such statistics and the performance of the averages, the verdict usually goes in favor of the averages because these represent stocks which have huge amounts of outstanding stock and millions of shareholders, whereas the host of lesser stocks represent a smaller factor in the market.

Bond prices turned irregular last week's following the previous week's recovery move. Most U.S. Treasury securities continued upward, again primarily due to the Treasury's record $32 billion advance refund. Corporates, on the other hand, fell back with utilities and investment grade issues leading the slide.

Volume on the exchange totaled $21,518,000 par value compared with $22,982,400 the previous week.

IN MONROE DISTRICT

Seven Completed Wells Reported

Drillers in the Monroe Oil & Gas District finalled seven wells in six parishes last week, while staking locations for 41 new wells in a nine - parish area.

One of the completions was in Ouachita Parish, a gas well in the Monroe Field. Other finals were singles in Catahoula, Concordia, LaSalle and Rapides Parishes, and two in Union Parish, the Monroe Field.

The new locations included seven in the Monroe Field, five in Union Parish, two in Morehouse. Others were three more in Union Parish, nine in LaSalle, seven in Concordia, six in Catahoula, two in Rapides, three each in Tensas and Avoyelles and one in Caldwell Parish.

The number of new locations just about held last week's high levels, according to District Manager Duncan S. Cook, while the number of rigs active throughout the 15 parishes fell moderately to 21.

The active rigs included one in Ouachita Parish, testing at 9000 feet in the Calhoun Field. LaSalle Parish had six active rigs, Catahoula and Tensas had four each, Avoyelles had three, Concordia two and Rapides one.

The week's activity also included one recompletion. It was in the Morehouse Parish Monroe Gas Field and was Crescent Drilling's W. A. Archie H. S. Ut. No. 271, recompleted in Harrell Sand at 2313 feet. The rig is in section 22-20-4E.

Seventeen wells were abandoned during the week and there were 105 inactive sites in the district. Locations numbered 98.

Here is further information on the week's completions, active rigs and new locations. The list of new locations is partial, but will be complete in weeks to come.

Drill Collars Are Cemented In Rankin Site

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — California Co. was reported Saturday to have cemented drill collars in its Rankin County wildcat, the West No. 1, sec. 34-8n-3e, after controlling a near blowout.

The venture encountered carbon dioxide gas with extremely high pressures while drilling at 14,925 feet. The blowout preventers were closed and surface pressure was about 2,300 pounds in four hours.

The well is thought to be in the top part of the Smackover Lime Formation. It is thought operators will pull drill pipe and drill a sidetrack hole to contract depth of 16,000 feet. The test is about four miles northwest of Goshen Springs near the reservoir.

The Smackover Lime oil field find in Smith County has been designated as the Bienville Forest Feld. The discovery well was Austral Oil Company's No. 1, U.S.A. sec. 14-4n-9e, completed last week from the Smackover Lime at 14,141-51 feet. The well flowed at the rate of 390 barrels of oil per day and is the first oil to be produced in Mississipp from the Smackover formaton.

The discovery set off a large scale lease boom in Smith, Scott, Jasper and Newton counties with reports the activity is still continuing.

Southwest Gas Producing Co. and W. C. Feazel have completed their Jefferson County wildcat the Noble No. 1, sec. 30-10n-1w, as the discovery of a new field. The well flowed at the rate of 144 barrels of oil and 620,000 cubic feet of gas per day from perforations in the lower Tuscaloosa Formation at 9,603-05 feet. The well is two miles south of the Rodney Field.

In Smith County, Larue-Smith Production Co. ran electrical log at its wildcat, the Austin-McCollum No. 1, sec. 10-10n-16w, about two miles southeast of the Magee field. The venture is at depth of 13,865 feet and was deepening from original contract depth of 13,200 feet after shows were logged in the Rodessa Formation.

In Clay County about two miles northeast of the Siloam Field Crump, Hadaway and Pepper drilled below 4,900 feet in their wildcat the Calvert No. 1, sec. 16-16s-5e, a scheduled 9,000 foot try.

LARGEST CAKE

The largest cake ever baked anywhere in the world will soon be on dispaly in Nashville, Tennessee — and then served to the entire populace.

The occasion will mark a weeklong nation - wide celebration of the 60th anniversary of the Life and Casualty Insurance Company of Tennessee, one of the largest insurance organizations in the country, Sept. 9-14.

The anniversary cake, which will stand more than 18 feet high and weigh over 6,000 pounds, will be an exact scale model of the 31-story Life and Casualty Tower, the tallest building in the mid-South, and will be placed on display in the tower lobby.

Businessmen and industries throughout Nashville have donated a great deal of their time and materials to make this project a success and an exciting occasion for the whole community. The cake itself will cost Life and Casualty approximately $3,700.

DEALER MEET

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Inabnet, owner of Northeast Motors, and daughter, Lee met in Dallas with top executives of American Motors Corporation at the company's annual dealer conference.

Inabnet said Rambler shattered all-time sales marks this year, and said that on the basis of the company's product program and a booming automobile market, he anticipates new records for this fall and the coming year.

NEW PLANT

Plans to construct one of Louisiana's largest gas treating plants near Gibson and a liquefied petroleum gas fractionation plant at Geismar have been announced by J. E. Wilson, vice president of Shell Oil Company's New Orleans Exploration and Production area.

The gas treating plant, to be located near Gibson on a sixty acre site adjacent to Shell's Gibson barge terminal, has been designed to treat up to 950 million cubic feet of gas daily from the lines of United Gas Pipe Line Co. and Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation. The gas is produced from numerous fields in south Louisiana and offshore Louisiana.

Cotton Futures Activity Slow

Prices closed 20 cents lower to 65 cents higher with only the nearby October delivery showing any decline. Trading was dull.

The previous week prices closed off 5 cents to up 5 cents.

ON THEIR HONOR

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Jefferson County Sheriff William Cranfill had a purpose when he appointed two honorary deputies.

He gave the appointments to 13-year-old and 7-year-old Valley Station boys who had run away from home. Cranfill told them "you are being deputized to see that it does not happen again."

Tax, Trade Funds Provide Major Business Interest

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tax dollars and trade dollars provided the major interest in governmental and business circles the past week.

President Kennedy expressed his views on both subjects.

In each case the dominating idea was to get the economy going at a higher rate.

Urging support of tax-reduction legislation, Kennedy said it is in the national interest for Congress to produce favorable action.

He said it would mean higher profits for business men and hope of a new car, a new home, conveniences, education and travel for individuals.

He said his tax program would mean "release of $11 billion of extra after-taxes purchasing power into the private economy before another downturn can begin."

He added: "No wasteful, inefficient or unnecessary governmental activity will be tolerated."

Kennedy also proposed a new growth target for American business. This is a 10 per cent increase in exports. He said it would erase the balance-of-payments deficit.

He made his views known in an address to 400 industry executives and others holding a conference on export expansion. Five of his Cabinet members supported his ideas.

"If you can add just 10 per cent to your exports—and that should not be too great a task for the enterprisers of the United States—it will help us solve all our problems," the President said.

An Associated Press survey of foreign business men indicated that American industry could improve its sales overseas if it would pursue business more vigorously.

To implement this idea, more than a score of "little White House conferences" will be held in major U.S. cities in the next six weeks to encourage local companies to move into foreign markets.

Economists found encouragement in the fact that the current business upswing is ripening into old age without signs of abatement.

They pointed out that historically the average age of U.S. business expansions is 30 months. The current upturn crossed the 30-month mark Sept. 1. The usual ailments which point to an end are absent.

Personal incomes rose $700 million in August to a record annual rate of $464.9 billion. However, this was the smallest monthly increase since a dip in February.

The government reported that sales and earnings of manufacturers advanced sharply to record heights in the April-June quarter. Sales were estimated at $105.1 billion, a gain of nine per cent over the prior quarter and six per cent above a year earlier.

On the other hand, the annual rate of factory payrolls fell to $93.7 billion in August from the July level but exceeded the $95.1 billion of August 1962.

CALDWELL EVENT

Art Festival's Theme Reported

COLUMBIA (Special) — "Miracles Are Wrought by Hands" is the theme of the eighth annual Caldwell Parish Library Art Festival which will be staged Sept. 28 at the Community Grounds here.

The festival attracted more than 1,000 persons its first year, and each year the number has increased.

According to co-chairman Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, "all ages from children to adults, from amateurs to professionals are welcomed in equal fashion."

She said that ribbons for prizes and few, if any rules except that the work be arranged by 10 a.m. and left until 5 p.m., artists are privileged to bring "as much and as many media as they wish."

Mrs. Reynolds said there is no handling fee, and that only original work is considered for judging.

Each artist and program participant will have his hand drawn on a mural by Mrs. Drew N. Hays with special interest of each sketched.

"It is traditional for many to wear Louisiana heritage costumes, and everyone is invited to join this group to celebrate the 125th year of the founding of Caldwell. In case of rain, the show will go on at the Caldwell Parish High School between Columbia and Grayson, but festival hosts are looking for an eighth straight win, weatherwise," Mrs. Reynolds said.

Division chairmen are: clerical — Mrs. John W. Crump; decoration — Mrs. W. M. Causey; refreshments — Mr. Carey Hancock; style show — Mrs. Wooten Morris; telephone — Mrs. Edna McConnell; electrical equipment — Marcus Thornhill; stage setting — The Trend House; hanging — Oliver Wilson; official photographers — Mr. and Mrs. Earl Williams; programs and printing — Mr. and Mrs. Ted H. Woods; Tea — Cloumbia Garden Club; — grounds — Ronald Pair; hospitality — Mrs. C. R. Godfrey; props — Boyd Wilkins and Charles E. Mullins; luncheon hosts for program participants — A. D. Bridger, Caldwell Bank and Trust Co.; display tables — Clayton James, Citizen' Progressive Bank; commercial exhibits — Mrs. Guy Alford; theme, art interpretation — Jerry Haynes.

Judges will be: adult art — Elbert W. Price of Lake Charles; adult handicraft — Edward W. Schutz of Monroe; Youth art — Mrs. Ken Grubbs of Ruston and Mrs. J. E. Dupuy of West Monroe; and needlecraft — Miss Lola Caldwell of Columbia.

The program co-ordinated by Cameron C. Minard in the morning and Mrs. Guy Alford in the afternoon, will include an inspirational talk, "Look Over Your Shoulder" by Robert C. Snyder; a review of her latest book, Babe Didrikson, Girl Athlete," by Mrs. Lena Y. De Grummond; "Generating an Idea" by Dr. Shirley K Stephenson in collaboration with Easter Pony" by the author, Suzie Blair (Mrs. C.R.), and the photographer, Tommy Kahara; "Children's Art in Louisiana by Mrs. Ted Brode, Commercial Art by Mr. Roy Odom; "Louisiana, With a View Toward Education" by Lee Estes featureing his color slides; "The Department of Art Education"—Mrs. Irma Sompayrac Willard; a style show by the merchants of Caldwell Parish and the Home Demonstration Clubs, produced and narrated by Mrs. Wooten Morris; a tea by the Columbia Garden Club with a band concert by Caldwell Parish High School, Mrs. Charles Pollard, director, in the Garden area.

Western Demos Urge GOP To Fight Birchites

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Western Democrats asked Republicans Saturday to join them in denouncing the John Birch Society and what they called the radical right movement.

In a resolution they also warned "our fellow citizens about the infiltration tactics of the John Birch Society and other radical right groups."

A resolution, adopted by the Western Democratic Conference after three days of speeches attacking the far right, urged "our loyal Republican opposition to denounce the John Birch Society and radical right movement, to expel those Republican organizations which have come under John Birch Society domination, and to insist that all candidates for office on the Republican ticket campaign free of association with the John Birch Society or other radical right groups."

Chattanooga Passes Way To 9-0 Win Over Stubborn Northeast

Ambitious Memphis State Gains 0-0 Tie With Rebels

MEMPHIS (PI) — Mighty Mississippi met its match Saturday night in an ambitious Memphis State team that held the favored Rebels to a 0-0 deadlock after a magnficent goal line stand.

The Rebels, making their 1963 debut, marched to within bare inches of the Memphis State goal line in the second quarter but the tenacious Tiger line held.

If ever a tie could be called a victory for one team, this was it.

The independent Tigers had been gunning for Mississippi for years.

Coach John Vaught, starting his 17th season at Ole Miss, pulled out all stops in an effort to crack the unyielding Memphis State defense. His best weapon was the forward pass with quarterbacks Perry Lee Dunn and James Weatherly sharing aerial duties.

The Rebels knew they were in for a battle from the start in what Vaught had called his toughest season opener in history. After a see-saw battle in the opening quarter, the Rebels staged a sustained march from their own 38 that brought them deep into enemy territory midway through the second period.

Weatherly, a 181-pound junior, fired a 19-yard pass to end Joe Wilkins and fullback Buck Randall picked up two more yards to give Mississippi a first down on the Tigers' seven.

Then the hard-knocking Memphis State line, led by tackles John Fred Robilio and John Evans, dug in. The Rebels fought to the one yard line but were stopped cold inches from home.

Mississippi came charging back strong after the intermission, but lost possession when center Doug Woodlief recovered a fumble on the Tiger 33-yard line. Another Rebels drive a few minutes later ended when wingback Ray Farmer intercepted a Dunn pass.

CORBETT PRAISES

Mac Satisfied: Really Did Job

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

BATON ROUGE — Coach Charles McClendon said he was satisfied with LSU's 14-6 victory over Texas A&M here Saturday night, but atheletic director Jim Corbett had higher praises for the Tigers.

Corbett met briefly with McClendon in the LSU coaches office beneath Tiger Stadium shortly after the game where he said:

"Coach Mac, you did a wonderful job in preparing this team for an opening game. Your offense was the best in 10 years.

McCledon was obviously happy with his sophomore backs who led the Tiger offense.

He noted that quarterback Pat Screen, fullback Donald Schwab and halfback Joe Labruzzo were the leading round gainers.

"Our youngsters really did the job," McClendon said.

But he blamed himself for the Aggie interception of his pass late in the fourth period.

"I pulled a string on it when I really should have shot it out there," Screen said.

He admitted he was nervous at the outset of the game but added "After you get tagged the first time, you get over that."

The 181 pound quarterback described the Aggies "as a real fine team," explaining that Texas A&M "really came after us in the second half."

"We didn't take advantage of the breaks," Screen said," I made a few really bad blunders."

Labruzzo, a 5-6 175 pound scatback from Cutoff, praised his fellow teammates for the blocking he got on his second quarter 83 yard punt return that put LSU ahead, 6-0.

He fumbled the punt momentarily, but said when he looked around, "they were just cutting them down."

"I had fumbled once," Labruzzo said, referring to an earlier fumble, adding, "I knew I had to do something."

McClendon, meantime, said LSU's kicking game, was not as good as it should have been, explaining that he thought punter Danny Newmann of Tallulah was "a little conscious of his kicking."

"Danny was a little disappointed but he is a much better kicker than that," the coach said.

On the Aggies' touchdown that came late in the final period, McClendon said the Tigers were dissappointed at failing to stop Texas A&M.

"But I was glad that we got that experience without costing us anything."

A reporter reminded him that the Aggies scored, but he replied "I was satisfied with the win."

He said the Aggies would not be overpowered adding "They are a real fine football team and really hit us on the inside. Our youngsters did a wonderful job."

Texas Tech Rips Washington 11 On Daniels' Toe

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Sophomore Donnie Anderson ran 43 yards with a pass interception in the third quarter and H. L. Daniels kicked three field goals Saturday night to lead Texas Tech to an upset 16-7 football victory over Washington State.

Anderson's great run brought Tech from a 7-6 deficit and Daniel's field goals put the Red Raiders ahead by nine points with 14:20 left in the game.

The victory matched Tech's 1962 season total when the Raiders won only one game.

Washington State got its lone touchdown in the first quarter after recovering a fumble on the Tech 35. But Daniels kicked field goals of 35 and 40 yards in the second quarter to move the Raiders within a point.

Auburn Edges Houston 21-14

HOUSTON (AP) — Auburn's Plainsmen jumped to a three-touchdown first half lead on the running and passing of Jimmy Sidle but had to turn to defensive play to protect a 21-14 football victory over a young University of Houston team that made a strong second half comeback Saturday night.

Houston did not move beyond the Auburn 37 yard line in the first half but dominated the two final periods as Joe Lopasky scored touchdowns on a one-yard plunge and an 82-yard punt return, the longest in Houston football history.

Eiasman Air Arm Key To Mocs' Victory

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

CHATTANOOGA — The University of Chattanooga followed the passing of quarterback Ron Eiasman to a 9-0 victory over a stubborn Northeast State College club in the season opener for both teams here Saturday night.

Eiasman's throwing was definitely the difference. The quarterback threw for 81 yards on six of nine completions and including the Moccasins' only touchdown.

Eisman then threw the Moccasins to an early third quarter touchdown which sewed up the win.

	Northeast	Chattanooga
FD	11	12
Yards Rushing	157	176
Yards Passing	70	114
Passes (A&C)	8-17	9-12
Intercepted by	2	1
Punts	7-33.3	5-23.7
Fu lost	1	3
Penalties	5-35	4-50

On the touchdown drive, Chattanooga took over on its own 35 and rammed for the score in nine plays. The drive consisted of three first downs.

During the drive, which ended when Eiasman hit fullback Tom Schaefer for the score with 9:45 left in the third period, the Moccasins picked up 51 of 65 yards via the air route.

The final throw was good for three yards and the score.

TRIBE TOUGH

Northeast had nothing to be ashamed of. The Tribe controlled the ball much of the first half and drove as far as the four-yard line in the last quarter before losing the ball on a fumble.

In the statistics department, Chattanooga had 12 first downs while Northeast was only one behind. The home town club rushed for 176 yards as compared to Northeast's 157. The Tribe completed eight of 17 passes for 70 yards while the Moccasins threw good for 114 yards.

Sophomore fullback Ronnie Graham, used mostly in the last half, was the Indians' leading rusher. He bulled his way for 62 yards on nine carries while senior fullback Willie Ragan was second with 52 yards on nine attempts.

Quarterback Bookie Shillcutt hit on five of 10 passes for 41 yards which Mike Cooper connected on three of seven for 29.

The Indian defense was spearheaded by the end play of Carlyle Williams, Jim Love and Wendell Drost. Pass interceptions by Willie Ragan and Morris Douglas were also defensive bright spots for the Tribe.

Linemen Preston Hollier, Charles Rohner, Sherrill Smith, Tommy Beaube, Stanley Starr, Alden Fontenot and Wayne Clement were outstanding on both offense and defense.

Northeast got off its most serious threat early in the fourth period. Ray Pommier returned a punt 10 yards to the Indians' 35. Graham shook loose up the middle on a trap play for 26 yards then got one before the Indians picked up 15 on a personal foul penalty against the Moccasins.

On the first in 10 at the Chattanooga 23, Cooper missed a pass then lost three yards before connecting on a 12 yard pitch to Jim Love.

With fourth and one, Cooper smacked up the middle for a vital yard to give the Indians a first in 10 on the 12 yard line. Then Graham rumbled up the middle for eight yards but was hit and fumbled on the four.

Bert Caldwell recovered for the Moccasins to end Northeast's most serious threat.

TWO TOP PLAYS

On the opening kickoff Myrick pulled in the ball at the seven, headed for the sidelines, eluded three Chattanooga tacklers and raced all the way to the Moccasin 48 yard line. Later in the period, Ragan rammed over two would - be Chattanooga tacklers and raced for 28 yards to give Northeast rooters a thrill.

Donavan Heads Furman Attack

GREY SPARKLES AT QB

Arkansas Raorbacks Blank Oklahoma State Team 21-0

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Eighth-ranked Arkansas used the passing of quarterback Billy Grey and the running of sophomore tailback Jim Lindsey to forge a 21-0 intersectional football victory over Oklahoma State in the opening game for both teams Saturday night.

Lindsey rammed three yards for Arkansas' first touchdown in the first quarter and piled up 68 yards rushing. Gray threw an 18-yard touchdown pass to end Jerry Lamb and completed six of 10 aerials for 115 yards.

Oklahoma State hit hard in its first outing under new Coach Phil Cutchin and the Razorbacks fumbled the ball away four times, three times in the second quarter. But Oklahoma State quarterback Mike Miller and David Whitfield couldn't jell their offense for a single threatening drive.

In the first quarter, the Razorbacks lived up to their billing as co-favorites with Texas in the Southwest Conference. But after the opening period, they achieved full power only once—on the 79-yard touchdown drive Brittenum directed in the third quarter.

Arkansas end Jim John recovered a fumble by Miller on the Cowboys' first offensive series and Arkansas pushed 36 yards for its first touchdown. Lindsey got 23 of those yard on five carries.

After the kickoff, OSU halfback Billy Parent went 20 yards to put the Cowboys on the Arkansas 44, but the drive died. Jerome Bell punted to the Hog 21 and Arkansas charged 79 yards from there for its second score under Gray's leadership.

A 12-yard pass to end Jim Finch and a 17 - yarder to halfback George Walker were the key plays. The payoff came on the 18-yarder to Lamb.

Granger Spurs Maroon Victory

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State mixed ambitious sophomores and seasoned seniors for an offensive combination that gave the Southeastern Conference Maroons a methodical 43-0 football victory Saturday over Howard of Alabama.

Sophomore fullback Hoyle Granger put spirit into the State offense after a slow first quarter and the Maroons controlled the action the rest of the way.

Howard was never able to muster a threat, failing to cross the 50 yard line and making only one first down.

Granger seemed almost impossible to stop as he ripped through for two touchdowns during his limied time in play.

Fullback Bill Moon and quarterback Ashby Cook were other sophomores who joined the Maroons scoring parade. Ode Burrell and Rnnie Kirkland, a guard, contributed the other touchdowns and Justin Canale provided a 32-yard field goal and four conversions.

Howard got its only first down following the opening kickoff when Ed Donahoo's quick kick was blocked by State's Hilton Ball. Larry Wyatt of Howard picked up the ball and ran for a first down on the Howard 32.

Every other time Howard got the ball, it was three downs and punt.

Two touchdowns came in the second quarter—on a 32 - yard sweep by Burrell and a 15-yard smash by Granger.

State scored once in the third quarter on a 67-yard march that ended with Moon blasting 12 yards.

Tigers' New Look Defeats Texas Eleven

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana State University, featuring a "new look" and a daring quarterback in elusive Pat Screen, swept through Texas A and M 14 to 6 Saturday night as a sellout crowd of 67,500

Screen, the darling of the partisan LSU crowd, showed promise of becoming the best quarterback in Tiger history as he passed and ran with deceptive ease.

The new look for LSU was seen in the speed of its backsand the willingness to gamble — something that hasn't been in the Tigertown in many years.

And there were a host of them such as Joe Labruzzo who flashed 83-yards early in the second period to give LSU its first score; Danny LeBlanc, the bulldoging "Cajun," who scored the other in the same period from four yards out; Buddy Hamic, Buddy Soefker, Donald Schwab, George Haynes, White Graves and Mike Vicent.

However, the LSU defense, which had worried coach Charlie McClendon all year, was not as strong as in previous years, although it showed promise of becoming better as the season progressed. It was good enough to hold the Aggies in check until 30 seconds before the game ended when they scored their lone touchdown on a five-yard shuttle pass from halfback Billy Uzell to halfback George Hargett on a tense fourth-down play.

The 20-year-old Screen, a product of Jesuit of New Orleans and the most sought - after player in the south when he graduated two years ago, was redshirted last year and was playing his first varisty game as a sophomore. He showed tremendous elusiveness as a runner and the nerves of a Mississippi riverboat pilot in his passing, the few times he threw.

In all, the lanky quarterback ran for 58 yards, and passed for 33 more with five of nine completions.

In all the Tigers picked up 13 first down to 10 for the Aggies, gained 167 yards rushing to 133 for A and M.

Surprising, the Aggies showed their best effort in the second half. At halftime LSU held the edge in first downs nine to two, and 126 rushing yardage to 52 for A and M.

Only once did the Tigers line up in the I formation which coach McClendon said they would use some this season. They gained no yardage on it. On regular formations, however, the Tigers were wide more times than usual and employed the option play frequently.

There were bright spots in the Tiger defense, however. Bill Truax, the 235-pound right end, who had never played defense until the Aggie opener, played like a demon along the line, rocking through several times to spill A and M quarterback Jim Linnstaedter and Jim Keller. Other defensive standouts were Ruffin Rodrigue, a bandit last season, but a white team starter this season, and remit Prudhomme who was hurt in the first half.

MORE MORE MORE .....

Danny Neumann, the big Tallulah end, didn't have much of a chance to show his booming punts to the crowd as LSU was usually in the Aggie end of the field when he had to kick. One of his punts, however, rolled dead on the Aggie four, and another zoomed 53 yards. He ended up the night, however, with only a 31 average.

Almost from the start, the crowd sensed the change in the LSU offense. On the opennig series, the Tigers, with Screen at the throttle used sweeps and options to move from their own 34 to the 36 were LaBruzzo, a sophomore halfback fumbled and guard Ronny Moore recovered for the Aggies.

In the second period, however, LaBruzzo, a 175-pounder from Cutoff, La., made up for his fumble. He took an Aggie punt on his 17, fumbled again, recovered, then slashed up the middle. At the 40 he found himself free with the exception of the Aggie safety man. He flashed by him at the Aggie 35 like an express train and went on to score alone.

A few plays later, LSU moved goalward again, with Screen passing to Soefker for 14 and to Truax for another 15. But the drive fizzled on the Aggie 30.

But the Tigers were not to be denied. The next time they got the ball, they did score, this time it was the go team with quarter-

Frogs Explode In Second Half

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas Christian University exploded for 10 points in the second half and swept past Kansas 10-6 in a non-conference football game Saturday night.

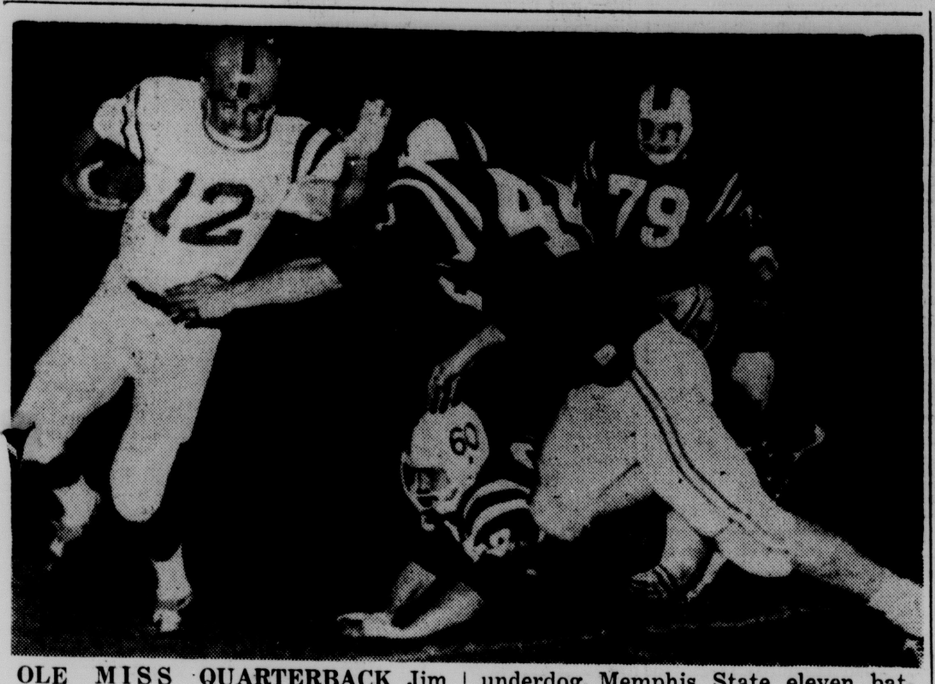

The Horned Frogs, trailing by six points, sent fullback Tommy Crutcher smashing in from the two-yard-line 6:50 deep in the third period and Jimmy McAteer's placement pushed the Purple out front.

Gale Sayers executed a number of electrifying runs, including a 36-yard punt return and a 47-yard burst that was wiped out by a penalty. The latter came with the time running out in the fourth quarter and the Jayhawks battling furiously to overcome the four-point deficit.

Eiasman Air Arm Key To Mocs' Victory

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

CHATTANOOGA — The University of Chattanooga followed the passing of quarterback Ron Eiasman to a 9-0 victory over a stubborn Northeast State College club in the season opener for both teams here Saturday night.

Eiasman's throwing was definitely the difference. The quarterback threw for 81 yards on six of nine completions and including the Moccasins' only touchdown.

Eisman then threw the Moccasins to an early third quarter touchdown which sewed up the win.

	Northeast	Chattanooga

Yards Rushing	157	176
Yards Passing	70	114
Passes (A&C)	8-17	9-12
Intercepted by	2	1
Punts	7-33.3	5-23.7
Fu lost	1	3
Penalties	5-35	4-50

On the touchdown drive, Chattanooga took over on its own 35 and rammed for the score in nine plays. The drive consisted of three first downs.

During the drive, which ended when Eiasman hit fullback Tom Schaefer for the score with 9:45 left in the third period, the Moccasins picked up 51 of 65 yards via the air route.

The final throw was good for three yards and the score.

TRIBE TOUGH

Northeast had nothing to be ashamed of. The Tribe controlled the ball much of the first half and drove as far as the four-yard line in the last quarter before losing the ball on a fumble.

In the statistics department, Chattanooga had 12 first downs while Northeast was only one behind. The home town club rushed for 176 yards as compared to Northeast's 157. The Tribe completed eight of 17 passes for 70 yards while the Moccasins threw good for 114 yards.

Sophomore fullback Ronnie Graham, used mostly in the last half, was the Indians' leading rusher. He bulled his way for 62 yards on nine carries while senior fullback Willie Ragan was second with 52 yards on nine attempts.

Quarterback Bookie Shillcutt hit on five of 10 passes for 41 yards which Mike Cooper connected on three of seven for 29.

The Indian defense was spearheaded by the end play of Carlyle Williams, Jim Love and Wendell Drost. Pass interceptions by Willie Ragan and Morris Douglas were also defensive bright spots for the Tribe.

Linemen Preston Hollier, Charles Rohner, Sherrill Smith, Tommy Beaube, Stanley Starr, Alden Fontenot and Wayne Clement were outstanding on both offense and defense.

Northeast got off its most serious threat early in the fourth period. Ray Pommier returned a punt 10 yards to the Indians' 35. Graham shook loose up the middle on a trap play for 26 yards then got one before the Indians picked up 15 on a personal foul penalty against the Moccasins.

On the first in 10 at the Chattanooga 23, Cooper missed a pass then lost three yards before connecting on a 12 yard pitch to Jim Love.

With fourth and one, Cooper smacked up the middle for a vital yard to give the Indians a first in 10 on the 12 yard line. Then Graham rumbled up the middle for eight yards but was hit and fumbled on the four.

Bert Caldwell recovered for the Moccasins to end Northeast's most serious threat.

TWO TOP PLAYS

On the opening kickoff Myrick pulled in the ball at the seven, headed for the sidelines, eluded three Chattanooga tacklers and raced all the way to the Moccasin 48 yard line. Later in the period, Ragan rammed over two would - be Chattanooga tacklers and raced for 28 yards to give Northeast rooters a thrill.

JOE LABRUZZO, (22) fastest man on LSU's team, proved he was just that, as he streaks downfield on a 83-yard punt return for LSU's first touchdown against Texas A & M in Baton Rouge Saturday night. With him are Tigers Bill Truax (84) and Ralph Pere (73). LSU held a 14-0 halftime lead. (AP Wirephoto)

Ambitious Memphis State Gains 0-0 Tie With Rebels

MEMPHIS (PI) — Mighty Mississippi met its match Saturday night in an ambitious Memphis State team that held the favored Rebels to a 0-0 deadlock after a magnficent goal line stand.

The Rebels, making their 1963 debut, marched to within bare inches of the Memphis State goal line in the second quarter but the tenacious Tiger line held.

If ever a tie could be called a victory for one team, this was it.

The independent Tigers had been gunning for Mississippi for years.

Coach John Vaught, starting his 17th season at Ole Miss, pulled out all stops in an effort to crack the unyielding Memphis State defense. His best weapon was the forward pass with quarterbacks Perry Lee Dunn and James Weatherly sharing aerial duties.

The Rebels knew they were in for a battle from the start in what Vaught had called his toughest season opener in history. After a see-saw battle in the opening quarter, the Rebels staged a sustained march from their own 38 that brought them deep into enemy territory midway through the second period.

Weatherly, a 181-pound junior, fired a 19-yard pass to end Joe Wilkins and fullback Buck Randall picked up two more yards to give Mississippi a first down on the Tigers' seven.

Then the hard-knocking Memphis State line, led by tackles John Fred Robilio and John Evans, dug in. The Rebels fought to the one yard line but were stopped cold inches from home.

Mississippi came charging back strong after the intermission, but lost possession when center Doug Woodlief recovered a fumble on the Tiger 33-yard line. Another Rebels drive a few minutes later ended when wingback Ray Farmer intercepted a Dunn pass.

CORBETT PRAISES

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

BATON ROUGE — Coach Charles McClendon said he was satisfied with LSU's 14-6 victory over Texas A&M here Saturday night, but atheletic director Jim Corbett had higher praises for the Tigers.

Corbett met briefly with McClendon in the LSU coaches office beneath Tiger Stadium shortly after the game where he said:

"Coach Mac, you did a wonderful job in preparing this team for an opening game. Your offense was the best in 10 years.

He noted that quarterback Pat Screen, fullback Donald Schwab and halfback Joe Labruzzo were the leading round gainers.

"Our youngsters really did the job," McClendon said.

LSU has 37 sophomores and only eight seniors and even juniors.

"I really didn't know what to expect before the game," McClendon explained," I was as as some of the boys."

But he blamed himself for the Aggie interception of his pass late in the fourth period.

"I pulled a string on it when I really should have shot it out there," Screen said.

He admitted he was nervous at the outset of the game but added "After you get tagged the first time, you get over that."

The 181 pound quarterback described the Aggies "as a real fine team," explaining that Texas A&M "really came after us in the second half."

"We didn't take advantage of the breaks," Screen said," I made a few really bad blunders."

Labruzzo, a 5-6 175 pound scatback from Cutoff, praised his fellow teammates for the blocking he got on his second quarter 83 yard punt return that put LSU ahead, 6-0.

He fumbled the punt momentarily, but said when he looked around, "they were just cutting them down."

"I had fumbled once," Labruzzo said, referring to an earlier fumble, adding, "I knew I had to do something."

McClendon, meantime, said LSU's kicking game, was not as good as it should have been, explaining that he thought punter Danny Newmann of Tallulah was "a little conscious of his kicking."

"Danny was a little disappointed but he is a much better kicker than that," the coach said.

On the Aggies' touchdown that came late in the final period, McClendon said the Tigers were dissappointed at failing to stop Texas A&M.

"But I was glad that we got that experience without costing us anything."

A reporter reminded him that the Aggies scored, but he replied "I was satisfied with the win."

He said the Aggies would not be overpowered adding "They are a real fine football team and really hit us on the inside. Our youngsters did a wonderful job."

Texas Tech Rips Washington 11 On Daniels' Toe

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Sophomore Donnie Anderson ran 43 yards with a pass interception in the third quarter and H. L. Daniels kicked three field goals Saturday night to lead Texas Tech to an upset 16-7 football victory over Washington State.

Anderson's great run brought Tech from a 7-6 deficit and Daniel's field goals put the Red Raiders ahead by nine points with 14:20 left in the game.

The victory matched Tech's 1962 season total when the Raiders won only one game.

Washington State got its lone touchdown in the first quarter after recovering a fumble on the Tech 35. But Daniels kicked field goals of 35 and 40 yards in the second quarter to move the Raiders within a point.

Auburn Edges Houston 21-14

HOUSTON (AP) — Auburn's Plainsmen jumped to a three-touchdown first half lead on the running and passing of Jimmy Sidle but had to turn to defensive play to protect a 21-14 football victory over a young University of Houston team that made a strong second half comeback Saturday night.

Houston did not move beyond the Auburn 37 yard line in the first half but dominated the two final periods as Joe Lopasky scored touchdowns on a one-yard plunge and an 82-yard punt return, the longest in Houston football history.

GREY SPARKLES AT QB

Arkansas Raorbacks Blank Oklahoma State Team 21-0

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Eighth-ranked Arkansas used the passing of quarterback Billy Grey and the running of sophomore tailback Jim Lindsey to forge a 21-0 intersectional football victory over Oklahoma State in the opening game for both teams Saturday night.

Lindsey rammed three yards for Arkansas' first touchdown in the first quarter and piled up 68 yards rushing. Gray threw an 18-yard touchdown pass to end Jerry Lamb and completed six of 10 aerials for 115 yards.

Oklahoma State hit hard in its first outing under new Coach Phil Cutchin and the Razorbacks fumbled the ball away four times, three times in the second quarter. But Oklahoma State quarterback Mike Miller and David Whitfield couldn't jell their offense for a single threatening drive.

In the first quarter, the Razorbacks lived up to their billing as co-favorites with Texas in the Southwest Conference. But after the opening period, they achieved full power only once—on the 79-yard touchdown drive Brittenum directed in the third quarter.

Arkansas end Jim John recovered a fumble by Miller on the Cowboys' first offensive series and Arkansas pushed 36 yards for its first touchdown. Lindsey got 23 of those yard on five carries.

After the kickoff, OSU halfback Billy Parent went 20 yards to put the Cowboys on the Arkansas 44, but the drive died. Jerome Bell punted to the Hog 21 and Arkansas charged 79 yards from there for its second score under Gray's leadership.

A 12-yard pass to end Jim Finch and a 17 - yarder to halfback George Walker were the key plays. The payoff came on the 18-yarder to Lamb.

Granger Spurs Maroon Victory

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State mixed ambitious sophomores and seasoned seniors for an offensive combination that gave the Southeastern Conference Maroons a methodical 43-0 football victory Saturday over Howard of Alabama.

Sophomore fullback Hoyle Granger put spirit into the State offense after a slow first quarter and the Maroons controlled the action the rest of the way.

Howard was never able to muster a threat, failing to cross the 50 yard line and making only one first down.

Granger seemed almost impossible to stop as he ripped through for two touchdowns during his limied time in play.

Fullback Bill Moon and quarterback Ashby Cook were other sophomores who joined the Maroons scoring parade. Ode Burrell and Rnnie Kirkland, a guard, contributed the other touchdowns and Justin Canale provided a 32-yard field goal and four conversions.

Howard got its only first down following the opening kickoff when Ed Donahoo's quick kick was blocked by State's Hilton Ball. Larry Wyatt of Howard picked up the ball and ran for a first down on the Howard 32.

Every other time Howard got the ball, it was three downs and punt.

Two touchdowns came in the second quarter—on a 32 - yard sweep by Burrell and a 15-yard smash by Granger.

State scored once in the third quarter on a 67-yard march that ended with Moon blasting 12 yards.

Frogs Explode In Second Half

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas Christian University exploded for 10 points in the second half and swept past Kansas 10-6 in a non-conference football game Saturday night.

The Horned Frogs, trailing by six points, sent fullback Tommy Crutcher smashing in from the two-yard-line 6:50 deep in the third period and Jimmy McAteer's placement pushed the Purple out front.

Gale Sayers executed a number of electrifying runs, including a 36-yard punt return and a 47-yard burst that was wiped out by a penalty. The latter came with the time running out in the fourth quarter and the Jayhawks battling furiously to overcome the four-point deficit.

SLOPPY SECOND

Sooners Blitz Clemson, 31-14

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners, seemingly enraged by a sloppy second quarter in which Clemson scored two cheap touchdowns, blitzed the Tigers with a 17-point third quarter here Saturday and took a 31-14 season opening fotball victry.

The Sooners set Clemson up late in the first quarter on their own 17, and again early in the second quarter on the Oklahoma 18. Clemson took advantage and scored twice within a two-minute span early in the second stanza, and only fullback Jim Grisham's 26-yard touchdown run late in the first half kept Oklahoma in the game.

But the Sooners looked like another team after halftime as the Oklahoma line, soundly whipped by the Clemson forwards in the opening half, came to life.

On Clemson's next series, end John Flynn, a starter last season who had been dropped to the third unit in fall practice for being overweight, blocked Bob Fritz punt on the Clemon 15, and linebacker David Boiles picked up the bounding ball and carried it to the Clemson five.

Tide Buries Georgia In All-Sides Assault

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Alabama, led by Joe Namath and Mike Fracchia, powered its way to a 32-7 victory over Georgia Saturday in the opening Southeastern Conference football game for the two teams.

Alabama scored in each period run up a score to take any possible. Namath passed for one score, Fracchia scored twice on field goal and Frankie McClendon tackled Georgia sub quarterback Preston Ridlehuber in the end zone for a safety.

Alabama, apparently wanting to run up the score o take any possible doubt away from last year's 35-0 victory over Georgia, gambled right up to the end. Substitute quarterback Jack Hurlbut threw 41 yards to end Jimmy Dill for the final tally with only seconds remaining.

The possible doubt came as a result of charges that Bear Bryant, Alabama coach, and Wally Butts, former Georgia athletic director, had conspired to rig the 1962 game. Each sued the publishers of the Saturday Evening Post for $10 million and Butts won a jury award of $3 million.

Alabama got a similar break a few minutes later when halfback Wayne Swinford bobbled the ball at the Georgia 30 and tackle McClendon recovered for the Tide.

back Billy Ezell, another sophomore, guilding the attack. It came after Uzzell fumbled on the LSU 49 and Ken Cormier recovered for the Tigers. With LeBlanc, Schwab and Haynes carrying the ball, the Tigers drove to the four, from where LeBlanc blasted over for the score.

In the second half the Aggie defense stiffened and halted several LSU threats, one drive which went to the Aggie 35.

The Aggie score came with time running out. An interception of a Screen pass by Kachtik at the Aggie 30 set it up. From there Linnstaedter, a flashy quarterback engineered the drive to the Tiger 30. There it appeared the Tigers had stopped the Aggies when substitute quarterback Charlie LaGrange, on a four down try appeared trapped. But he got free and tossed a 22 yarder to halfback George Hargett for a first down on the LSU 8. Then the Tigers dug in and with fourth down coming up, and the Aggies at the five, it appeared another effective goalline stand would be made. But Uzzell, a halfback, took a handoff from the quarterback and tossed to Reagan for the score. The conversion attempt failed.

Earlier in the fourth period, the Aggies had made a determined drive that carried to the LSU 29. There Truax made on of his numerous key plays during the night when he blasted through and nabbed Linnstaedter on a crucial fourth - down play.

Then later in the fourth, another Aggie drive was stopped at the 40 when Vincent intercepted a Linnstaedter pass.

Vikings Roll To 35-0 Win

JONESVILLE (Special) — In a display of class "B" championship power, the Vidalia Vikings shredded Block High's defenses from every angle for a 35 to 0 conference victory.

Vidalia's helmsman, Butch Wiggins, got the scoring habit underway for the Vikings in the first quarter when he drove over from three yards out. Wiggins missed the conversion try.

In the second quarter Wiggins went into his routine with end Mike Greer and tossed the sticky-fingered end his fourth touchdown catch for the season. The quarterback split the uprights for the PAT. In the same quarter the Wiggins-Greer duo again clicked, this time for 24 yards and a touchdown. Wiggins booted the extra point. The final score of the second quarter saw Wiggins dive over the Bear's center wall for six points. His conversion try was unsuccessful.

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The University of Buffalo avenged a defeat of a year ago, by beating a favored Ohio University football team Saturday, 7-0.

BARGAIN BUY

Frankel's Bupers Outhoofs Stars To Capture Futurity

NEW YORK (AP) — Marion Frankel's Bupers, a $16,500 bargain buy, beat out the favored Black Mountain and Count Bud in a furious three-horse finish Saturday in capturing the $146,960 Futurity Stakes for 2-year-old at Aqueduct.

AT BAYOU DESIARD

Women's Amateur Meet Slated Here

Louisiana's amateur women golfers are looking ahead the next week for their 35th annual state tournament scheduled for Monroe's Bayou DeSiard Country Club September 30 through October 4.

Qualifying for the championship flight of the match play tournament will be held Monday, Sept. 30, and contenders for the title, defended by Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, will be paired for single 18 - hole matches each day through the Oct. 4 final that's scheduled for 36 holes.

Many contenders are expected in Monroe this week for practice rounds over the Bayou DeSiard course that posts women's par at 74.

The Louisiana State Women's Golf Association holds it annual board of directors meeting at Monroe next Friday to complete tournament plans.

The board is composed of Mrs. Raymond Salmen, New Orleans, president; Mrs. George Fleming, New Orleans, secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Morris W. Newman, New Orleans, vice president, and Mrs. Harry Henderson, Alexandria, Mrs. Elizabeth Peterson, Mrs. Palmer Long and Mrs. Harry J. Morgan, all of Shreveport, and Mrs. David I. Garrett Jr., Monroe.

Early arriving contenders will participate in a mixed four-ball tournament next Sunday with the men of Bayou DeSiard Country Club as partners of the women.

New association officers will be elected at a general meeting of the state members on Tuesday, October 1.

Mrs. George Miller, Monroe, state champion of 1952, has retired from competitive golf, but, as a Bayou DeSiard member, she will serve the tournament in an advisory capacity. Actual direction of the tournament will be up to Mrs. High and Mrs. Nash.

Duke Recovers Loss To Down South Carolina

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Fullback Curtis scored two touchdowns and kicked a 30-yard goal as Duke's Blue Devils came from behind and defeated South Carolina 22-14 Saturday in a thrill-packed season opener for both teams.

A crowd of 25,000 watched in 87-degree weather as South Carolina got a siy-point jump on Duke's defending Atlantic Coast Conference champions.

Tigers Defeat Chisox, 4-3

DETROIT (AP) — Dennis McLain, making his major league debut, cracked one of three Detroit homers and pitched the Tigers to a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

Vol Sophomores Stomp Richmond For The Coach

THEIR YEARLY CLASH

Tigers Cautious About Southern

GRAMBLING (Special) — Coaches are cautiously drawing battle plans and the rudiments of survival will become a way of life at Grambling and Southern this week on the eve of their annual donnybrook.

The two clubs will collide here Saturday night with 18,000 fans crossing prayful fingers. Statewide enthusiasm and an unprecedented display of spirit could raise the over all attendance to 20,000 The contest is one of the nation's biggest small college games. Usually long faced and mournful, Jaguar mentor Bob Lee and Tiger foreman Eddie Robinson are making efforts to tranquilize nervous supporters by prediction of a wide open battle.

Both teams started the season with refreshing look ahead philosophies.

Lee expects an upsurge after a so-so 5-5 mark, and Robinson, wearing a doleful Alfred Hitchcock expression, affirms that an increase in over all Tiger efficiency is expected for the Southern contest.

Neither coach would comment on the possible outcome. "Wait until Sunday," Robinson retorted. Lee only glared, but managed an optimistic outlook.

The faces of both men will become a little more taut and sunbaked lines a little deeper etched before the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Grambling defeated Southern 14-3 last year.

It will require another exclamation point performance to upend the visitors Saturday.

Sooners Blitz Clemson, 31-14

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners, seemingly enraged by a sloppy second quarter in which Clemson scored two cheap touchdowns, blitzed the Tigers with a 17-point third quarter here Saturday and took a 31-14 season opening fotball victry.

The Sooners set Clemson up late in the first quarter on their own 17, and again early in the second quarter on the Oklahoma 18. Clemson took advantage and scored twice within a two-minute span early in the second stanza, and only fullback Jim Grisham's 26-yard touchdown run late in the first half kept Oklahoma in the game.

But the Sooners looked like another team after halftime as the Oklahoma line, soundly whipped by the Clemson forwards in the opening half, came to life.

On the Sooners' third play from scrimmage, halfback Lance Rentzel broke loose around left end, cut to the middle and raced 49 yards for the tying score.

On Clemson's next series, end John Flynn, a starter last season who had been dropped to the third unit in fall practice for being overweight, blocked Bob Fritz punt on the Clemon 15, and linebacker David Boiles picked up the bounding ball and carried it to the Clemson five.

Tide Buries Georgia In All-Sides Assault

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Alabama, led by Joe Namath and Mike Fracchia, powered its way to a 32-7 victory over Georgia Saturday in the opening Southeastern Conference football game for the two teams.

Alabama scored in each period run up a score to take any possible. Namath passed for one score, Fracchia scored twice on field goal and Frankie McClendon tackled Georgia sub quarterback Preston Ridlehuber in the end zone for a safety.

Alabama, apparently wanting to run up the score o take any possible doubt away from last year's 35-0 victory over Georgia, gambled right up to the end. Substitute quarterback Jack Hurlbut threw 41 yards to end Jimmy Dill for the final tally with only seconds remaining.

The possible doubt came as a result of charges that Bear Bryant, Alabama coach, and Wally Butts, former Georgia athletic director, had conspired to rig the 1962 game. Each sued the publishers of the Saturday Evening Post for $10 million and Butts won a jury award of $3 million.

Alabama got a similar break a few minutes later when halfback Wayne Swinford bobbled the ball at the Georgia 30 and tackle McClendon recovered for the Tide.

back Billy Ezell, another sophomore, guilding the attack. It came after Uzzell fumbled on the LSU 49 and Ken Cormier recovered for the Tigers. With LeBlanc, Schwab and Haynes carrying the ball, the Tigers drove to the four, from where LeBlanc blasted over for the score.

In the second half the Aggie defense stiffened and halted several LSU threats, one drive which went to the Aggie 35.

The Aggie score came with time running out. An interception of a Screen pass by Kachtik at the Aggie 30 set it up. From there Linnstaedter, a flashy quarterback engineered the drive to the Tiger 30. There it appeared the Tigers had stopped the Aggies when substitute quarterback Charlie LaGrange, on a four down try appeared trapped. But he got free and tossed a 22 yarder to halfback George Hargett for a first down on the LSU 8. Then the Tigers dug in and with fourth down coming up, and the Aggies at the five, it appeared another effective goalline stand would be made. But Uzzell, a halfback, took a handoff from the quarterback and tossed to Reagan for the score. The conversion attempt failed.

Earlier in the fourth period, the Aggies had made a determined drive that carried to the LSU 29. There Truax made on of his numerous key plays during the night when he blasted through and nabbed Linnstaedter on a crucial fourth - down play.

Then later in the fourth, another Aggie drive was stopped at the 40 when Vincent intercepted a Linnstaedter pass.

Said McClendon after the game: "We gained a lot of experience."

BARGAIN BUY

Frankel's Bupers Outhoofs Stars To Capture Futurity

NEW YORK (AP) — Marion Frankel's Bupers, a $16,500 bargain buy, beat out the favored Black Mountain and Count Bud in a furious three-horse finish Saturday in capturing the $146,960 Futurity Stakes for 2-year-old at Aqueduct.

AT BAYOU DESIARD

Women's Amateur Meet Slated Here

Louisiana's amateur women golfers are looking ahead the next week for their 35th annual state tournament scheduled for Monroe's Bayou DeSiard Country Club September 30 through October 4.

Qualifying for the championship flight of the match play tournament will be held Monday, Sept. 30, and contenders for the title, defended by Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, will be paired for single 18 - hole matches each day through the Oct. 4 final that's scheduled for 36 holes.

Many contenders are expected in Monroe this week for practice rounds over the Bayou DeSiard course that posts women's par at 74.

The Louisiana State Women's Golf Association holds it annual board of directors meeting at Monroe next Friday to complete tournament plans.

The board is composed of Mrs. Raymond Salmen, New Orleans, president; Mrs. George Fleming, New Orleans, secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Morris W. Newman, New Orleans, vice president, and Mrs. Harry Henderson, Alexandria, Mrs. Elizabeth Peterson, Mrs. Palmer Long and Mrs. Harry J. Morgan, all of Shreveport, and Mrs. David I. Garrett Jr., Monroe.

Early arriving contenders will participate in a mixed four-ball tournament next Sunday with the men of Bayou DeSiard Country Club as partners of the women.

New association officers will be elected at a general meeting of the state members on Tuesday, October 1.

Mrs. George Miller, Monroe, state champion of 1952, has retired from competitive golf, but, as a Bayou DeSiard member, she will serve the tournament in an advisory capacity. Actual direction of the tournament will be up to Mrs. High and Mrs. Nash.

Duke Recovers Loss To Down South Carolina

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Fullback Curtis scored two touchdowns and kicked a 30-yard goal as Duke's Blue Devils came from behind and defeated South Carolina 22-14 Saturday in a thrill-packed season opener for both teams.

A crowd of 25,000 watched in 87-degree weather as South Carolina got a siy-point jump on Duke's defending Atlantic Coast Conference champions.

Tigers Defeat Chisox, 4-3

DETROIT (AP) — Dennis McLain, making his major league debut, cracked one of three Detroit homers and pitched the Tigers to a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

Vol Sophomores Stomp Richmond For The Coach

THEIR YEARLY CLASH

Tigers Cautious About Southern

GRAMBLING (Special) — Coaches are cautiously drawing battle plans and the rudiments of survival will become a way of life at Grambling and Southern this week on the eve of their annual donnybrook.

The two clubs will collide here Saturday night with 18,000 fans crossing prayful fingers. Statewide enthusiasm and an unprecedented display of spirit could raise the over all attendance to 20,000 The contest is one of the nation's biggest small college games. Usually long faced and mournful, Jaguar mentor Bob Lee and Tiger foreman Eddie Robinson are making efforts to tranquilize nervous supporters by prediction of a wide open battle.

Both teams started the season with refreshing look ahead philosophies.

Lee expects an upsurge after a so-so 5-5 mark, and Robinson, wearing a doleful Alfred Hitchcock expression, affirms that an increase in over all Tiger efficiency is expected for the Southern contest.

Neither coach would comment on the possible outcome. "Wait until Sunday," Robinson retorted. Lee only glared, but managed an optimistic outlook.

The faces of both men will become a little more taut and sunbaked lines a little deeper etched before the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Grambling defeated Southern 14-3 last year.

It will require another exclamation point performance to upend the visitors Saturday.

Gun Clinic Needs Kids

With Sam Hanna

Kids Need Clinic

One of the several kids that hunted around us on the opening day of dove season was like a lot of other youngsters out hunting. He was a pretty darn good shot and just full of enthusiasm.

The heat didn't slow him down a bit as he banged away with a Mississippi automatic. He was a cute little fellow about 10-years-old.

But there was something that kept us watching him more than we did the doves. His gun wasn't fit for firing.

Sure, it was throwing the shot out there, bringing the birds down when he held it on them. But that ole singleshot had seen its better days.

It was taped together and the trigger guard was unattached, its purpose unserved. It was a dangerous weapon and in the hands of an unknowing, little boy.

You get the point. This youngster needed instruction.

And that's exactly what the kids of this area can get next Saturday, September 28th, at the Monroe Optimist Club's Second Gun Safety Clinic at the Bancroft Camp outside West Monroe.

Youngsters who have never been hunting before or youngsters who have hunted can pick up vital tips on the proper methods of handling firearms safely.

They will be taught by personnel of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission — men who know guns, men who know how to handle guns.

The clinic will be conducted in two sessions, starting with a morning session at 9:30 a.m. until noon and an afternoon session from 2-4:30 p.m., but youngsters need not attend both sessions.

For those who need transportation to the Bancroft Camp, a city bus will be waiting at Monroe City Hall at 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Besides the wildlife personnel, the program will consist of trap and skeet shooting by members of the Pine Hills Gun Club, shooting demonstrations by experts Otis McCollum of Memphis and Art Hill (Winchester - Western) of Pineville.

Sheriff Bailey Grant will be the clinic master again.

It's a fine program the Optimist Club has planned and one that should be supported by every adult who has a son or a daughter that shoots.

Youngsters need to know the safety methods of handling firearms, because it's like the late Herb Parsons said, "Take your boy hunting today and you won't have to hunt for him tomorrow."

Arkansas Deer Season

Arkansas will have an any dear season this year in 29 counties.

This will apply to the December 28-January 1 split in the Arkansas deer season. Last year any deer seasons were held in 5 Arkansas counties.

This year, the any deer counties are Arkansas, Ashley, Baxter, Boone, Carroll, Chicot, Cleveland, Crawford Dallas, Desha, Drew, Franklin, Grant, Jefferson, Johnson, Lincoln, Logan, Lonoke, Madison, Marion, Monroe, Prairie south of highway 70, Newton, Scott, Searcy, Sebastian, Union, Varn Buren and Washington.

In addition, the White River Wildlife Refuge will have an any deer season November 14-16 and from last year's accounts this is where the shooting will take place.

Arkansas has a good plan for any deer season, since hunters can take deer in the 29 various counties. This serves to spread the hunters out.

Louisiana needs to work toward that end when its deer herds get to the point where they need reducing. In our state this year we'll have any deer seasons in Tensas and Madison.

And in other states, any deer seasons have been held for many years — states that produce bigger deer kills year in and year out.

Know The Law

Ignorance is not accepted as an excuse if you're arrested for violating the law, including game laws.

Then it's important that hunters are familiar with the restrictions before they go into the woods.

A few days ago a man was arrested in the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area by agent Frank Swayze. The man had buck shot in his possession and of course a gun.

Hunters need to know that the law prohibits any sportsman from carrying shotgun shells of no greater power than No. 4's on any game management area in Louisiana except when those areas are opened for deer hunting.

All of this is mentioned on the permits that are required of sportsmen to have before they enter the game management areas during the open seasons.

Since the squirrel season is opening October 5th, you need to act now to get your permits if you plan to hunt the game management areas. In the case of the Russell Sage area, either write or drop by the wildlife office on Black Bayou. Do not telephone the office.

Early Dove Season

Now that the first split of the dove season has closed, we keep hearing the argument that the early season gives the violator a good chance to get in the woods, that it permits the outlaw squirrel hunter to operate.

We agree that it does give the violator a good smokescreen, but no more so than any of the seasons.

What should we do, close the early dove season because a few people violate the law? If that theory is sound, then why don't we hold the opening of the squirrel season until the deer season opens, since the squirrel season gives the outlaw a good chance to shoot a deer early?

It's unfortunate that a few people will take advantage of the situation to hunt out-of-season. But the answer is not in the setting of the seasons.

The answer is in law enforcement and that's where you play a part if you are outraged by outlaw hunting. Sing on them. Call the game warden.

A game warden is not any better than his contacts or his sources of information. Support your game warden and he'll support you.

Little Man's Corner

The weatherman upset the fishing for a few days last week while the dove season closed and this of course means the little men had trouble making news afield.

But the days ahead are promising. This cooler weather should provide better fishing — conditions that the fishermen have been waiting for.

In addition, the squirrel season is fast approaching. For instance, the season in South Arkansas opens October 1st with the Louisiana season following October 5th.

From Ashley County, Lane Jordan, experienced hunter, reports that the outlook for the squirrel season there is good. Ashley squirrels are on the edges of the hills in the pines and hickory,but in three or four weeks will be moving into the bottoms.

Woods workers report a good crop of squirrels in Ashley County.

Meantime, three Monroe dove hunters closed the season with the limit — Harry Cooper, J. C. and Roy Scalia. Clay Blakemore was along, but the best he could do was sprain his ankle.

Roy Dan Waggoner of Ridgecrest got the limit of doves near Ferriday on the last day of the first split.

From Winnfield, Walt Durham reports that his fishing camp also sports a hunting club during the deer season at a cost of $20 per member for the year. It's not a commercial project, in that the money goes on the upkeep of the hounds, horses and a jeep that belong to the club.

If you're interested, contact Durham at Rt. 3, Winnfield.

And at Lake Providence, W. P. Rushing caught six nice bass in the rain. The largest weighed 5½ pounds. Roy Daniels and son Davy of Mer Rouge landed 26 bass at Gassoway.

Lake St. John has been good and Sam Barnco got the limit of bass. Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Wall of Ferriday caught the limit of white perch in Old River Lake.

From the Vidalia area, Red Parker caught 10 bass in Lake Concordia where Jarratt H. White of Ferriday got the limit of bass.

In fact, Concordia produced several limits of bass, including Mrs. Mary T. Vallas, Jimmy Vanier, Claude Wallace, Elmer Turner, Henry Thompson and David Smith, all of Ferriday.

At Deer Park, limit getters of bass included C. L. Abernathy, Willie Ray Cotton, Louis M. Crooks, all of Vidalia, and C. A. Finley, Charles F. Hendricks and Robert and Willie Webster, all of the Deer Park Road out of Vidalia.

TERRY ISAACSON, quarterback of the Air Force team is on his way toward the winning touchdown to hand Washington a 10-7 defeat at Colorado Springs Saturday. This action came in the last three minutes of the game as the Air Force marched its way into the new season with a win. (AP Wirephoto)

GAMBLING ACCUSATIONS

League Investigator Still Checking Conerly

CLARKSDALE, Miss. (AP)—The National Football League's chief investigator spent "several hours" Saturday checking the financial records involving transactions between former New York Giants quarterback Charley Conerly and accused gambler Maurice I. Lewis.

Jim Hamilton, investigating aide to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, said he had gone over copies of canceled checks and bank records, which Conerly said will prove that checks he received from Lewis were merely repayment of personal loans.

"I'm still getting the facts," said Hamilton after spending "all morning" at Conerly's home here. "Their interpretation will have to come from the commissioner. I cannot say anything until the inquiry is finished and the report is released in New York."

Conerly, now 41, has maintained that his financial records will show that he had received checks from Lewis in the same amount he loaned to Lewis.

Lewis, a bankrupt real estate developer, was indicted by a grand jury here last Jan. 8 on football gambling charges. Conerly said he had been friendly with Lewis for a number of years but was unaware of his alleged gambling activities.

In a copyright story by James H. White, the Memphis Press-Scimitar disclosed Friday that five checks endorsed by Conerly or his wife were produced at Lewis' recent bankruptcy hearing.

Conerly said loans he made to Lewis were covered by checks written by Lewis on the same day. The only difference, Conerly said, was that Lewis asked him to hold the checks for a short period before cashing them.

A $3,500 check involved in the transactions was from the sale of a 1960 Cadillac Lewis sold for him in Memphis, the retired Giant star said. The car was presented to Conerly in 1959 during a "Charley Conerly Day" celebration at Yankee Stadium.

Barney Liles of the auto company in Memphis confirmed that he bought the car from Conerly through Lewis.

"Maurice sent Charley a check and I paid Maurice $3,500," Liles said.

Two other checks from Lewis to Conerly—one for $475 and another for $600—were in part payment of a $3,000 loan Conerly had made to Lewis' earlier, Conerly said.

MYERS' PASSING

Wildcats Ramble To Whip Tigers

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — Tom Myers befuddled Missouri Saturday with his pin-point passing to lead Northwestern to a 23-12 triumph in a battle of Big Ten and Big Eight powers.

Myers' aerial artistry accounted for one touchdown and set up two others scored by fullback Steve Murphy. Myers completed 10 of 16 passes for 209 yards.

Underdog Missouri surprised Northwestern, favored to win the Big Ten title in 1963, by jumping to a 6-0 lead early in the first quarter.

Northwestern forced Missouri to punt on the opening series of plays and the ball hit a Northwestern player. Tom Wyrostek recovered on the Missouri 49 with just over five minutes gone, and sophomore quarterback Gary Lane hit Monroe Phelps with a 25-yard touchdown pass. The conversion try by Bill Leistritz was wide.

But Northwestern bounced back in the same period by recovering a fumble on the Missouri 28. Myers' screen pass to Chuck Logan gained 26 yards to the Missouri 1. Three plays later, Murphy banged over for the touchdown.

Northwestern halted a Missouri drive on the 8 yard line after Carl Reese bounced off a half dozen Wildcat defenders and raced 55 yards to the 15. Minutes later, another Missouri drive was halted when Richard Uhlir intercepted a lane pass at midfield and returned it to the 23. Myers then tossed to end Chuck Logan for the touchdown.

Sportsmen Fete Slated Tuesday In Harrisonburg

JONESVILLE (Special) — Four hundred pounds of barbequed pork and beef with all the trimmings will be on the menu when the Catahoula Independent Sportsmen's Association gets together on Tuesday, Sept 24 in Harrisonburg.

E. B. McGuffee, president of the group, said that the barbeque begins at 8 p.m. on Fort Hill, and will feature entertainment by two local singing groups. He stated that over 300 members and guests are expected to attend. Each member is entitled to bring one guest.

"Those members who have not paid their dues are urged to do so before the barbeque," McGuffee said. He added that membership cards will be available at the barbeque.

An invitation has been extended to L. D. Young, director of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission and to members of the commission.

McGuffee noted that in the event of inclement weather the affair will be held in the Harrisonburg High School building.

Colts Upended By Philadelphia

HOUSTON (AP)—Don Hoak singled home the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning as Philadelphia edged Houston 4-3 Saturday.

Hoak's two-out blow came off Hal Woodeshick, now 11-9, and scored Cookie Rojas from second. Rojas was running for Wes Covington, who had led off the eighth with a single.

Carolina State Over Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Quarterback Jim Rossi and three other backs who started playing together as freshmen in 1960 at North Carolina State ran and passed the Wolfpack to a 36-14 victory over Maryland Saturday.

The opening game defeat was the first for Maryland in Coach Tom Nugent's five seasons.

Perry's Homer Drops Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rookie Bob Perry knocked in the decisive runs with a two - run homer in the seventh inning in Los Angeles' 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

The Angeles scored three times in the seventh, one run crossing on Cleveland outfielder Vic Davalillo's first error of the season. The Indians scored twice in the seventh to make it 4-2 and chased starter Dean Chance, who pushed his record up to 13-17.

Air Force Academy Rallies For 10-7 Win Over Huskies

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—An inspired fourth - period attack by Air Force turned a dull football game into a movie-style thriller as the Falcons defeated the favored Washington Huskies 10-7 in their televised intersection game Saturday.

Washington, tied with Ohio State for tench place in the Associated Press pre-season poll, looked to have the Cadets on the ropes late in the fourth period when the Huskies pounded down to the Air Force nine.

There the Falcons dug in and took the ball on downs before launching its hair-tingling 91-yard drive for the winning touchdown. The Cadets' passing attack had sputtered most of the cloudy afternoon, but this time quarterback Terry Isaacson made it go.

He threw seven passes with only one interruption when he was tossed for a loss and the cadets found themselves on the Huskies' seven. On the next play Isaacson faked a pass, then raced through the Washington defenders for the score with only 1:34 left.

Prior to this dramatic air charge, all the scoring had been squeezed into about 23 seconds of the first period.

The Huskies got a big break soon after the fourth period opened when guard John O'Brien intercepted a Cadet pass and ran to the enemy 23. But a combination of aroused Falcon defense and a penalty stopped the Huskies and Don Safford attempted field goal slithered off to the left.

Except for the final scoring drive by Air Force, the Huskies defense was so tough that the Cadets only crossed the midfield stripe three times.

The first time was early in the game when Air Force recovered a Washington fumble and moved 34 yards to the eight and set up Holiday's field goal.

Army Cadets Rip Boston U., 30-0

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Tom Smith, a 178-pound sophomore from Kinnelon, N.J., broke loose for touchdown runs of 80 and 66 yards Saturday as Army, minus its famed Chinese Bandits, walloped Boston University 30-0.

Both sparkling sprints came in the third period. The longest was from scrimmage, a slant off left tackle, and the 66-yard gallopiwas a punt return.

Tony Pyrz, third-string Army quarterback, contributed a third long touchdown when he intercepted a pass in the closing minutes and ran 57 yards.

Gun Clinic Needs Kids

With Sam Hanna

Kids Need Clinic

One of the several kids that hunted around us on the opening day of dove season was like a lot of other youngsters out hunting. He was a pretty darn good shot and just full of enthusiasm.

The heat didn't slow him down a bit as he banged away with a Mississippi automatic. He was a cute little fellow about 10-years-old.

But there was something that kept us watching him more than we did the doves. His gun wasn't fit for firing.

Sure, it was throwing the shot out there, bringing the birds down when he held it on them. But that ole singleshot had seen its better days.

It was taped together and the trigger guard was unattached, its purpose unserved. It was a dangerous weapon and in the hands of an unknowing, little boy.

You get the point. This youngster needed instruction.

And that's exactly what the kids of this area can get next Saturday, September 28th, at the Monroe Optimist Club's Second Gun Safety Clinic at the Bancroft Camp outside West Monroe.

Youngsters who have never been hunting before or youngsters who have hunted can pick up vital tips on the proper methods of handling firearms safely.

They will be taught by personnel of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission — men who know guns, men who know how to handle guns.

The clinic will be conducted in two sessions, starting with a morning session at 9:30 a.m. until noon and an afternoon session from 2-4:30 p.m., but youngsters need not attend both sessions.

For those who need transportation to the Bancroft Camp, a city bus will be waiting at Monroe City Hall at 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Besides the wildlife personnel, the program will consist of trap and skeet shooting by members of the Pine Hills Gun Club, shooting demonstrations by experts Otis McCollum of Memphis and Art Hill (Winchester - Western) of Pineville.

Sheriff Bailey Grant will be the clinic master again.

It's a fine program the Optimist Club has planned and one that should be supported by every adult who has a son or a daughter that shoots.

Youngsters need to know the safety methods of handling firearms, because it's like the late Herb Parsons said, "Take your boy hunting today and you won't have to hunt for him tomorrow."

Arkansas Deer Season

Arkansas will have an any dear season this year in 29 counties.

This will apply to the December 28-January 1 split in the Arkansas deer season. Last year any deer seasons were held in 25 Arkansas counties.

This year, the any deer counties are Arkansas, Ashley, Baxter, Boone, Carroll, Chicot, Cleveland, Crawford Dallas, Desha, Drew, Franklin, Grant, Jefferson, Johnson, Lincoln, Logan, Lonoke, Madison, Marion, Monroe, Prairie south of highway 70, Newton, Scott, Searcy, Sebastian, Union, Varn Buren and Washington.

In addition, the White River Wildlife Refuge will have an any deer season November 14-16 and from last year's accounts this is where the shooting will take place.

Arkansas has a good plan for any deer season, since hunters can take deer in the 29 various counties. This serves to spread the hunters out.

Louisiana needs to work toward that end when its deer herds get to the point where they need reducing. In our state this year we'll have any deer seasons in Tensas and Madison.

And in other states, any deer seasons have been held for many years — states that produce bigger deer kills year in and year out.

Know The Law

Ignorance is not accepted as an excuse if you're arrested for violating the law, including game laws.

Then it's important that hunters are familiar with the restrictions before they go into the woods.

A few days ago a man was arrested in the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area by agent Frank Swayze. The man had buck shot in his possession and of course a gun.

Hunters need to know that the law prohibits any sportsman from carrying shotgun shells of no greater power than No. 4's on any game management area in Louisiana except when those areas are opened for deer hunting.

All of this is mentioned on the permits that are required of sportsmen to have before they enter the game management areas during the open seasons.

Since the squirrel season is opening October 5th, you need to act now to get your permits if you plan to hunt the game management areas. In the case of the Russell Sage area, either write or drop by the wildlife office on Black Bayou. Do not telephone the office.

Early Dove Season

Now that the first split of the dove season has closed, we keep hearing the argument that the early season gives the violator a good chance to get in the woods, that it permits the outlaw squirrel hunter to operate.

We agree that it does give the violator a good smokescreen, but no more so than any of the seasons.

What should we do, close the early dove season because a few people violate the law? If that theory is sound, then why don't we hold the opening of the squirrel season until the deer season opens, since the squirrel season gives the outlaw a good chance to shoot a deer early?

It's unfortunate that a few people will take advantage of the situation to hunt out-of-season. But the answer is not in the setting of the seasons.

The answer is in law enforcement and that's where you play a part if you are outraged by outlaw hunting. Sing on them. Call the game warden.

A game warden is not any better than his contacts or his sources of information. Support your game warden and he'll support you.

Little Man's Corner

The weatherman upset the fishing for a few days last week while the dove season closed and this of course means the little men had trouble making news afield.

But the days ahead are promising. This cooler weather should provide better fishing — conditions that the fishermen have been waiting for.

In addition, the squirrel season is fast approaching. For instance, the season in South Arkansas opens October 1st with the Louisiana season following October 5th.

From Ashley County, Lane Jordan, experienced hunter, reports that the outlook for the squirrel season there is good. Ashley squirrels are on the edges of the hills in the pines and hickory,but in three or four weeks will be moving into the bottoms.

Woods workers report a good crop of squirrels in Ashley County.

Meantime, three Monroe dove hunters closed the season with the limit — Harry Cooper, J. C. and Roy Scalia. Clay Blakemore was along, but the best he could do was sprain his ankle.

Roy Dan Waggoner of Ridgecrest got the limit of doves near Ferriday on the last day of the first split.

From Winnfield, Walt Durham reports that his fishing camp also sports a hunting club during the deer season at a cost of $20 per member for the year. It's not a commercial project, in that the money goes on the upkeep of the hounds, horses and a jeep that belong to the club.

If you're interested, contact Durham at Rt. 3, Winnfield.

And at Lake Providence, W. P. Rushing caught six nice bass in the rain. The largest weighed 5½ pounds. Roy Daniels and son Davy of Mer Rouge landed 26 bass at Gassoway.

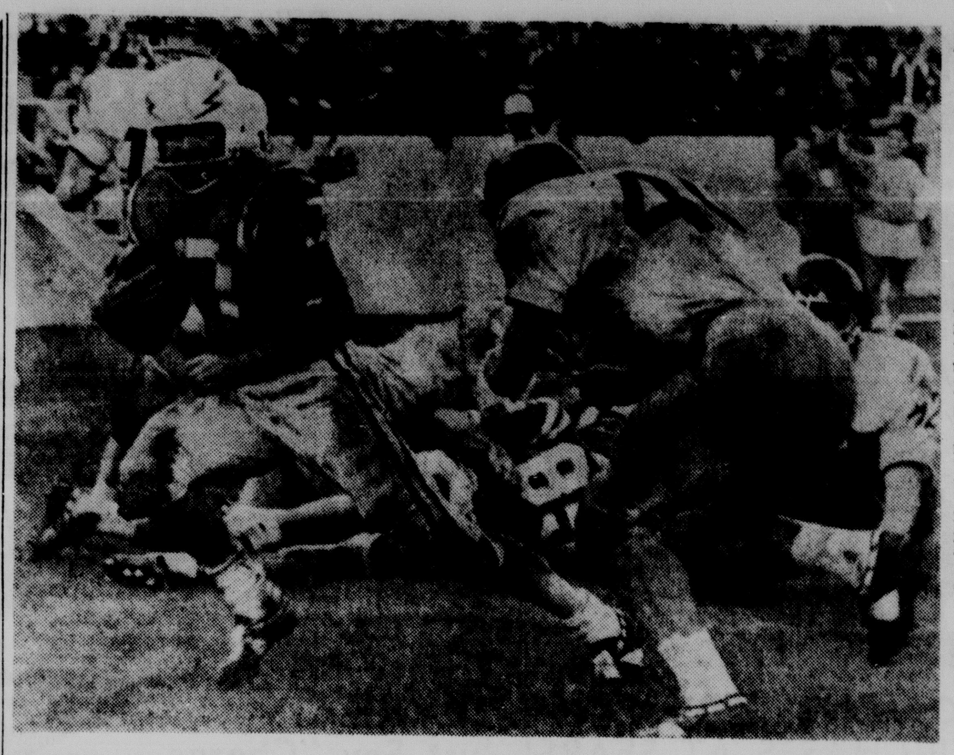

Lake St. John has been good and Sam Barnco got the limit of bass. Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Wall of Ferriday caught the limit of white perch in Old River Lake.

From the Vidalia area, Red Parker caught 10 bass in Lake Concordia where Jarratt H. White of Ferriday got the limit of bass.

In fact, Concordia produced several limits of bass, including Mrs. Mary T. Vallas, Jimmy Vanier, Claude Wallace, Elmer Turner, Henry Thompson and David Smith, all of Ferriday.

At Deer Park, limit getters of bass included C. L. Abernathy, Willie Ray Cotton, Louis M. Crooks, all of Vidalia, and C. A. Finley, Charles F. Hendricks and Robert and Willie Webster, all of the Deer Park Road out of Vidalia.

TERRY ISAACSON, quarterback of the Air Force team is on his way toward the winning touchdown to hand Washington a 10-7 defeat at Colorado Springs Saturday. This action came in the last three minutes of the game as the Air Force marched its way into the new season with a win. (AP Wirephoto)

GAMBLING ACCUSATIONS

League Investigator Still Checking Conerly

CLARKSDALE, Miss. (AP)—The National Football League's chief investigator spent "several hours" Saturday checking the financial records involving transactions between former New York Giants quarterback Charley Conerly and accused gambler Maurice I. Lewis.

Jim Hamilton, investigating aide to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, said he had gone over copies of canceled checks and bank records, which Conerly said will prove that checks he received from Lewis were merely repayment of personal loans.

"I'm still getting the facts," said Hamilton after spending "all morning" at Conerly's home here. "Their interpretation will have to come from the commissioner. I cannot say anything until the inquiry is finished and the report is released in New York."

Conerly, now 41, has maintained that his financial records will show that he had received checks from Lewis in the same amount he loaned to Lewis.

Lewis, a bankrupt real estate developer, was indicted by a grand jury here last Jan. 8 on football gambling charges. Conerly said he had been friendly with Lewis for a number of years but was unaware of his alleged gambling activities.

In a copyright story by James H. White, the Memphis Press-Scimitar disclosed Friday that five checks endorsed by Conerly or his wife were produced at Lewis' recent bankruptcy hearing.

Conerly said loans he made to Lewis were covered by checks written by Lewis on the same day. The only difference, Conerly said, was that Lewis asked him to hold the checks for a short period before cashing them.

A $3,500 check involved in the transactions was from the sale of a 1960 Cadillac Lewis sold for him in Memphis, the retired Giant star said. The car was presented to Conerly in 1959 during a "Charley Conerly Day" celebration at Yankee Stadium.

Barney Liles of the auto company in Memphis confirmed that he bought the car from Conerly through Lewis.

"Maurice sent Charley a check and I paid Maurice $3,500," Liles said.

Two other checks from Lewis to Conerly—one for $475 and another for $600—were in part payment of a $3,000 loan Conerly had made to Lewis earlier, Conerly said.

MYERS' PASSING

Wildcats Ramble To Whip Tigers

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — Tom Myers befuddled Missouri Saturday with his pin-point passing to lead Northwestern to a 23-12 triumph in a battle of Big Ten and Big Eight powers.

Myers' aerial artistry accounted for one touchdown and set up two others scored by fullback Steve Murphy. Myers completed 10 of 16 passes for 209 yards.

Underdog Missouri surprised Northwestern, favored to win the Big Ten title in 1963, by jumping to a 6-0 lead early in the first quarter.

Northwestern forced Missouri to punt on the opening series of plays and the ball hit a Northwestern player. Tom Wyrostek recovered on the Missouri 49 with just over five minutes gone, and sophomore quarterback Gary Lane hit Monroe Phelps with a 25-yard touchdown pass. The conversion try by Bill Leistritz was wide.

But Northwestern bounced back in the same period by recovering a fumble on the Missouri 28. Myers' screen pass to Chuck Logan gained 26 yards to the Missouri 1. Three plays later, Murphy banged over for the touchdown.

Northwestern halted a Missouri drive on the 8 yard line after Carl Reese bounced off a half dozen Wildcat defenders and raced 55 yards to the 15. Minutes later, another Missouri drive was halted when Richard Uhlir intercepted a lane pass at midfield and returned it to the 23. Myers then tossed to end Chuck Logan for the touchdown.

Sportsmen Fete Slated Tuesday In Harrisonburg

JONESVILLE (Special) — Four hundred pounds of barbequed pork and beef with all the trimmings will be on the menu when the Catahoula Independent Sportsmen's Association gets together on Tuesday, Sept 24 in Harrisonburg.

E. B. McGuffee, president of the group, said that the barbeque begins at 8 p.m. on Fort Hill, and will feature entertainment by two local singing groups. He stated that over 300 members and guests are expected to attend. Each member is entitled to bring one guest.

"Those members who have not paid their dues are urged to do so before the barbeque," McGuffee said. He added that membership cards will be available at the barbeque.

An invitation has been extended to L. D. Young, director of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission and to members of the commission.

McGuffee noted that in the event of inclement weather the affair will be held in the Harrisonburg High School building.

Colts Upended By Philadelphia

HOUSTON (AP)—Don Hoak singled home the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning as Philadelphia edged Houston 4-3 Saturday.

Hoak's two-out blow came off Hal Woodeshick, now 11-9, and scored Cookie Rojas from second. Rojas was running for Wes Covington, who had led off the eighth with a single.

Air Force Academy Rallies For 10-7 Win Over Huskies

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—An inspired fourth - period attack by Air Force turned a dull football game into a movie-style thriller as the Falcons defeated the favored Washington Huskies 10-7 in their televised intersection game Saturday.

Washington, tied with Ohio State for tench place in the Associated Press pre-season poll, looked to have the Cadets on the ropes late in the fourth period when the Huskies pounded down to the Air Force nine.

There the Falcons dug in and took the ball on downs before launching its hair-tingling 91-yard drive for the winning touchdown. The Cadets' passing attack had sputtered most of the cloudy afternoon, but this time quarterback Terry Isaacson made it go.

He threw seven passes with only one interruption when he was tossed for a loss and the cadets found themselves on the Huskies' seven. On the next play Isaacson faked a pass, then raced through the Washington defenders for the score with only 1:34 left.

Prior to this dramatic air charge, all the scoring had been squeezed into about 23 seconds of the first period.

The Huskies got a big break soon after the fourth period opened when guard John O'Brien intercepted a Cadet pass and ran to the enemy 23. But a combination of aroused Falcon defense and a penalty stopped the Huskies and Don Safford attempted field goal slithered off to the left.

Except for the final scoring drive by Air Force, the Huskies defense was so tough that the Cadets only crossed the midfield stripe three times.

The first time was early in the game when Air Force recovered a Washington fumble and moved 34 yards to the eight and set up Holiday's field goal.

MRS. RALPH CLARK COOPER

Candlelight Vows Unite Miss Long, Ralph Cooper

Miss Cora Jeanette Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jake C. Long of Farmerville, became the bride of Ralph Clark Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jackson Cooper of Newellton on Saturday evening, September 21. The double ring ceremony was performed at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, Farmerville by Dr. Luther B. Hill.

A sunburst arrangement of pale pink gladioli, chrysanthemums and carnations, banked by emerald foliage and a graduated arch of pale pink tapers formed a background for the exchange of vows. Floor baskets of the same pink flowers marked each side of the candle arch, flanked by tall tree candelabra holding pink tapers and entwined with emerald foliage. Pews were marked by pale pink flowers tied with pink satin ribbons.

Mrs. Frank Yelton presented a program of organ music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Roy Twig.

Wearing a gown of pure silk peau de soie, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bodice of imported French cut lace featured a high scalloped neckline and elbow sleeves, embellished with seed peals and sequins.

Mrs. Donald W. Gates, matron of honor, wore a floor length gown of American beauty peau de soie, accented at the waistline by a mauve rose cummerbund with a flat bustle bow at the back. Bridemaids, Miss Lita Tugwell of Louisiana Tech; Miss Donna Sue Green of LSU; Misses Shirley and Marilyn Cooper of Newellton, sisters of the bridegroom and Mrs. A. D. Smith Jr., of New Orleans, wore gowns of mauve rose peau de soie with back panels falling from cummerbunds of American beauty. All the attendants wore circlet hats with net veiling, matching slippers and short white gloves. Each carried a cascade bouquet of pink sensation roses, tied with pink satin ribbons and maline poufs.

Candles were lighted by Miss Mary Jane Cooper of Newellton, sister of the bridegroom, who was gowned similar to other attendants, and by Richard Long, cousin of the bride. Miss Patti Long, sister of the bride, served as flower girl. Her dress was of pale pink with a mauve rose cummerbund and back panel. She wore a wristlet of pink elfe roses and scattered rose petals in the bride's path.

Attending Mr. Cooper as best man was Lenard Hedrick of Baton Rouge. Groomsmen ushers were Jimmy Long, brother of the bride; Donald Long and Elzie Long, her cousins, all of Farmerville; Noble Ellington of Mangham and Roger Boughton of College Station, Texas.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Long was attired in a model of russett lace over autumn taffeta. She wore matching shoes and a small leaf styled hat and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Cooper, mother of the bridegroom, chose a gown of brown silk linen with matching accessories and a corsage of flesh toned cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Long were hosts at a reception in their home. The entrance was illuminated by hurricane lamps and softly glowing bamboo lights enhanced the flower beds. The registry table on the porch held a pale frosted memory candle, wreathed in greenery. Presiding at the bride's book was Miss Lynn Baughman.

On the mantel in the living room was a massive fan-shaped arrangement of white stock and pink roses, flanked by silver candelabra with pink tapers. A five branched candelabra epergne with pink roses, pink tapers and net poufs graced the piano, where Miss Frances Read of SMU, played soft music throughout the reception.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white organdy cloth, appliqued with linen leaves and roses, and centered with a crystal and silver compote holding a pryamid of pink sensation roses. Miss Jayme Spencer of LSU, presided at the silver punch bowl and the tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Bobby L. Green.

Others assisting were Miss Margarett Baughman, Miss Anelle Long, Mrs. W. A. Downs, Mrs. Edward Everett, Mrs. Fred Eldred, Mrs. Lillie Silmon, Mrs. Dennis Long, Mrs. Jesse Long and Mrs. Marvin Long, of Farmerville; Miss La June Pickel of Northeast Louisiana State College; Mrs. Emmett Long of Belcher; Mrs. Joe J. La Dart of Monroe and Mrs. Maurice Lockwood, Lake Charles.

After a wedding trip along the Gulf Coast the couple will be at home at 1425 Opelika Road in Auburn, Alabama. For travel the bride changed into a suit of winter white wool with belted overblouse of brown silk linen. She wore a leopard pillbox hat and brown lizard accessories and a green cymbidium orchid corsage.

A graduate of Farmerville high school the bride attended Louisiana Tech and will be a junior at Auburn University in the fall term. Mr. Cooper is a graduate of Newellton high school and of Louisiana Tech. He will begin graduate work on his master's degree at Auburn.

Texture Is New In Fall Hosiery

The news in the fall legline comes from texture as hosiery fashions take new strides in knee-high and over-the-knee stockings — all spelling sportive for town and country.

Ribbing, diamond patterns, other textured effects star in stockings for daytime dressing as well as sports. Seams introduce a new look in full length, patterned hosiery. Plain stretch types hold a now-classic place for casual wear.

The stocking wardrobe will naturally continue to include conventional sheers and medium weights and here the news is color, with pale tones giving way to high-spirited darker shades. For evening, sheers are jeweled, clocked, seamed.

Tana Jean Rhodes, Joseph B. Brewer Wed In College Place Baptist Church

Miss Tana Jean Rhodes of this city, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. A. J. Manion, San Antonio, Texas, became the bride of Joseph Benjamin Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Brewer of Vidalia, on Saturday, September 14 in College place Baptist Church.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Owens, with whom she made her home at 103 Inglewood Drive, Monroe.

Baskets of white gladioli formed a setting for the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. performed by Rev. T. Earl Ogg. Ronnie Brothers, organist, played appropriate wedding marches and accompanied Miss Sally Carroll who sang "O Perfect Love."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her grandfather, A. S. Owens, who gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of white parchment taffeta with appliques of re-embroidered lace encircling the portrait neckline and scattered over the voluminous skirt which terminated in a chapel train. Long sleeves formed lily points over her hands. A queen's crown of pearls held her veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of gladioli buds surrounding a white orchid.

Mrs. Bobby Joe Ward, Morgan City, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. William Ragan and Miss Sharon Peters. Their identical gowns of blue peau de soie were fashioned with short trains. They wore matching pillbox hats with nose veils and carried bouquets of white glamellias.

Flower girl was Miss Sharon Hancock, cousin of the bride, who wore a floor length gown of blue peau de soie with matching veiled headpiece. Miss Diana Hancock, also a cousin of the bride, wearing a dress of white organdy with pink roses and ribbons and white headdress, carried the basket of rice bags, which were presented the guests during the reception.

William T. Brewer attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were Tommy O'Neal and Ross Dyer. Serving as ushers were Bobby Joe Ward, Lee Odom, George Coley, Bill Powell and George Murray. Lee Odom also served as candlelighter.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Manion wore a gown of blue silk organza with blue lace bodice, and a hat of blue and violet flowers. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Brewer, wore a pink lace sheath with white accessories and both mothers wore orchid corsages. Mrs. Owens, grandmother of the bride, selected a mauve colored dress and hat with which she wore an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the social room of the church. The bride's table was covered with blue net over a white cloth, and garlanded with violets. Centerpiece was an arrangement of blue asters and white stock interspersed with glittering wedding rings and hearts.

MRS. JOSEPH BENJAMIN BREWER

After a wedding trip to Dallas, Texas, where they also plan to visit Six Flags over Texas the couple will be at home at 3606 Breville in Monroe, while continuing studies at Northeast Louisiana State College. For travel the bride wore a green wool knit suit with deeper green trim, with gold mesh and pearl jewelry, black accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Mrs. Brewer graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and attended Louisiana State University before transferring to Northeast. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma and Phi Mu sororities. A member of Kappa Sigma fraternity, Mr. Brewer graduated from Vidalia high school and attended Southwestern University before enrolling at Northeast.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Murray Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Brewer, H. Ross Dyer, Tommas O'Neal, Bill Brewer and Bill Powell, all of Vidalia and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Joe Ward, Morgan City.

TOMATOES TAKE HERBS

Tomatoes take to the added flavor of herbs and spices. Try using a light touch of basil, celery salt, chives, coriander, curry powder, dill, oregano, sage, sesame seed or tarragon.

Mrs. Campbell Fetes New Resident At Luncheon

Appointments in the autumnal theme were predominant in a 12 o'clock luncheon given Wednesday by Mrs. Jack S. Campbell, in courtesy to Mrs. Homer Tillery, new resident of the city. The Tillery family recently moved to Monroe from Rome, Georgia and have established a home at 2716 Pargoud Blvd.

Bayou DeSiard Country Club was scene of the event where luncheon was served on the porch overlooking the bayou. Assisting Mrs. Campbell in the courtesies were Mrs. Wilson Ewing, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie and Mrs. Henry Guerriero.

Guests were seated at one long table covered with a dark green linen cloth down the center of which were fall tone ribbons. Central arrangement was a matching green container overflowing with fall tone flowers in yellows and bronze with matching spikes of wheat.

A pyramid arrangement of the yellow and bronze flowers interspersed with wheat spikes also graced the coffee table. Places for guests were marked with individual fall flowers and velvet leaves on which the names were inscribed in brown ink.

Guests invited for the occasion to meet Mrs. Tillery were Mrs. Carey Thompson Jr., Mrs. Henry Guerriero, Mrs. Harold Woods Sr., Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mrs. Kennedy Abington, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, Mrs. Harry Frazier Sr., Mrs. Travis Brown, Mrs. G. A. Boyd, Mrs. Ed Seymour, Mrs. J. C. Cranberry Red Sweeps World Of Fashion

Our native cranberry, considered quite a dish since Pilgrim times, has swished into the world of fashion this season as if is were a creation by a French designer rather than a discovery by the Indians.

Milady adopted Cranberry Red first and shared it with the children. Now it's rumored that Mimman is picking it up for shirts, jackets and suits!

Cranberries start to color on the vines right after Labor Day and harvesters are getting ready to scoop up a crop that is expected to run to 131,760,000 pounds. Department store windows will have their own Cranberry Red harvest as they match up the new color with the historic berry that began its career perking up Pemmican.

The Indians ate them, colored their rugs with them, and used them for a medicine, passing on their recipes to the Pilgrims.

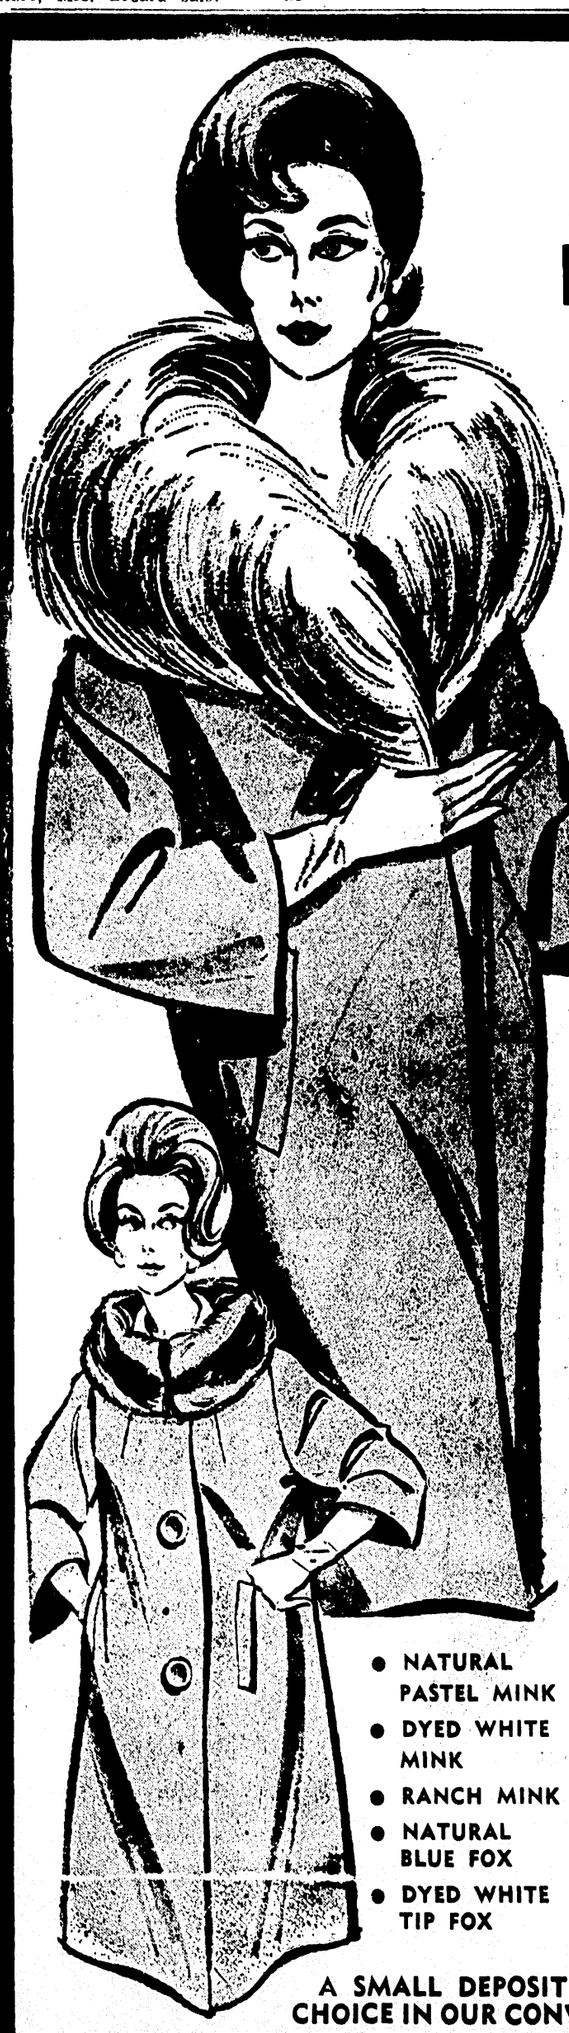

Cranberries have been popular ever since, and this season they're the height of fashion. If you want to be, too, go saucy, wear Cranberry.

MRS. RALPH CLARK COOPER

Candlelight Vows Unite Miss Long, Ralph Cooper

Miss Cora Jeanette Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jake C. Long of Farmerville, became the bride of Ralph Clark Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jackson Cooper of Newellton on Saturday evening, September 21. The double ring ceremony was performed at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, Farmerville by Dr. Luther B. Hill.

A sunburst arrangement of pale pink gladioli, chrysanthemums and carnations, banked by emerald foliage and a graduated arch of pale pink tapers formed a background for the exchange of vows. Floor baskets of the same pink flowers marked each side of the candle arch, flanked by tall tree candelabra holding pink tapers and entwined with emerald foliage. Pews were marked by pale pink flowers tied with pink satin ribbons.

Mrs. Frank Yelton presented a program of organ music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Roy Ludwig.

Wearing a gown of pure silk peau de soie, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bodice of imported French cut lace featured a high scalloped neckline and elbow sleeves, embellished with seed peals and sequins.

Mrs. Donald W. Gates, matron of honor, wore a floor length gown of American beauty peau de soie, accented at the waistline by a mauve rose cummerbund with a flat bustle bow at the back. Bridemaids, Miss Lita Tugwell of Louisiana Tech; Miss Donna Sue Green of LSU; Misses Shirley and Marilyn Cooper of Newellton, sisters of the bridegroom and Mrs. A. D. Smith Jr., of New Orleans, wore gowns of mauve rose peau de soie with back panels falling from cummerbunds of American beauty. All the attendants wore circlet hats with net veiling, matching slippers and short white gloves. Each carried a cascade bouquet of pink sensation roses, tied with pink satin ribbons and maline poufs.

Candles were lighted by Miss Mary Jane Cooper of Newellton, sister of the bridegroom, who was gowned similar to other attendants, and by Richard Long, cousin of the bride. Miss Patti Long, sister of the bride, served as flower girl. Her dress was of pale pink with a mauve rose cummerbund and back panel. She wore a wristlet of pink elfe roses and scattered rose petals in the bride's path.

Attending Mr. Cooper as best man was Lenard Hedrick of Baton Rouge. Groomsmen ushers were Jimmy Long, brother of the bride; Donald Long and Elzie Long, her cousins, all of Farmerville; Noble Ellington of Mangham and Roger Boughton of College Station, Texas.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Long was attired in a model of russett lace over autumn taffeta. She wore matching shoes and a small leaf styled hat and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Cooper, mother of the bridegroom, chose a gown of brown silk linen with matching accessories and a corsage of flesh toned cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Long were hosts at a reception in their home. The entrance was illuminated by hurricane lamps and softly glowing bamboo lights enhanced the flower beds. The registry table on the porch held a pale frosted memory candle, wreathed in greenery. Presiding at the bride's book was Miss Lynn Baughman.

On the mantel in the living room was a massive fan-shaped arrangement of white stock and pink roses, flanked by silver candelabra with pink tapers. A five branched candelabra epergne with pink roses, pink tapers and net poufs graced the piano, where Miss Frances Read of SMU, played soft music throughout the reception.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white organdy cloth, appliqued with linen leaves and roses, and centered with a crystal and silver compote holding a pryamid of pink sensation roses. Miss Jayme Spencer of LSU, presided at the silver punch bowl and the tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Bobby L. Green.

Others assisting were Miss Margarett Baughman, Miss Anelle Long, Mrs. W. A. Downs, Mrs. Edward Everett, Mrs. Fred Eldred, Mrs. Lillie Silmon, Mrs. Dennis Long, Mrs. Jesse Long and Mrs. Marvin Long, of Farmerville; Miss La June Pickel of Northeast Louisiana State College; Mrs. Emmett Long of Belcher; Mrs. Joe J. La Dart of Monroe and Mrs. Maurice Lockwood, Lake Charles.

After a wedding trip along the Gulf Coast the couple will be at home at 1425 Opelika Road in Auburn, Alabama. For travel the bride changed into a suit of winter white wool with belted overblouse of brown silk linen. She wore a leopard pillbox hat and brown lizard accessories and a green cymbidium orchid corsage.

A graduate of Farmerville high school the bride attended Louisiana Tech and will be a junior at Auburn University in the fall term. Mr. Cooper is a graduate of Newellton high school and of Louisiana Tech. He will begin graduate work on his master's degree at Auburn.

Fashion Goes Feminine In Two Directions

Fashion goes feminine this fall in two directions — the lifted waistline and the stretched out torso. Paris is calling the waistline "terraine vague" (or undefined ground), meaning that it can be anywhere, and the American designers, from Top Names to Mass Markets, are in agreement.

Even skirt lengths are vague, ranging from short short to mid-calf to ankle, depending on fabric and mood.

There's a fluid, graceful feeling to these dresses, often achieved by the bias cutting (shades of Jean Harlow!) so popular in the '30s and due for a big revival in all fabrics including wools this fall.

Bias cutting achieves a fit that moves when the figure moves—a far more subtle way of emphasis than skin - tight fitting or rigid inflexible boning can give.

Intricate seaming and raglan sleeves often contribute to this all shape, all supple feeling of sexy softness which appears in many of the day clothes and reaches real eminence in the late-day and cocktail - time dresses that verge into the frankly romantic.

Many late day and evening dresses go even further into the Femme Fatale look; very slinky, very dramatic, very understated, gaining all their impact from shape and fabric and simplicity. These have a true feminine elegance that is the exact opposite of the fussy, cluttered, blatant bouffants that were once almost a "dress-up" uniform.

Long, graceful sleeves have returned, either thin and fitting, contributing to the long skinny look, or full and gathered and cuffed for the romantic feeling. And the "costume look" in rich woolens and velvets has returned as well.

Not for a long time has there been such a feeling of a new look—a new and elegantly feminine feeling — in the fashion scene.

Ruffles Adorn At-Home Wear

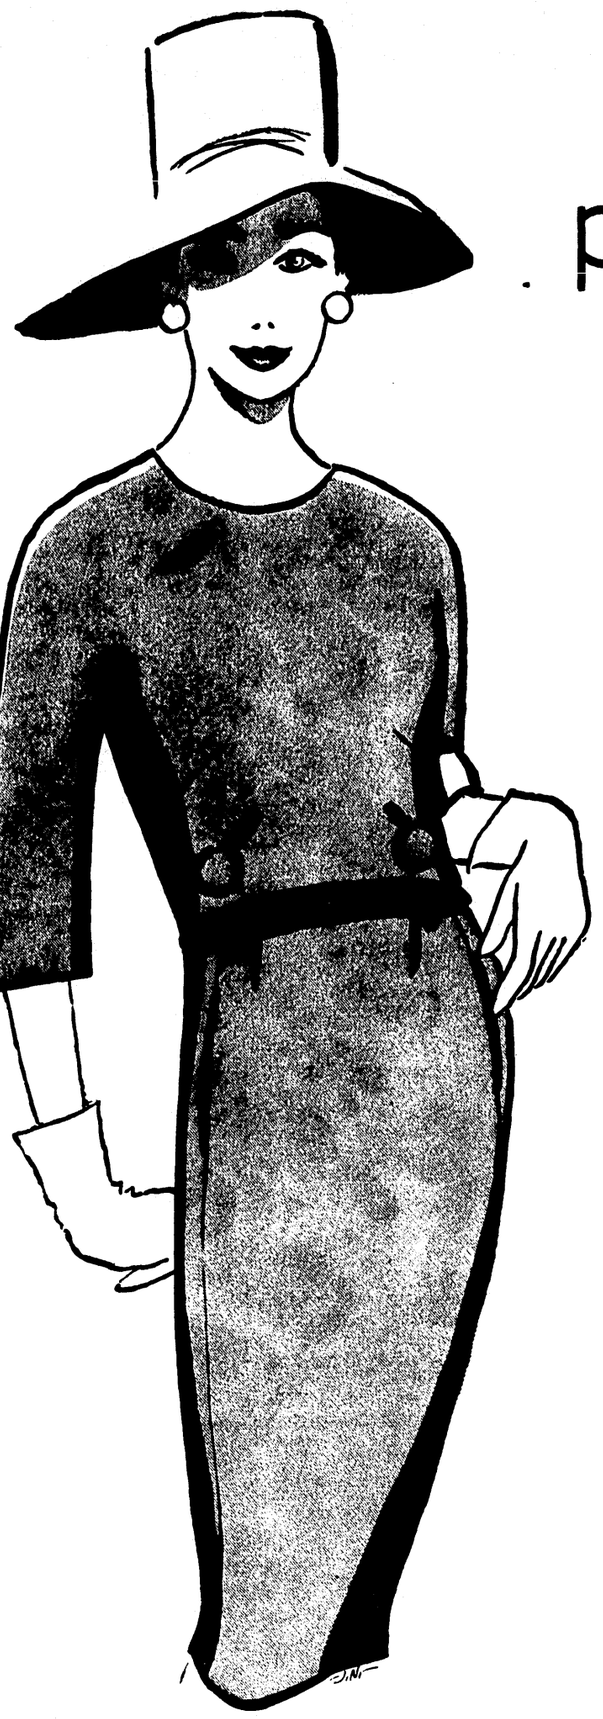

If sportswear goes to the ballroom, where will the ruffles go? Onto the at-home clothes, of course. The more casual the outer fashions, the more ruffly the inner ones.

The big thing to wear with at-home pajamas is a sleeveless ruffle-edged mohair lace coat. The peignoirs go back to double rows of ruffles, Victorian style. Maribou jackets are ruffle-edged.

An at-home dress is made like a baby's with smocked yoke and ruffled sleeves. Pajamas have their ruffles in the form of deep flounces at leg bottoms and sleeve edges. One collection showed a skinny at-home pajama entirely covered in rows of tiny lace ruffles, sort of beatnik-romantic.

Fashion Goes Feminine In Two Directions

Fashion goes feminine this fall in two directions — the lifted waistline and the stretched out torso. Paris is calling the waistline "terraine vague" (or undefined ground), meaning that it can be anywhere, and the American designers, from Top Names to Mass Markets, are in agreement.

Even skirt lengths are vague, ranging from short short to mid-calf to ankle, depending on fabric and mood.

There's a fluid, graceful feeling to these dresses, often achieved by the bias cutting (shades of Jean Harlow!) so popular in the '30s and due for a big revival in all fabrics including wools this fall.

Bias cutting achieves a fit that moves when the figure moves—a far more subtle way of emphasis than skin - tight fitting or rigid inflexible boning can give.

Intricate seaming and raglan sleeves often contribute to this all shape, all supple feeling of sexy softness which appears in many of the day clothes and reaches real eminence in the late-day and cocktail - time dresses that verge into the frankly romantic.

Many late day and evening dresses go even further into the Femme Fatale look; very slinky, very dramatic, very understated, gaining all their impact from shape and fabric and simplicity. These have a true feminine elegance that is the exact opposite of the fussy, cluttered, blatant bouffants that were once almost a "dress-up" uniform.

Long, graceful sleeves have returned, either thin and fitting, contributing to the long skinny look, or full and gathered and cuffed for the romantic feeling. And the "costume look" in rich woolens and velvets has returned as well.

Not for a long time has there been such a feeling of a new look—a new and elegantly feminine feeling — in the fashion scene.

Ruffles Adorn At-Home Wear

If sportswear goes to the ballroom, where will the ruffles go? Onto the at-home clothes, of course. The more casual the outer fashions, the more ruffly the inner ones.

The big thing to wear with at-home pajamas is a sleeveless ruffle-edged mohair lace coat. The peignoirs go back to double rows of ruffles, Victorian style. Maribou jackets are ruffle-edged.

An at-home dress is made like a baby's with smocked yoke and ruffled sleeves. Pajamas have their ruffles in the form of deep flounces at leg bottoms and sleeve edges. One collection showed a skinny at-home pajama entirely covered in rows of tiny lace ruffles, sort of beatnik-romantic.

Babushka Arrives In Millinery

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

There has long been an unmentionable word in millinery, a word so strong that designers would turn pale if by chance they heard it. But now it has to be put down right in print.

Babushka — there it is, that rag of a head scarf which so many millions use in lieu of a hat. It's right in the midst of millinery. What's worse, it was launched as a fashion by a top Paris house, Yves St. Laurent.

His white organdie babushka in the spring collection set everyone designing scarf millinery. With last winter in mind (cold, wasn't it?) all the Paris milliners are turning out scarf hats, hoods, helmets and babushkas. And so are American designers.

Of course, these are fashion babushkas, you understand, real designs. They come in fur-lined jersey, all kinds of furs themselves, velvet and jeweled wools.

Crusader helmet shapes are youngest, often extending down into a capelet over the shoulders. Irene has one which is jeweled wool. Vincent-Harmik's squirrel hood, in medieval style, comes close around the throat and down inside a coat collar.

Some babushkas are real tie-ons, printed in leopard, or made of fake fur fabric. Others are actually big mufflers to wind around the head and shoulders. But whatever the variation, the fact is that milliners are designing the non-hat, the once unmentionable babushka.

TO WED SATURDAY, September 28 are Miss Virginia Ann Reynolds and Robert Gene Knickerbocker, whose forthcoming marriage is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Pete Reynolds, 320 McKinley St. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Knickerbocker, 1706 Glenmar. Rev. James R. Edwards, pastor of Parkview Baptist Church, will perform the ceremony at 2 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents.

At this time of year, when temperatures are dropping and the first fall clothes are appearing, conditions are even pleasanter than Deep Summer for out of town visitors. Guests in town are always entertained and always report a happy impression of the Twin Cities, but for those accustomed to cooler climes, Fall is an ideal time to visit here.

Australian visitors here last weekend were MR. and MRS. ERNEST BENDER and their children, MR. and MRS. NORMAN BENDER, whose home is in Geelong. They were guests of HELEN and DAVE AGNEW in their home on Auburn avenue. The elder Mrs. Bender is a member of Quota Club. She and Helen became friends when the latter was serving as president of the international group.

The Benders are on the way home from an around the world cruise. They left Australia on June 1, travelling west with stops in Asia and Africa en route to Europe. After visiting New York and Washington, D. C., they flew to Monroe, leaving here Monday, for Toronto, Canada. They are to proceed from there to Vancouver from whence they will drive down the West Coast, sailing from Los Angeles October 7.

Combining business with pleasure on their trip, the Benders were interested in touring several Monroe business establishments. SOBYL CHRISTMAN arranged for the group to visit Southern Bell's plant last Friday. On Monday prior to their departure, they inspected Central Savings Bank and there saw the design exhibit sponsored by architects of this area.

Among the social affairs planned for the Benders was a tea Saturday afternoon at the home of LUCY SARTOR in Alto. Guests from Rayville and Columbia were included in the group who called to meet the visitors. Later in the afternoon, a trip up the river aboard the BURT SPERRY'S boat was a treat for the Australians.

Saturday evening, a buffet supper was planned honoring these visitors at the home of AURELINE and CHARLES SLADE, JR. Seasonal garden flowers decorated the table where fourteen guests served themselves before being seated at individual tables. The menu included ham, turkey, a choice of salads, and buttermilk cake.

On Sunday the Benders were invited for that most typical of Monroe affairs, the after-church milk punch party, at the home of JUANITA and CLAY WILSON. Juanita centered her table with Fashion roses in a crystal compote. Hot Welsh rarebit and salted nuts were served with the punch, which made an instant hit. The honoree added the recipe to her round-the-world collection. She said that she would give the recipe to the women's editor of her home-town paper, "but not until I've had my own milk punch party."

Helen and Dave invited all members of the Quota club and their husbands for dinner at their home to meet the Benders Sunday evening. Barbecue steak supper was served to about twenty-eight guests. The visitors left on Monday, repeating that Monroe was a real highlight of their world trip.

Guests of MAUD and HENRY MAYO this week are MR. and MRS. DAN LINDSAY and their daughter, DANA RENEE of Montgomery, Alabama. Mrs. Lindsay will be remembered as the former Norma Jean Holcomb, daughter of the late FRED HOLCOMBS, who lived several years with the Mayos before her marriage. Young Dana's grandparents are COLONEL and MRS. JOE LINDSAY, MR. and MRS. ALVIN DOPSON; her great-grandparents, MR. and MRS. LOUIS LINDSAY, all of Montgomery. The Dan Lindsays will be here with the Mayos through this coming week.

ASHLEY HAMILTON'S guest over last week end was WAYNE BIENVENU of St. Martinville. Ashley honored her visitor with a dinner party at the farm. The twelve guests invited included old school friends of the honoree.

Here from Hyattsville, Maryland are DR. and MRS. JAMES WHITE (Polly Riley) and their children, JIM and PAULINE. They are guests of Polly's mother, PAULINE RILEY, in her home on Forsythe avenue. Among the informal parties which have honored these visitors was a family supper given by JEWEL RIVERS Wednesday evening at her home.

Thursday evening, HELEN CAMPBELL and MARTHA and ARTHUR GRANT entertained at supper honoring Jim and Polly as well as BLANCHE OLIVER, who was celebrating her birthday. Centering the buffet was a crystal bowl filled with deep pink roses and Rose of Montana. The menu served to fourteen guests included a casserole of chicken with noodles and black olives, green salad, hot bread, and birthday cake.

Home again after a trip to Greenwich, Connecticut is CAROL LAYTON. Carol went up to make the acquaintance of her new grandson, JOSEPH HENRY PARSONS, III, fourth child of CAROL and JOE PARSONS, who arrived September 7.

General William Montgomery Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be hostess for the Fifth District meeting scheduled this coming Wednesday, September 25, at Bayou DeSiard country club, Monroe. The meeting is to begin with registration at nine-thirty in the mornng.

Newcomer RENEE TILLERY was welcomed to Monroe wth a lovely luncheon on Wednesday. THELMA CAMPBELL was hostess at Bayou DeSiard country club. Renee, who recently moved here from Rome, Georgia, was wearing an early fall costume suit in mink brown with lizard accessorics and a yellow orchid corsage.

Sherry was served in the main ballroom of the club, where the round table was centered with a gray-green compote filled with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. Chrysanthemums in these same shades were used with wheat in five arrangements which decorated the luncheon table on the porch. A satin ribbon in autumnal shades of gold and brown ran the length of the green-covered table, with single blossoms placed at intervals between the five compotes.

Places for thirty - four guests were marked with tiny cards tied with yellow chrysanthemums. The menu included ribbon salad of tomato aspic layered with cream cheese; curried chicken with Balinesian rice; and cherry tarts for dessert.

Our poem today is Ella Wheeler Wilcox's "Solitude":

Laugh and the world laughs with you;
Weep, and you weep alone.
For the sad old earth must borrow its mirth,
But has trouble enough of its own.
Rejoice and men will seek you;
Grieve and they turn and go.
They want full measure of all your pleasure,
But they do not need your woe.
Be glad, and your friends are many;
Be sad, and you lose them all.
There are none to decline your nectared wine,
But alone you must drink life's gall.
Feast, and your halls are crowded;
Fast, and the world goes by.
Succeed and give, and it helps you live,
But no man can help you die.
There is room in the halls of pleasure
For a long and lordly train,
But one by one we must all file on
Through the narrow aisles of pain.

Martha Bailey Engaged To Wed Bobby E. Smith

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Martha Mae Bailey to Bobby E. Smith is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bailey of Eros. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Smith of Chatham.

The wedding is planned for October 11 to take place in Chatham Baptist Church. Rev. S. W. Tullos will perform the ceremony at 7 p.m.

The bride-elect has chosen Mrs. Trena Smith to serve as matron of honor and bridesmaids will be Miss Kathy Smith and Miss Elaine Johnson.

Serving as best man will be James Marshall Smith with Dean Bailey and William Foster chosen as ushers.

MRS. FRANCIS JOSEPH BROUILLETTE

Camille Primm Becomes Bride Of Shreveport Man

Chapel of the First Methodist Church in West Monroe was scene of the ceremony Saturday, September 21 which united in marriage Miss Camille Primm and Francis Joseph Brouillette. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Primm, 313 N. 7th, West Monroe, and Mr. Brouillette is the son of Mrs. Birdie Mae Brouillette and the late Charles W. Brouillette of Shreveport.

Arrangements of yellow and white pompons, gladioli and stock and two candelabra entwined with smilax formed a background for the double ring ceremony performed at 6 p.m by Rev. Earl Emmerich.

Mrs. W. W. Watson, organist, provided traditional wedding music.

Mr. Primm gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's gown featured a bodice of imported hand clipped Chantilly lace with a dome skirt of silk faced peau. A panel of the lace fell to the hemline from back of the empire waist. Her brief veil of imported illusion was held in place by a cap of Chantilly lace and peau, encrusted with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations centered with a white orchid.

Flower girl was Miss Jane Pritchard, niece of the groom, who wore a full skirted frock of yellow organdy with a wide headband, lined with yellow and white split carnations.

Kenneth Juneau, brother of the groom, served as best man and ushers were Gerald Brouillette, also his brother and Morris Pritchard, his brother-in-law.

A reception followed the ceremony in the social hall of the church. The bride's table, covered in white linen held a centerpiece of yellow and white mums and gladioli. The tiered cake, crested with yellow rosebuds and the bowl of yellow punch were served from opposite ends of the table by Mrs. Pearl Averette and Mrs. Horace Thrasher. The bride's book was presided over by Miss Michael Lee Ann Strnad of Dallas, Texas.

For a wedding trip along the Gulf Coast to Orlando, Florida, the bride changed into a beige tailored suit with brown accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will be at home in Orlando, where Mr. Brouillette is stationed with the USAF at McCoy Air Force Base.

Mrs. Brouillette was graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and Northwestern State College School of Nursing. The bridegroom is a graduate of Byrd high school in Shreveport.

Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Michael Lee Ann Strnad, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pritchard, Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Scroggs, Mrs. Judith Laborde, all of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Hennessy, Lafayette and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Juneau, Dothan, Alabama.

Open house honoring the Rev. and Mrs. D. W. McElroy of Bakersfield, Calif., former residents of Monroe, is planned for Monday evening at the M. W. Montgomery home, 1510 South Grand.

Mr. McElroy was pastor of the First Christian church here at one time. He and Mrs. McElroy will arrive in Monroe Monday, September 23 for an overnight visit with friends.

Members of the church and friends in the city are invited to call at the Montgomery home anytime after 7 p.m. to greet the former residents.

Excess Water Can Drown House Plants

CROWN POINT, Ind. (UPI) — Excessive watering of plants may make the leaves turn yellow or fall off.

Too much water affects plant roots because the water fills the air spaces in the soil and the roots suffer from lack of aeration, says Lawrence L. Hoyle, County Extension agent.

Some plants, including cactus, jade, peperomia and snake plant will die almost immediately if over-watered, says Hoyle.

He suggested these methods to keep plants healthy.

—Water only when the soil is on the dry side. Scratch the surface of the soil with your finger. If it is dry to the touch, water is needed.

MRS. CHARLES E. TAYLOR

June Nolan, Mr. Taylor Wed In Candlelight Scene

Vows uniting in marriage Miss June Nolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Nolan ,and Charles E. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Taylor, all of West Monroe, were solemnized Saturday, September 14 in the Chapel of First Baptist Church of West Monroe. Rev. John Cutre performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Forming a background for the candlelight ceremony were white urns mounted on two columns holding arrangements of white gladioli and red chrysanthemums. Branched candelabra were arranged in pyramid fashion with candle trees on either side holding white cathedral tapers.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white silk organza, styled with bouffant skirt, bateau neckline and long sleeves tapered to points over the wrists. The fitted midriff was embellished with seed pearls and defined in back with two organdy roses from which the skirt swept to a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion fell from a pearl-encrusted headpiece formed by a single organdy rose. She carried a bouquet of white feathered chrysanthemums.

Attendants for the bride were Miss Barbara Hoff, maid of honor; Mrs. Pat Reeves of Marion, matron of honor and Mrs. Bobby Hollingsworth and Miss Dianne Jordon, bridesmaids. They wore identical frocks of red cotton satin, fashioned with fitted bodices, scoop necklines and brief sleeves. Skirt fullness was formed by side pleats from a front panel which extended to a point in back marked by a self fabric rose. Single roses for their headpieces held shoulder length veils of red tulle and they carried bouquets of white grapes with red and white chrysanthemums tied with red net and white ribbon.

Best man was Charles Kelly of Ruston and groomsmen were Cline Averett, Mike Moreau and Van Nolan. Serving as ushers were Kenneth Taylor and Bobby Hollingsworth of Baton Rouge.

Mrs. Nolan chose for her daughter's wedding a full skirted pink chiffon gown with draped neckline and back panel falling to the hem. She wore a pink feathered hat, pink shoes and bag and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Taylor, was wearing an electric blue looped mohair model with blue hat and gold accessories. Her corsage was of white mums with gold ribbons.

The social room of the church was scene of the reception which followed. Miss Nancy Barnes presided at the bride's book at a table which held an arrangement of white candles and red chrysanthemums. Red and white chrysanthemums also formed the centerpiece for the bride's table at which Miss Lucille Nolan served the wedding cake and Misses Carol Turnipseed and Linda Mangum presided at the punch bowl.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing an original three-piece knit suit of robin's egg blue with white felt hat and white lizard accessories. The couple will establish a home in Monroe.

Mrs. Taylor was graduated from West Monroe high school and attended Louisiana Business College and Patricia Stevens Finishing School. Also a graduate of West Monroe high school, Mr. Taylor is now attending Louisiana Tech.

Stretch Lace Introduced For Lingerie

Most people don't have to be occult to predict what a woman is wearing under her knits and jerseys when there are bumps and ridges to indicate hosiery supporters and stiffly boned girdles.

That's why the undie world has findings, such as smaller, flatter garter grips, thinner zippers, and slimmer buckle. Color-keyed hooks and eyes are also an innovation, a dandy aid in preventing a lopsided hookup job.

Or maybe your problem is the bra or slip strap that embarrasses you, especially in a sleeveless dress, by slipping down over your shoulder. Stretch straps that hold wherever they are put is the industry's answer to that.

Now that stretch character has been worked into every kind of fabric, it will now be possible to buy practical but prettied-up leisure bras, garter belts and pettipants in stretch lace.

Women who have a wardrobe full of wildcat fur prints, in blouses, skirts, dresses, coats, and accessories, can now complete the theme odwn to the skin Leopard, mink, and ocelot fur prints are expected to be big lingerie sellers.

HE'LL WEAR RED

Put him in the red this fall — in deep red sportswear, that is, right down to maroon colored socks. Fashion forecasts for men play up the colors wine or chianti in washable sports shirts and pants, and socks are expected to complete the color scheme.

Caution: be sure to suds all reds alone for the first few washings until color-bleeding stops.

Fort Miro, DAR Hears Talk On Constitution

Robert C. Snyder, professor of English at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, was guest speaker for the Fort Miro Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution which met Saturday at the Ouachita Parish Public Library.

Miss Carrie Dee Drew, regent, presided over the meeting and announced the district meeting to be held Wednesday, September 25 at Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Mrs. John P. Zoll, treasurer, gave the financial report and read the proposed budget for the new year. Mrs. Herbert Steed, national defense chairman and Mrs. Sara Hollingsworth, co-chairman, distributed mineographed copies of excerpts from the National Defender and other pertinent information sent out by Mrs. Henry S. Jones, national chairman of the national defense committee of N.S.D.A.R.

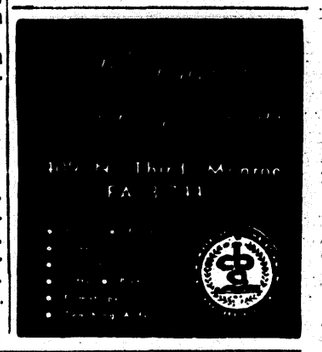

Mrs. Jase Johnson and Miss Nancy Johnson, Constitution Week chairmen, gave copies of the Preamble to the Constitution to each member and Mrs. Johnson gave a resume of plans for commemorating Constitution Week September 17-23.

Mrs. Pascal Norris, program chairman, introduced Mr. Snyder, who chose the Constitution as the subject of his talk.

During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostess committee, Miss Frances Flanders, chairman; Mrs. A. D. Bernhardt Sr., Mrs. Mary Jane Hobgood, Miss Lela Herndon, Mrs. W. L. Husted Sr., Mrs. Harry Lemert, Mrs. W. B. Matthews, Mrs. A. E. Montgomery Sr. and Mrs. Herbert Steed.

MRS. FRANCIS JOSEPH BROUILLETTE

Camille Primm Becomes Bride Of Shreveport Man

Chapel of the First Methodist Church in West Monroe was scene of the ceremony Saturday, September 21 which united in marriage Miss Camille Primm and Francis Joseph Brouillette. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Primm, 313 N. 7th, West Monroe, and Mr. Brouillette is the son of Mrs. Birdie Mae Brouillette and the late Charles W. Brouillette of Shreveport.

Arrangements of yellow and white pompons, gladioli and stock and two candelabra entwined with smilax formed a background for the double ring ceremony performed at 6 p.m by Rev. Earl Emmerich.

Mrs. W. W. Watson, organist, provided traditional wedding music.

Mr. Primm gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's gown featured a bodice of imported hand clipped Chantilly lace with a dome skirt of silk faced peau. A panel of the lace fell to the hemline from back of the empire waist. Her brief veil of imported illusion was held in place by a cap of Chantilly lace and peau, encrusted with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations centered with a white orchid.

Flower girl was Miss Jane Pritchard, niece of the groom, who wore a full skirted frock of yellow organdy with a wide headband, lined with yellow and white split carnations.

Kenneth Juneau, brother of the groom, served as best man and ushers were Gerald Brouillette, also his brother and Morris Pritchard, his brother-in-law.

Mrs. Primm selected for her daughter's wedding a suit of autumn brown with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother was wearing an early fall suit of blue silk faille with matching accessories.

A reception followed the ceremony in the social hall of the church. The bride's table, covered in white linen held a centerpiece of yellow and white mums and gladioli. The tiered cake, crested with yellow rosebuds and the bowl of yellow punch were served from opposite ends of the table by Mrs. Pearl Averette and Mrs. Horace Thrasher. The bride's book was presided over by Miss Michael Lee Ann Strnad of Dallas, Texas.

For a wedding trip along the Gulf Coast to Orlando, Florida, the bride changed into a beige tailored suit with brown accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will be at home in Orlando, where Mr. Brouillette is stationed with the USAF at McCoy Air Force Base.

Mrs. Brouillette was graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and Northwestern State College School of Nursing. The bridegroom is a graduate of Byrd high school in Shreveport.

Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Michael Lee Ann Strnad, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pritchard, Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Scroggs, Mrs. Judith Laborde, all of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Hennessy, Lafayette and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Juneau, Dothan, Alabama.

MRS. WAYNE MATHIS OGLESBEE

Autumn Yellow Featured At Oglesbee-Reed Vows

Yellow tapers in wrought iron candelabra entwined with Southern smilax flanked by baskets of yellow gladioli formed a setting in the Chapel of First Baptist Church, West Monroe for the wedding of Miss Donna Sue Reed of West Monroe and Wayne Mathis Oglesbee, Natchez, Miss.

Dr. Clifton Tennison performed the double ring ceremony on Friday, September 13 at 7:30 p.m. following a program of nuptial music by James Ronald Brothers, organist and William J. Denton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Reed, 119 Thompson, West Monroe and parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Marie Oglesbee, 1528 Bailey, West Monroe and James L. Oglesbee of Baton Rouge.

Mr. Reed gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta was styled with fitted basque, portrait neckline and long sleeves tapered to petal points over the hands. The bodice was embellished with sequins, pearls and crystal beads. Tiered ruffles highlighted back of the full skirt, which terminated in a chapel train. Her veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and tulle pouls, centered with a golden-throated white orchid atop a white pearl Bible.

Mrs. Arlon C. Terrell, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Gail Oetgen, also her cousin and Miss Linda Averette. Their gowns of pale yellow brocade were fashioned with scoop necklines, fitted bodices and belled skirts. They wore matching brocade pillbox hats and satin slippers and carried colonial bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Candles were lighted by Miss Brenda Oglesbee, sister of the groom, who also wore a pale yellow brocade gown and a wrist corsage of yellow carnatins.

Lantis Doyle Oglesbee attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were Harold Dale Oetgen, cousin of the bride and Rickey Futch. Serving as ushers were Arlon C. Terrell and the two groomsmen.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a costume suit of banana pure silk with bronze accessories and a purple orchid corsage. The groom's mother was wearing a blue linen sheath with three-quarter length lace coat, gray accessories and a purple orchid corsage.

Miss Carole Puckitt presided at the bride's book and others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. D. M. Frantom Jr., Mrs. A. D. Foreman, Mrs. George Screpetis, Miss Vickie Reed, Miss Joan Humble and Miss Charlotte Frantom.

For a wedding trip to Dallas, Texas the bride changed into a yellow silk linen ensemble with matching shoes and bag, white hat and gloves and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will establish a home at 610 State St., in Natchez, where Mr. Oglesbee is employed.

Jessie Pipkin To Become October Bride

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Jessie Irene Pipkin of Swartz to Lavelle Hendrix, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hendrix of Pioneer, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pipkin of Oak Grove.

The wedding will be solemnized October 5 at 2 p.m. in Sacred Heart Catholic Church of Oak Grove with Father Jean Germain officiating.

The bride-elect has chosen Miss Mary Jo Bottoms, West Monroe, to serve as maid of honor and Miss Anita Roach, West Monroe, as bridesmaid.

Mr. Hendrix has named his brother-in-law, Eugene Pylant as best man and usher will be Alton Pipkin, brother of the bride-elect.

Miss Pipkin who graduated from Cooley high school, Detroit, Michigan, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. McCann and R. C. Pipkin. She is presently employed in Monroe. Mr. Hendrix was graduated from Epps high school and is employed in Lake Providence, where the couple will establish a home.

BLOT, DON'T RUB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Don't try to rub a spot or stain from summer silks, warns the National Institute of Drycleaning. If you rub silk while it is damp, or even garments of part silk, the surface fibers are easily broken or stretched. Blot, don't rub, a spill.

MRS. JERRY DONALD GODWIN

Carolyn Presson Weds Jerry Donald Godwin

In a ceremony performed by the bride's father, Miss Carolyn Jean Presson, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Presson of Quitman became the bride of Jerry Donald Godwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Godwin, of Shreveport.

The double ring vows were exchanged Saturday, September 14 at 7 p.m. in the Highway Chapel Church of God in Quitman. Baskets of white gladioli, stock and pompons with emerald foliage and fern trees alternated by white tapers in branched candelabra formed a setting for the ceremony. White satin bows marked pews the length of the bridal aisle.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, Sherrel Presson of East Prairie. Her gown of silk organza and re-embroidered Alencon lace, etched with seed pearls was designed with basque bodice and low scalloped neckline, defined with lace and pearl appliques. The bouffant organza skirt which terminated in a chapel train, featured deep lace appliques. A silk organza rose held her bouffant veil of imported English illusion. She carried a white lace covered Bible topped with a white orchid and stephanotis.

Miss Mary Jane Parnell of Gibsland, maid of honor, wore a short gown of turquoise silk organza, fashioned with scoop neckline, cap sleeves and bell shaped skirt. Her headdress was of matching petals with birdcage veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white pompons. Dressed identically to the honor attendant were the bridesmaids, Miss Laura Gregory of East Prairie, Mo., and Miss Rita Gayle Harvey of Quitman.

The flower girl, Miss Sherrelyn Presson, niece of the bride, from East Prairie, Mo., wore a frock of turquoise silk organza with matching headpiece and carried a white lace basket filled with flower petals. Candles were lighted by Miss Martha Godwin, sister of the groom, and Jerry Lee Barker, nephew of the bride. Miss Godwin also wore a belled gown of turquoise silk organza and a white corsage.

Serving as best man was the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Perry Reed Jr. of Little Rock, Arkansas and groomsmen were Wayne Weidie of Baton Rouge and Robert Vance of Shreveport.

Fellowship Hall of the church was scene of the reception which followed. The bride's bouquet formed the centerpiece for the table which was covered in pink and white net. Crystal candelabra held white tapers. Miss Mary Blalock served the cake and Miss Waynell Walker presided at the crystal punch bowl. The guest book was presided over by Miss Sherry Gilbert.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas the bride was wearing a Loden green fall suit with matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home on Sterlington Road in Monroe.

Mrs. Godwin was graduated from Jonesboro-Hodge high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College, where she was affiliated with Phi Mu. Mr. Godwin, who graduated from Byrd high school in Shreveport, will graduate in June 1964, from Northeast Louisiana State College.

Welcome Garden Club Hears Talk On Tulips

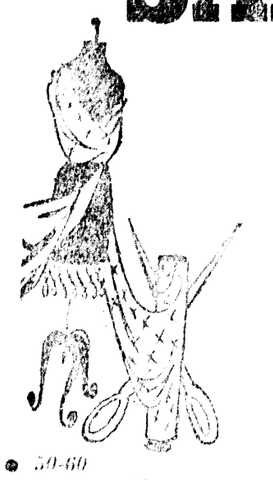

First meeting of the new club year was held by the Welcome Garden Club Monday afternoon at Julia Wossman Recreation Center. Mrs. J. W. Golson, president, conducted the meeting at which Jack Bagwell, West Monroe nurseryman, was guest speaker.

Mr. Bagwell, introduced by Mrs. A. K. Christensen, program chiarman, chose as his topic, "A Touch of Holland," in which he discussed growth and propagation of tulips. MRS. WAYNE MATHIS OGLESBEE

Autumn Yellow Featured At Oglesbee-Reed Vows

Yellow tapers in wrought iron candelabra entwined with Southern smilax flanked by baskets of yellow gladioli formed a setting in the Chapel of First Baptist Church, West Monroe for the wedding of Miss Donna Sue Reed of West Monroe and Wayne Mathis Oglesbee, Natchez, Miss.

Dr. Clifton Tennison performed the double ring ceremony on Friday, September 13 at 7:30 p.m. following a program of nuptial music by James Ronald Brothers, organist and William J. Denton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Reed, 119 Thompson, West Monroe and parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Marie Oglesbee, 1528 Bailey, West Monroe and James L. Oglesbee of Baton Rouge.

Mr. Reed gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta was styled with fitted basque, portrait neckline and long sleeves tapered to petal points over the hands. The bodice was embellished with sequins, pearls and crystal beads. Tiered ruffles highlighted back of the full skirt, which terminated in a chapel train. Her veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and tulle pouffs, centered with a golden-throated white orchid atop a white pearl Bible.

Mrs. Arlon C. Terrell, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Gail Oetgen, also her cousin and Miss Linda Averette. Their gowns of pale yellow brocade were fashioned with scoop necklines, fitted bodices and belled skirts. They wore matching brocade pillbox hats and satin slippers and carried colonial bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Candles were lighted by Miss Brenda Oglesbee, sister of the groom, who also wore a pale yellow brocade gown and a wrist corsage of yellow carnatins.

Lantis Doyle Oglesbee attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were Harold Dale Oetgen, cousin of the bride and Rickey Futch. Serving as ushers were Arlon C. Terrell and the two groomsmen.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a costume suit of banana pure silk with bronze accessories and a purple orchid corsage. The groom's mother was wearing a blue linen sheath with three-quarter length lace coat, gray accessories and a purple orchid corsage.

Miss Carole Puckitt presided at the bride's book and others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. D. M. Frantom Jr., Mrs. A. D. Foreman, Mrs. George Screpetis, Miss Vickie Reed, Miss Joan Humble and Miss Charlotte Frantom.

For a wedding trip to Dallas, Texas the bride changed into a yellow silk linen ensemble with matching shoes and bag, white hat and gloves and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will establish a home at 610 State St., in Natchez, where Mr. Oglesbee is employed.

Jessie Pipkin To Become October Bride

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Jessie Irene Pipkin of Swartz to Lavelle Hendrix, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hendrix of Pioneer, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pipkin of Oak Grove.

The wedding will be solemnized October 5 at 2 p.m. in Sacred Heart Catholic Church of Oak Grove with Father Jean Germain officiating.

The bride-elect has chosen Miss Mary Jo Bottoms, West Monroe, to serve as maid of honor and Miss Anita Roach, West Monroe, as bridesmaid.

Mr. Hendrix has named his brother-in-law, Eugene Pylant as best man and usher will be Alton Pipkin, brother of the bride-elect.

Miss Pipkin who graduated from Cooley high school, Detroit, Michigan, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. McCann and R. C. Pipkin. She is presently employed in Monroe. Mr. Hendrix was graduated from Epps high school and is employed in Lake Providence, where the couple will establish a home.

BLOT, DON'T RUB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Don't try to rub a spot or stain from summer silks, warns the National Institute of Drycleaning. If you rub silk while it is damp, or even garments of part silk, the surface fibers are easily broken or stretched. Blot, don't rub, a spill.

MRS. JERRY DONALD GODWIN

Carolyn Presson Weds Jerry Donald Godwin

In a ceremony performed by the bride's father, Miss Carolyn Jean Presson, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Presson of Quitman became the bride of Jerry Donald Godwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Godwin, of Shreveport.

The double ring vows were exchanged Saturday, September 14 at 7 p.m. in the Highway Chapel Church of God in Quitman. Baskets of white gladioli, stock and pompons with emerald foliage and fern trees alternated by white tapers in branched candelabra formed a setting for the ceremony. White satin bows marked pews the length of the bridal aisle.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, Sherrel Presson of East Prairie. Her gown of silk organza and re-embroidered Alencon lace, etched with seed pearls was designed with basque bodice and low scalloped neckline, defined with lace and pearl appliques. The bouffant organza skirt which terminated in a chapel train, featured deep lace appliques. A silk organza rose held her bouffant veil of imported English illusion. She carried a white lace covered Bible topped with a white orchid and stephanotis.

Miss Mary Jane Parnell of Gibsland, maid of honor, wore a short gown of turquoise silk organza, fashioned with scoop neckline, cap sleeves and bell shaped skirt. Her headdress was of matching petals with birdcage veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white pompons. Dressed identically to the honor attendant were the bridesmaids, Miss Laura Gregory of East Prairie, Mo., and Miss Rita Gayle Harvey of Quitman.

The flower girl, Miss Sherrelyn Presson, niece of the bride, from East Prairie, Mo., wore a frock of turquoise silk organza with matching headpiece and carried a white lace basket filled with flower petals. Candles were lighted by Miss Martha Godwin, sister of the groom, and Jerry Lee Barker, nephew of the bride. Miss Godwin also wore a belled gown of turquoise silk organza and a white corsage.

Serving as best man was the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Perry Reed Jr. of Little Rock, Arkansas and groomsmen were Wayne Weidie of Baton Rouge and Robert Vance of Shreveport.

Fellowship Hall of the church was scene of the reception which followed. The bride's bouquet formed the centerpiece for the table which was covered in pink and white net.Crystal candelabra held white tapers. Miss Mary Blalock served the cake and Miss Waynell Walker presided at the crystal punch bowl. The guest book was presided over by Miss Sherry Gilbert.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas the bride was wearing a Loden green fall suit with matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home on Sterlington Road in Monroe.

Mrs. Godwin was graduated from Jonesboro-Hodge high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College, where she was affiliated with Phi Mu. Mr. Godwin, who graduated from Byrd high school in Shreveport, will graduate in June 1964, from Northeast Louisiana State College.

Oriental Theme Featured At Cosmopolitan Dance

An Oriental atmosphere prevailed throughout the Paragon Club ball room when members of the Cosmopolitan Dance Club held their final dance of the 1962-63 season, Saturday night, September 14. Music for the occasion was provided by Jerry Lane and his orchestra.

Mrs. Kirk Kirkland, decorating chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Earl Tarver and Mrs. E. A. Freeman.

At the entrance an everburning butane candle illuminated the Chinese Lady of Good Luck in a black frame on a base of white ground rock. Oriental trees and plants surrounded the bandstand, creating an illusion of an Oriental garden, complete with an image of Buddha, a pagoda and a Japanese bird feeder. Hurricane lamps were used on the tables with Japanese magnolias and fern.

Members present for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Clay Blakemore, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Marrs, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. The wedding is planned for Saturday, October 12 at 5:30 p.m. in the Church of Christ at Newellton. Versie Segers Jr. will perform the double ring ceremony.

Miss Goodwin has chosen as her bridesmaids Miss Norma Talley and Miss Betty Sue Parker. Best man will be William Cannon and groomsman will be Fran Mullins.

EYES GLOW

Eyes for autumn are highlighted with a golden glow. A new eye shadow color-Golden Smoke — adds the one - of - a - kind touch of glamour and distinction with an added plus of being an excellent "shader" to improve the shape of the eyes. Its antique gold luminescence glows, even under cafe lights, for drama and chic.

MISS KATHERINE ANN GOODWIN

Moore-Copes Vows Read In Area Church

In a double ring ceremony solemnized Sunday, September 8 in the New Hope Baptist Church of Lake Providence, Miss Sheila Jean Copes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Copes became the bride of Argyle Pearce Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Argyle B. Moore.

Mass arrangements of salmon gladioli and jade palms flanked the bridal arch entwined with huckleberry where the vows were read by Rev. James S. Mitchell. Myriad white tapers in branched candelabra formed a background for the setting.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a short gown of white silk organza over taffeta with a fitted lace bodice and removable lace jacket, featuring a round collar and elbow length sleeves. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and satin streamers centered with a white orchid, atop a white Bible.

Candles were lighted by Miss Vanona Gail Moore and Miss Shannon Copes, who wore identical frocks of white and pink organdy with wrist corsages of pink feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception in their home. The refreshment table, overlaid with a white cloth, was centered with an arrangement of yellow daisies and leather leaf fern. Mrs. Otha Lea Copes presided at the crystal punch service and Mrs. Sybil Sandidge served the tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Mary Sue Williams had charge of the guest book.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip the bride changed into a two piece blue ensemble with white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will establish a home in Monroe where Mr. Moore will continue his studies at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Monroe Opti-Mrs. List October Style Show Date

"Behavior Disorders in Children" was the subject of a talk by Mrs. T. W. Meriwether, clinical social worker of the Monroe Area Guidance Center, last Monday night at the September meeting of the Monroe Opti-Mrs. held in the home of Mrs. A. D. Parker Jr.

Further plans for the "Happy Holidays" Benefit style show, sponsored by the club were discussed during the business session presided over by Mrs. George Parsons. The event, featuring fashions for the upcoming holiday season, will be held October 26 at the Paragon club.

Guests welcomed at the meeting were Mrs. R. B. Martin, Mrs. David Kahn, Mrs. Allen Coon, Mrs. Joe D. Guerriero, Mrs. Webb Nix, Mrs. Larry Reynolds and Mrs. John C. Scalia.

Refreshments were served at conclusion of the evening by the hostesses, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Roy Scalia and Mrs. Warren Spillers. Other members present were Mrs. Earl Lingle Jr., Mrs. Clay Blakemore, Mrs. Grady Merriman, Mrs. Stanley Passman, Mrs. Jack Phillips, Mrs. Bob Bruce, Mrs. Harry Cooper, Mrs. J. Carl Parkerson, Mrs. Otis Fontenot, Mrs. Ira Cagle Jr., Mrs. Arnold Tucker, Mrs. Sheldon Ray, Mrs. J. P. Moseley and Mrs. Ed Morrison.

Donald Murrell, Bride Plan Home In Monroe

Welcome Home Baptist Church near Hebert was scene of the double ring ceremony Thursday, September 12 which united in marriage Miss Anne Weed of Hebert and Donald Murrell of Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Weed of Hebert and Mr. Murrell is the son of Mrs. Ludie Starnes of Columbia and Ed Murrell of San Francisco, Calif.

Vows were exchanged at 7 p.m. before the altar which was adorned with woodwardia and white rosebuds and banked with fan shaped arrangements of white chrysanthemums. Myriad candles in walnut candelabra of graduated sizes formed a background for the ceremony and an aisle for the bridal party. The Rev. Houston Roberts was officiating clergyman.

Given in marriage by her brother, Adrian Weed of Monroe, the bride wore a traditional gown of white satin and Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice, overlaid with lace, featured a bateau neckline, etched with seed pearls and long sleeves which tapered to lily points over the hands. The floor length skirt was styled with a flared panel in front down which cascaded lace roses centered with pearls. Deep pleats formed back fullness, ending in a chapel train. Her veil of illusion fell from a satin tiara on which was repeated the lace roses and pearls. She carried a white Bible crested with a white orchid and her only ornament was a wide wedding band which belonged to her great grandmother.

Miss Linda Weed attended her sister as maid of honor. Miss Joyce Stamper was bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of Nile green taffeta styled with round necklines, cap sleeves and belled skirts. They wore matching slippers and their headpieces were taffeta roses. Each carried a single long-stemmed pink rose.

Attending his uncle as best man was Dub Ostteen of Columbia. Purvis Weed, brother of the bride, served as candlelighter, assisted by Lynn Holdiness, an usher.

A reception followed in the church parlor where the bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over pale pink. Mrs. Sam Hixon of Swartz, aunt of the bride, served the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Purvis Week presided at the crystal punch bowl.

A pink memory candle was placed on a white linen covered table where guests were invited to register by Mrs. Adrian Weed. Rhonda Faye and Dianne Johnston, Debra Lee and Bennie Kay Fuller and Tinna Holdiness distributed rainbow colored rice bags to the guests.

The couple will be at home in Monroe where Mr. Murrell is employed.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, October 12 at 5:30 p.m. in the Church of Christ at Newellton. Versie Segers Jr. will perform the double ring ceremony.

Miss Goodwin has chosen as her bridesmaids Miss Norma Talley and Miss Betty Sue Parker. Best man will be William Cannon and groomsman will be Fran Mullins.

EYES GLOW

Eyes for autumn are highlighted with a golden glow. A new eye shadow color-Golden Smoke — adds the one - of - a - kind touch of glamour and distinction with an added plus of being an excellent "shader" to improve the shape of the eyes. Its antique gold luminescence glows, even under cafe lights, for drama and chic.

MISS KATHERINE ANN GOODWIN

JUMPERS

Traditionally, the jumper is a sportswear item. But for the younger set for fall, it comes styled in numerous versions for dress-up occasions. A favorite fabric: velveteen. One designer does a formal jumper in gold velveteen, coat-dress style, falling to the ankles.

Oriental Theme Featured At Cosmopolitan Dance

An Oriental atmosphere prevailed throughout the Paragon Club ball room when members of the Cosmopolitan Dance Club held their final dance of the 1962-63 season, Saturday night, September 14. Music for the occasion was provided by Jerry Lane and his orchestra.

Mrs. Kirk Kirkland, decorating chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Earl Tarver and Mrs. E. A. Freeman.

At the entrance an everburning butane candle illuminated the Chinese Lady of Good Luck in a black frame on a base of white ground rock. Oriental trees and plants surrounded the bandstand, creating an illusion of an Oriental garden, complete with an image of Buddha, a pagoda and a Japanese bird feeder. Hurricane lamps were used on the tables with Japanese magnolias and fern.

Members present for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Clay Blakemore, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Marrs, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. COLOR SPECTRUM

The color spectrum can be divided into the long wave lengths — red to orange — and the short wave lengths, green to blue.

Moore-Copes Vows Read In Area Church

In a double ring ceremony solemnized Sunday, September 8 in the New Hope Baptist Church of Lake Providence, Miss Sheila Jean Copes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Copes became the bride of Argyle Pearce Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Argyle B. Moore.

Mass arrangements of salmon gladioli and jade palms flanked the bridal arch entwined with huckleberry where the vows were read by Rev. James S. Mitchell. Myriad white tapers in branched candelabra formed a background for the setting.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a short gown of white silk organza over taffeta with a fitted lace bodice and removable lace jacket, featuring a round collar and elbow length sleeves. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and satin streamers centered with a white orchid, atop a white Bible.

Candles were lighted by Miss Vanona Gail Moore and Miss Shannon Copes, who wore identical frocks of white and pink organdy with wrist corsages of pink feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception in their home. The refreshment table, overlaid with a white cloth, was centered with an arrangement of yellow daisies and leather leaf fern. Mrs. Otha Lea Copes presided at the crystal punch service and Mrs. Sybil Sandidge served the tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Mary Sue Williams had charge of the guest book.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip the bride changed into a two piece blue ensemble with white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will establish a home in Monroe where Mr. Moore will continue his studies at Northeast Louisiana State College.

"Behavior Disorders in Children" was the subject of a talk by Mrs. T. W. Meriwether, clinical social worker of the Monroe Area Guidance Center, last Monday night at the September meeting of the Monroe Opti-Mrs. held in the home of Mrs. A. D. Parker Jr.

Further plans for the "Happy Holidays" Benefit style show, sponsored by the club were discussed during the business session presided over by Mrs. George Parsons. The event, featuring fashions for the upcoming holiday season, will be held October 26 at the Paragon club.

Guests welcomed at the meeting were Mrs. R. B. Martin, Mrs. David Kahn, Mrs. Allen Coon, Mrs. Joe D. Guerriero, Mrs. Webb Nix, Mrs. Larry Reynolds and Mrs. John C. Scalia.

Refreshments were served at conclusion of the evening by the hostesses, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Roy Scalia and Mrs. Warren Spillers. Other members present were Mrs. Earl Lingle Jr., Mrs. Clay Blakemore, Mrs. Grady Merriman, Mrs. Stanley Passman, Mrs. Jack Phillips, Mrs. Bob Bruce, Mrs. Harry Cooper, Mrs. J. Carl Parkerson, Mrs. Otis Fontenot, Mrs. Ira Cagle Jr., Mrs. Arnold Tucker, Mrs. Sheldon Ray, Mrs. J. P. Moseley and Mrs. Ed Morrison.

Donald Murrell, Bride Plan Home In Monroe

Welcome Home Baptist Church near Hebert was scene of the double ring ceremony Thursday, September 12 which united in marriage Miss Anne Weed of Hebert and Donald Murrell of Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Weed of Hebert and Mr. Murrell is the son of Mrs. Ludie Starnes of Columbia and Ed Murrell of San Francisco, Calif.

Vows were exchanged at 7 p.m. before the altar which was adorned with woodwardia and white rosebuds and banked with fan shaped arrangements of white chrysanthemums. Myriad candles in walnut candelabra of graduated sizes formed a background for the ceremony and an aisle for the bridal party. The Rev. Houston Roberts was officiating clergyman.

Given in marriage by her brother, Adrian Weed of Monroe, the bride wore a traditional gown of white satin and Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice, overlaid with lace, featured a bateau neckline, etched with seed pearls and long sleeves which tapered to lily points over the hands. The floor length skirt was styled with a flared panel in front down which cascaded lace roses centered with pearls. Deep pleats formed back fullness, ending in a chapel train. Her veil of illusion fell from a satin tiara on which was repeated the lace roses and pearls. She carried a white Bible crested with a white orchid and her only ornament was a wide wedding band which belonged to her great grandmother.

Miss Linda Weed attended her sister as maid of honor. Miss Joyce Stamper was bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of Nile green taffeta styled with round necklines, cap sleeves and belled skirts. They wore matching slippers and their headpieces were taffeta roses. Each carried a single long-stemmed pink rose.

Attending his uncle as best man was Dub Ostteen of Columbia. Purvis Weed, brother of the bride, served as candlelighter, assisted by Lynn Holdiness, an usher.

Mrs. Weed was wearing for her daughter's wedding a pale green linen and lace model with matching accessories and a pink carnation corsage. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. P. B. Weed Sr., chose a light brown silk dress with pink carnation corsage while the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Starnes, was wearing a blue ensemble with a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception followed in the church parlor where the bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over pale pink. Mrs. Sam Hixon of Swartz, aunt of the bride, served the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Purvis Week presided at the crystal punch bowl.

A pink memory candle was placed on a white linen covered table where guests were invited to register by Mrs. Adrian Weed. Rhonda Faye and Dianne Johnston, Debra Lee and Bennie Kay Fuller and Tinna Holdiness distributed rainbow colored rice bags to the guests.

The couple will be at home in Monroe where Mr. Murrell is employed.

Leather Gloves On Hand In Vivid Color Spectrum

NEW YORK (Special) — The woman with fashion in mind will keep leather gloves on hand this fall.

Leather gloves are the perfect accessory for a handsomely coordinated fall wardrobe in the modern mode of suburban living. Previewed recently at Leather Industries of America was a preseason peek at new leather glove fashions in soft and supple kid, doeskin, suede and pigskin. Neat lines and quiet trims were predominant, in keeping with the simplicity of the new look.

The leather range covers all the shades in autumn's fashion spotlight such as cranberry, winter blue, bright gold, pine needle, and all tones of browns and beige from bitter chocolate to bone.

Both the eight-button length and the shortie glove will continue to enjoy popularity. However, the comeback of longer sleeves has brought with it a return to four and six-button length gloves, and many smart leather styles in these lengths were shown.

FUDGE SAUCE

To make leftover pound cake a treat dessert, top with chocolate bar fudge sauce. Melt 4 (2 ounce) bars of milk chocolate with almonds over boiling water. Stir in ¼ cup of heavy cream and pour over 4 pound cake slices. Sprinkle with flaked coconut.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Petite Mimi Benzell, Metropolitan Opera soprano and star of last season's Broadway musical "Milk and Honey" does not believe in worrying or fretting. She said, "The best way to stop endless and useless fretting is to use Scarlett O'Hara's formula. Just say, 'I'll think about that tomorrow'."

She continued, "In the entertainment business you very soon learn that after you have done your best, your fate is out of your hands and you might as well keep calm. I was very young and very inexperienced when I auditioned for the Metropolitan and then went home to agonize over their reaction. I made the grade, but who knows if it would have been so soon had the Met not lost Lily Pons and badly needed a lyric soprano? It certainly wasn't my worrying that helped."

This busy singer has an executive husband, a 6-year-old daughter and a 10-year-old son. Nevertheless, she runs her home attractively with a minimum amount of help. She long ago decided not to let the house run her and remarked, "I'm not going to jangle my nerves over a dab of dust on the top bookshelf."

Mimi Benzell has done some constructive thinking about how to avoid worry and hecticness. She feels that worry over children can be minimized by practicing with them over and over again when teaching them how to cross streets, ride bikes safely and swim. She ingrained many safety rules in them about matches, knives and what to do in case of fire in the house. She said, "Laying good safety groundwork with children takes time, but it is safer for them and better for the parent than always worrying about their every move."

In order to do away with as many nagging little chores as possible Miss Benzell tries to train her children in neatness. She says she does this out of pity for her son's future wife as well as for her own peace of mind.

Tomorrow I shall explain some of Miss Benzell's tricks about taking the harry out of housework and about packing for travel, about clothes and dinner parties.

Serving as best man was Gary Brooks. Groomsmen were Hugh Calhoun and LaVon Roark.

Mrs. Warner, mother of the bride, wore a silk linen model in toast brown with matching accessories and a corsage of white pompons. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Johnson selected a pink lace gown with accessories to match and a corsage of white pompons.

The church social room was scene of the reception which followed. The tiered wedding cake embossed with mint green roses was served by Mrs. Rita Bolton and Mrs. C. E. Peevy presided at the bowl of mint green punch. Bouquets of the bride and her attendants formed the central arrangement for the table, covered with a lace cloth over green. Mrs. Jo Ann Banks presided at the bride's book.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip to the Ozarks the bride was wearing a toast brown suit with beige accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home in New Orleans where Mr. Johnson, who was graduated from Louisiana Tech at Ruston, is presently enrolled in his third year at Louisiana State University Medical School. He is a member of Nu Sigma Nu. The bride is a graduate of Grayson high school and attended Northeast Louisiana Business College.

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Sandra Jean Brady and Aubrey Maurice Simpkins, West Monroe, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brady, 4504 Lee Avenue. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Simpkins, South 7th, Monroe. The wedding is planned for Friday, October 4 in United Pentecost Church on Montgomery Street, at 8 p.m.

FUDGE SAUCE

To make leftover pound cake a treat dessert, top with chocolate bar fudge sauce. Melt 4 (2 ounce) bars of milk chocolate with almonds over boiling water. Stir in ¼ cup of heavy cream and pour over 4 pound cake slices. Sprinkle with flaked coconut.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Petite Mimi Benzell, Metropolitan Opera soprano and star of last season's Broadway musical "Milk and Honey" does not believe in worrying or fretting. She said, "The best way to stop endless and useless fretting is to use Scarlett O'Hara's formula. Just say, 'I'll think about that tomorrow'."

She continued, "In the entertainment business you very soon learn that after you have done your best, your fate is out of your hands and you might as well keep calm. I was very young and very inexperienced when I auditioned for the Metropolitan and then went home to agonize over their reaction. I made the grade, but who knows if it would have been so soon had the Met not lost Lily Pons and badly needed a lyric soprano? It certainly wasn't my worrying that helped."

This busy singer has an executive husband, a 6-year-old daughter and a 10-year-old son. Nevertheless, she runs her home attractively with a minimum amount of help. She long ago decided not to let the house run her and remarked, "I'm not going to jangle my nerves over a dab of dust on the top bookshelf."

Mimi Benzell has done some constructive thinking about how to avoid worry and hecticness. She feels that worry over children can be minimized by practicing with them over and over again when teaching them how to cross streets, ride bikes safely and swim. She ingrained many safety rules in them about matches, knives and what to do in case of fire in the house. She said, "Laying good safety groundwork with children takes time, but it is safer for them and better for the parent than always worrying about their every move."

In order to do away with as many nagging little chores as possible Miss Benzell tries to train her children in neatness. She says she does this out of pity for her son's future wife as well as for her own peace of mind.

Tomorrow I shall explain some of Miss Benzell's tricks about taking the harry out of housework and about packing for travel, about clothes and dinner parties.

Leather Gloves On Hand In Vivid Color Spectrum

NEW YORK (Special) — The woman with fashion in mind will keep leather gloves on hand this fall.

Leather gloves are the perfect accessory for a handsomely coordinated fall wardrobe in the modern mode of suburban living. Previewed recently at Leather Industries of America was a preseason peek at new leather glove fashions in soft and supple kid, doeskin, suede and pigskin. Neat lines and quiet trims were predominant, in keeping with the simplicity of the new look.

The leather range covers all the shades in autumn's fashion spotlight such as cranberry, winter blue, bright gold, pine needle, and all tones of browns and beige from bitter chocolate to bone.

Both the eight-button length and the shortie glove will continue to enjoy popularity. However, the comeback of longer sleeves has brought with it a return to four and six-button length gloves, and many smart leather styles in these lengths were shown.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Special Guest Is Presented

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Fifth District Garden Center had a special guest for its T. V. program last Wednesday. He was Harvey Paige, prominent in our gardening world as a lecturer on Bosai trees, flower arranging, as a flower grower and interior decorator.

Wednesday's program was one of the best given by Mr. Paige — a showing of his specimen bromeliads and valuable information about these wonderful house plants. It is interesting to know that very few writers have used these plants as their subject through the many years that they have been in cultivation. We are told in one of the leading garden books, "Flowers of the South", by Wilhelmina F. Greene and Hugo L. Blomquist (from the University of North Carolina Press, Chapel Hill) that the bromeliaceae or pineapple family is noted for its epiphytes — plants growing on other plants, but deriving no nourishment from them, generally known as air plants or bromeliads.

DIFFERENT

Therefore, they cannot be thought of as mistletoe, a parasite, and do not cause any apparent injury to the trees upon which they are lodged. The meaning of the word epiphytes is "upon plants." In the competition for space, food, air and light, plants have adopted themselves in various ways. This group of plants is one of the most unique in adaptions which enables them to live and grow on other plants without being in contact with the soil and yet, deriving no water or food from the plants upon which they grow.

Since water is so necessary for plant life and usually is obtained from the soil it is interesting to learn that the greatest structural specializations of the epiphytes are necessarily those related to the absorption and conservation of water obtained from other sources than the soil. Therefore, these plans are considered tropical and found mostly in their native habitat in the tropical forests where rain and atmospheric moisture are most abundant.

Here, one can find on the tree trunks or even the branches or the woody plant leaves an abundance of epiphytes ranging from the microscopic algae and fungi to lichens, mosses, ferns, aroids, bromeliads, and orchids. There are relatively few flowering plant families repreesnted among the epiphytes, one of these is the bromeliacao or pineapple family. Most of the bromeliads are of the "tank" type of epiphyte in that the spoon-shaped bases of the closely overlapping leaves store considerable quantities of water.

HOLDING ROOTS

The roots are mainly used for holding on to the support, be it tree, a post, or wire. The most remarkable of all the bromeliads is Spanish - moss which has no roots at all — simply hangs over branches in long festoons. It absorbs it's water by means of scale - hairs which give it it's grayish appearance. It still remains a mystery as to how it obtains enough nutrients to survive. The epiphytic orchids have usually two kinds of roots — some specialized for absorbing water and others for anchorage. Excess water absorbed is stored in the bulb-like structures.

We are told further in this wonderful reference book, "Flowers of the South," that the tillandsias, the dry-growing bromeliad, are often confused with orchids. Tillandsias can be easily distinguished from orchids by their stiff grey - green scurfy foliage, crowded in rosettes at the base, resembling the cultivated pineapple, while orchids have delicate graceful racemes of irregular flowers and leathery dark green leaves rising from clumps or pseudo bulbs. All of these remarkable types of native orchids and air plants have been brought together outside (growing on or round the same tree) in south Florida.

The April issue of Tropical Living magazine gives a a very interesting article on the cultivation of bromeliads. This magazine is available at the Garden Center — also, the book, "Flowers of the South," is in the lending library at the center.

More and more gardeners are becoming interested in bromeliads, so it is quite necessary that more information be obtained about the growing of these plants which are so different in cultivation needs from other house plants. This is because they have developed specialized root systems suited to their aerial habitats. Most bromeliads can be grown satisfactorily in many different materials. Mixtures of materials are preferable and should have: enough substance to hold the plant erect, good aeration, good drainage, and some moisture holding capacity (never a great amount or soggy), ability to hold some fertility. A good sample mixture could be as follows: two parts tree fern fiber, one part coarse granite chicken grit, one part German peat. The pot should be small, but large enough to hold the plant upright.

If the plant lacks roots and will not stand up it should be tied or staked temporarily. Never use galvanized or copper wire to tie up the plants. Bamboo or wooden splints are fine and should be removed as soon as the plant is well rooted. Never use strong fertilizer in the potting mixture since it will cause the potting media to rot and can also rot the roots and basic part of the plant.

I do hope you saw the program given by Harvey Paige and came by the Center at Searstown to see his lovely specimen plants that were on display afterwards. Isn't this a wonderful hobby? Maybe you will keep this in mind when shopping for a new one. There's no reason for life to be boring when there are such wonderful flower-growing hobbies. Just for the selecting—bromeliads are high on the list. Thanks to Mr. Paige for sharing his hobby with us.

SOUTHERN GARDNER

Bulb Beds Permanent

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Well established beds of bulbs should be one of the most permanent parts of a Southern garden. We say "well-established" because poorly prepared beds will never allow bulbs to establish themselves in such a way that they can bloom lustily every year for long periods of time.

We have preached the gospel of the sub-soiler for deep soil preparation before in the column, and we must continue to do so because the sub-soiler is the most effective and cheapest way to remove roots and open up the ground underneath beds of plants and bulbs. In very small areas where one cannot operate a small tractor with sub-soiler attachment, the ground has to be dug eighteen inches to two feet deep by hand with a nurserymen's spade.

BONE MEAL

Bone meal in liberal quantities should be dug into bulb beds while it can be incorporated easily in the soil. Later on, after the bulbs are installed, it can be only scratched into the top. Bone meal acts over a period of years. It cannot dissolve and move through the soil and so needs to be mixed with it in the beginning.

Bulbs will bloom well the first year in any kind of soil because they have their flower buds already set in them when you buy them. To produce normal flowers the second and third years and from then on until they have mutiplied themselves out of adequate food, however, they must have at least soil as rich as you would use for your annual tomato or potato crops.

SOIL KEY

Tulips, daffodils and hyacinths may not produce such giant flowers the second year as they did the first, but the flowers should be large — not puny — in the second season. If they are not large, the fault lies in the soil — not in the bulbs.

One of the joys of a really well prepared bulb bed lies in the number of different kinds of bulbs one can crowd into it. Of course, tulips must be grown where they will get enough sunlight to develop the leaves after the flowers are gone in the Spring. Many of the other bulbs, however, can be grown where it is shady in summer and sunny in winter.

WINTER SUN

Evergreen bulbs like red spider-lilies, sternbergia and miniature amaryllis must have winter sun for the development of their foliage. With them can be grown many kinds of daffodils, spring, winter or fall crocuses, chionodaxas, snowflakes and grape hyacinths. You can also plant the summer-flowering pink spider-lily (Lycoris squamigera') and the summer Zephiranthes candida, the tall white cape hyacinths, and many fall-blooming bulbs like crocuses and colchicums, right in these beds.

After such beds of bulbs are established, you may be able to leave them undisturbed for five to 10 years before digging and dividing is necessary. An annual top dressing of complete fertilizer and bone meal will keep them blooming.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: Can you tell me whether a brick walk set in sand is as good as one set in concrete with mortar between the joints? I'd like to put down such a walk, but don't want to bother with the concrete and mortar. Please give me some advice on how to set the bricks in sand.

ANSWER: A brick walk set in sand will stand up fairly well under moderate traffic, but it definitely will not be as solid nor as durable as one set in concrete. To get a reasonably good result from the former, it is important that the bed of sand, at least two inches in depth, be packed down compactly. If this is not done, you'll wind up with a loose walk. Lay one row of bricks at a time, then fill the spaces between the bricks with sand.

When the entire job is finished, go over the area thoroughly and add sand wherever it is needed. You'll have to keep a close eye on the walk for a couple of weeks after people have started to walk on it.

EXTENSION NEWS

Tulip Bulb Time Here

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you, Mr. and Mrs. Gardener, have been planning to buy and plant tulips, don't delay any longer. I am sure West Monroe gardeners have their bulbs ordered, because of the big plans of our friend, George Tyner, and the other members of the committee for the tulip festival this spring.

But for you who have not bought bulbs yet, here are a few tips. First of all remember that you get about what you pay for in quality. Large bulbs are generally better than small ones. Don't buy bulbs that are moldy or soft. Buy the specific colors you want. It's probably best to buy bulbs individually than in variety packs. Choose either domestic or imported bulbs according to our U. S. Department of Agriculture they are equally good.

Tulip bulbs should be planted in October and they grow best when they get long hours of direct sunshine and plenty of moisture. They prefer well drained sandy soil. Plant on high or slightly sloping ground where excess water will drain away. If you want early blooms plant on a southern exposure near a building or wall. This will give protection. If you desire late bulbs, plant bulbs in a northern exposure and late in the fall.

FAIR TIME

It is almost time again for our fair. The dates are October 7-12. If you plan to enter some of your canning, handicraft, sewing, rugs, flowers or pastries you may get an entry blank by coming to the Agricultural Extension Office at 704 Cypress, West Monroe. You will bring your entry to the West Monroe Fair grounds any time on Monday, October 7th. The books for entering will close at 7 P.M.

I suggest that you enter your baked products on Monday, but bring them Tuesday morning by 8:00 o'clock. The fair manager, John Birdsong, says this should be our best fair yet. So get your exhibits ready.

YOUR CALORIES

Do you, Mrs. Homemaker, know how many calories you need per day. It's easy to figure. Multiply your desirable weight (this can be obtained from a height, weight chart) by 18. This gives the approximate number of calories used daily by a moderately active adult. You'll possibly need about a fourth more calories if you are very active and a fourth less if sedentary. If you want to find out the number of calories needed for Mr. Husband, use same procedure, but multiply by 21 instead of 18.

NEW PRODUCT

A new kind of towel with a velvet like finish on one side and terry cloth on the other has been introduced. The velvet like side is achieved by shearing the ends of the terry loops, making possible much finer detail in design. The shearing also exposes the ends of the fibers resulting in an increase in absorbency.

Soon to come is a new expandable fiber that is more resistant to discoloration than spandex fibers. The new fiber yet unnamed, can be produced at a lower cost than expandable fiber to date. So perhaps you, Mrs. Homemaker, may look forward to lower price tags on girdles and the new stretch bras.

A type of thimble long used by the professionals is now available to the home sewer. This sewing aid is called Nimble Thimble and is designed for use in areas of a garment where it is difficult to push a needle through the fabric as where a button is sewn to a heavy topcoat. Nimble Thimble provides a needle grip attached to one side, when the needle has been pushed through the fabric as far as possible, the grip can then pull it through the other side.

An all cotton stretch corduroy is expected to make its debut on the market this fall. To date the only domestic stretch corduroy has been a blend of cotton and nylon. The all cotton product will be in 36 inch widths.

With them can be grown many kinds of daffodils, spring, winter or fall crocuses, chionodaxas, snowflakes and grape hyacinths. You can also plant the summer-flowering pink spiderlily (Lycoris squamigera') and the summer Zephiranthes candida, the tall white cape hyacinths, and many fall-blooming bulbs like crocuses and colchicums, right in these beds.

After such beds of bulbs are established, you may be able to leave them undisturbed for five to 10 years before digging and dividing is necessary. An annual top dressing of complete fertilizer and bone meal will keep them blooming.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: Can you tell me whether a brick walk set in sand is as good as one set in concrete with mortar between the joints? I'd like to put down such a walk, but don't want to bother with the concrete and mortar. Please give me some advice on how to set the bricks in sand.

ANSWER: A brick walk set in sand will stand up fairly well under moderate traffic, but it definitely will not be as solid nor as durable as one set in concrete. To get a reasonably good result from the former, it is important that the bed of sand, at least two inches in depth, be packed down compactly. If this is not done, you'll wind up with a loose walk. Lay one row of bricks at a time, then fill the spaces between the bricks with sand.

When the entire job is finished, go over the area thoroughly and add sand whereever it is needed. You'll have to keep a close eye on the walk for a couple of weeks after people have started to walk on it.

Tulip Bulb Time Here

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you, Mr. and Mrs. Gardener, have been planning to buy and plant tulips, don't delay any longer. I am sure West Monroe gardeners have their bulbs ordered, because of the big plans of our friend, George Tyner, and the other members of the committee for the tulip festival this spring.

But for you who have not bought bulbs yet, here are a few tips. First of all remember that you get about what you pay for in quality. Large bulbs are generally better than small ones. Don't buy bulbs that are moldy or soft. Buy the specific colors you want. It's probably best to buy bulbs individually than in variety packs. Choose either domestic or imported bulbs according to our U. S. Department of Agriculture they are equally good.

Tulip bulbs should be planted in October and they grow best when they get long hours of direct sunshine and plenty of moisture. They prefer well drained sandy soil. Plant on high or slightly sloping ground where excess water will drain away. If you want early blooms plant on a southern exposure near a building or wall. This will give protection. If you desire late bulbs, plant bulbs in a northern exposure and late in the fall.

FAIR TIME

It is almost time again for our fair. The dates are October 7-12. If you plan to enter some of your canning, handicraft, sewing, rugs, flowers or pastries you may get an entry blank by coming to the Agricultural Extension Office at 704 Cypress, West Monroe. You will bring your entry to the West Monroe Fair grounds any time on Monday, October 7th. The books for entering will close at 7 P.M.

I suggest that you enter your baked products on Monday, but bring them Tuesday morning by 8:00 o'clock. The fair manager, John Birdsong, says this should be our best fair yet. So get your exhibits ready.

YOUR CALORIES

Do you, Mrs. Homemaker, know how many calories you need per day. It's easy to figure. Multiply your desirable weight (this can be obtained from a height, weight chart) by 18. This gives the approximate number of calories used daily by a moderately active adult. You'll possibly need about a fourth more calories if you are very active and a fourth less if sedentary. If you want to find out the number of calories needed for Mr. Husband, use same procedure, but multiply by 21 instead of 18.

NEW PRODUCT

A new kind of towel with a velvet like finish on one side and terry cloth on the other has been introduced. The velvet like side is achieved by shearing the ends of the terry loops, making possible much finer detail in design. The shearing also exposes the ends of the fibers resulting in an increase in absorbency.

Soon to come is a new expandable fiber that is more resistant to discoloration than spandex fibers. The new fiber yet unnamed, can be produced at a lower cost than expandable fiber to date. So perhaps you, Mrs. Homemaker, may look forward to lower price tags on girdles and the new stretch bras.

A type of thimble long used by the professionals is now available to the home sewer. This sewing aid is called Nimble Thimble and is designed for use in areas of a garment where it is difficult to push a needle through the fabric as where a button is sewn to a heavy topcoat. Nimble Thimble provides a needle grip attached to one side, when the needle has been pushed through the fabric as far as possible, the grip can then pull it through the other side.

An all cotton stretch corduroy is expected to make its debut on the market this fall. To date the only domestic stretch corduroy has been a blend of cotton and nylon. The all cotton product will be in 36 inch widths.

HIGH STYLE FROM THE ESKIMOS

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP) — Wearing apparel that took shape in the hands of Eskimos in the western Arctic will go on sale here.

Victor Vokes of the federal Northern Affairs Department says it will be expensive.

Sealskin and muskrat parkas will retail at about $300 and embroidered wool parkas will bring about $70, he estimated.

Originality will be one selling point. The Eskimo has an aversion to repeating his designs and working to color specifications.

Mann-Dugas Vows Read In White Castle

Miss Mary Sonia Dugas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand P. Dugas of White Castle, became the bride of George Allen Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Mann of Columbia, on Saturday, September 7 in the Church of Our Lady of Prompt Succor at White Castle. The 11 a. m. double ring nuptial ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Babier, pastor.

Two sunburst arrangements of white gladioli decorated the main altar. Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. B. Clark Vega, organist and Mrs. Rodney Lemoine, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a white linen street length dress which featured a bodice of cutwork embroidery outlined in beige. The short jacket was detailed with below elbow sleeves. Her small white hat with two large organza flowers, touched with beige and sprinkled with rhinestones featured a short veil. She carried a white prayer book, surmounted with a white orchid.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Phillip K. Wallace, served as her only attendant. She wore a three piece brick red suit and a small hat of green leaves, accented by white and red berries. Her accessories were black and she wore a white orchid corsage.

Ronnie Sheehan attended the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Phillip K. Wallace and B. Clark Vega Jr.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with an informal reception at their home. For the occasion Mrs. Dugas wore a navy blue shantung jacket dress with matching accessories and hat of light blue flowers and veiling. Her corsage was of white cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Mann, wore a Persian blue dress with black accessories and a white orchid.

The couple will be at home in Belle Glade, Florida. Mrs. Mann, who recently completed her education at Nicholls College will join the faculty of the Palm Beach County Public Schools. Mr. Mann is connected with the United States Department of Agriculture.

Dress-Jacket Costume Good For Fall Trip

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Q: My wedding trip will be to Baltimore, by car. What should I wear for a going away outfit? What clothes should I plan for the two weeks we will be there? We are being married in early fall.

A: A light wool suit, or a dress-jacket costume is best. Buy one with a flared or pleated skirt, for ease in sitting in the car. The color can be whatever is becoming to you in fall shades. As you don't mention what you will be doing on your trip, I can only give general suggestions. Baltimore will still be mild, so take light fabrics. For day simple sheath dresses, plus some tailored separates should cover most occasions. Unless you plan some very formal evening occasions, a short chiffon formal or two will do for dinner, etc.

A: Shoes should be pumps to match, or in a darker blue. Gloves should be white. Handbag can be a small black pouch or in dark blue, if the shoes are that color.

Q: For a dinner occasion I have a Chinese-style sheath in moss green, with short sleeves and mandarin collar. Should gloves be long or short, and in what color? Other accessories?

A: Gloves should be short, and in white, silk or kid. Handbag can be green silk or brocade, or white. Wear button earrings, a striking pin, in gold.

Miss Wood Bride Of Gene Waalk

Miss Linda Sue Wood, daughter of Mrs. Ruby Flowers Wood, 503 Wilmuth, Monroe and Dewey Wood of Alexandria, became the bride of Gene Arthur Walk, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Waalk of Houma, in a double ring ceremony performed Saturday, September 14 at the home of the bride's mother.

Rev. James R. Edwards performed the vows before an ivy covered arch which formed a background for the ceremony. White candles and a floral arrangement was used on the piano, where Mrs. Jerry Merritt played appropriate selections and accompanied Miss Charlotte Salley, soloist.

The refreshment table, covered with a white linen cutwork cloth, was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and carnations in a crystal bowl, flanked by white tapers. The wedding cake and punch bowl were at opposite ends of the table.

The couple will establish a home in Alexandria. Mrs. Waalk is a graduate of Neville high school and will graduate in January from Louisiana College, Pineville. A graduate of Terrebonne high school in Houma the bridegroom attended Louisiana College and Northeast Louisiana State College.

Attending the ceremony from out - of - town were Mr. and Mrs. George Waalk, Ginger and Sandy of Houma, parents and sisters of the groom; Mrs. Erin Danford, Elba, Alabama, aunt of the bride; Tom Danford, Enterprise, Ala., cousin of the bride; Dewey Wood, Alexandria, her father; Miss Patricia Green of Bastrop and Miss LaNelle Davis of Minden.

Monroe Police Chief Cautions Local Drivers

"The most dangerous season of the year is now approaching for Twin City drivers, "Monroe Police Chief James C. Kelly said Saturday while calling for motoring caution and better driving habits.

Kelly made this statement with reference to the winter months when streets become slippery and icy, and traffic picks up momentum with the advent of fall and winter holidays.

"Monroe recorded its first traffic fatality of the year last Saturday night in the automobile death of Mrs. Milrene Ruple," the police chief pointed out. He said this was the city's first traffic fatalty since July 19, 1962, and that he hoped "This recent tragedy is not a prelude of things to come."

Kelly said that during the month of August, traffic accidents were on the climb. Motor vehicle accidents totaled 152 during the past month, with numerous injuries resulting from collisions.

The police chief stressed that the leading cause of traffic accidents in Monroe are rear end collisions. Forty of the 152 wrecks that occurred in August were the result of rear and collisions caused by following the preceding automobile too closely. He said that during winter months, the streets become even more slippery and dangerous with ice resulting in a quick jump in the number of rear end collisions.

Other common causes of accidents during August, including the tally of violations, were running stop signs, 29; running traffic red lights, 5; improper left turns, 18; backing, 12; sideswiping, 10; turning from the wrong lane, 2; pulling from a parked position, 2; and 34 from other traffic violations.

Kelly urged local drivers to drive at such a speed that they can stop suddenly if the need arises, and to exercise driving care during the upcoming rainy, bad seasons.

World's Largest Circus To Show Here Sept. 25

The Clyde Beatty - Cole Bros. Circus, billed as the world's largest, with its big top, menagerie, side shows, dining and shop tents, and 600 people, comes to Monroe Wednesday, Sept. 25, for afternoon and evening performances on the grounds adjacent to Bernstein Park, under the auspices of Knights of Columbus, Council 1337.

The host of performers, headed by Clyde Beatty and his huge and world - famous mixed group of performing lions and tigers, include Greta Frisk, sensational star of the flying trapeze; the breathtaking Huberto and his slide for life; the Jordan family, high wire performers with Carla Wallenda; the Flying Gaonas, renowned mid - air, somersaulting, tent - top trapezists; Gallasso, the man who stands on his forefinger, the Webbers, wire walkers; the six Frielanis, Scandanavian bicyclists; the Tito troupe, stars of the trampoline.

Performances will be given at 4 and 8 p.m., with doors open at 3 and 7 p.m.

Pope Plans To Revamp Vatican Curia

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said Saturday he intends to internationalize the entire Vatican-based administration of the Roman Catholic Church, eliminating through reforms "whatever is archaic or superfluous."

The pontiff announced his aims in an address to the very body that will get the overhauling—the Curia Romana, or Roman Court. Its 12 congregations, 3 tribunals and 6 special offices date from the Middle Ages.

Cardinals, archbishops, bishops and scores of monsignors make up the curia's 1,000-man staff. Most are Italians and most make a career of serving in the Vatican.

Pope Paul received the curia in special audience a week before the Vatican Ecumenical Council's second session begins. He praised the work and devotion of the curia. He also told its members:

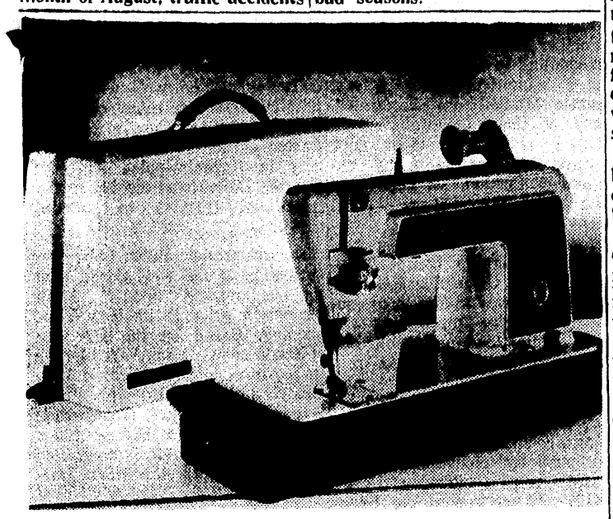

"Various reforms are needed. They certainly will be ponderous. They will be in line with venerable and reasonable traditions on one hand, and according to the needs of the times on the other hand.

"And they certainly will be functional and beneficial because they will have no other aim than to let fall whatever is archaic or superfluous in the forms and norms which regulate the Roman Curia and to put into being whatever is vital and healthy."

The pontiff said the curia itself would formulate and carry out the reforms. He did not detail what changes would be made.

The curia includes such bodies as the Vatican secretariat of state the tribunals that handle marriage and separation cases and congregations such as the Holy Office. The Holy Office, guardian of doctrine, began in the early 13th century as the Congregation of the Inquisition to fight heresy.

Reform of the curia, especially the addition of clerics from outside Italy, has been advocated in recent years by many bishops and theologians.

Cholera Kills 12 In Pusan Korea

PUSAN, South Korea (AP)—Twelve persons have died of cholera in this crowded port city, city public health officials announced Saturday.

A total of 89 persons have been stricken since Wednesday, the officials said.

Coffee Heiress Found Strangled After Argument

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The granddaughter of a founder of the Maxwell House Coffee Company was strangled by her wealthy doctor husband Friday night while the two were arguing about their children over a martini.

The body of Mrs. Patricia C. Newell, 35, clad in a green kimono, was found lying behind a bar in the Florida room of her fashionable, ranch-style home. The two martini glasses were nearby.

Newell is a radiology specialist at a local hospital. His wife was the granddaughter of Joel O. Cheek, founder of the Maxwell House Coffee Co.

Newell, who had divorced the auburn-haired beauty once and was preparing to do so again, told police his wife goaded him into the attack by accusing him of not loving their two children.

Monroe Police Chief Cautions Local Drivers

"The most dangerous season of the year is now approaching for Twin City drivers, "Monroe Police Chief James C. Kelly said Saturday while calling for motoring caution and better driving habits.

Kelly made this statement with reference to the winter months when streets become slippery and icy, and traffic picks up momentum with the advent of fall and winter holidays.

"Monroe recorded its first traffic fatality of the year last Saturday night in the automobile death of Mrs. Milrene Ruple," the police chief pointed out. He said this was the city's first traffic fatalty since July 19, 1962, and that he hoped "This recent tragedy is not a prelude of things to come."

Kelly said that during the month of August, traffic accidents were on the climb. Motor vehicle accidents totaled 152 during the past month, with numerous injuries resulting from collisions.

The police chief stressed that the leading cause of traffic accidents in Monroe are rear end collisions. Forty of the 152 wrecks that occurred in August were the result of rear and collisions caused by following the preceding automobile too closely. He said that during winter months, the streets become even more slippery and dangerous with ice resulting in a quick jump in the number of rear end collisions.

Other common causes of accidents during August, including the tally of violations, were running stop signs, 29; running traffic red lights, 5; improper left turns, 18; backing, 12; sideswiping, 10; turning from the wrong lane, 2; pulling from a parked position, 2; and 34 from other traffic violations.

Kelly urged local drivers to drive at such a speed that they can stop suddenly if the need arises, and to exercise driving care during the upcoming rainy, bad seasons.

World's Largest Circus To Show Here Sept. 25

The Clyde Beatty - Cole Bros. Circus, billed as the world's largest, with its big top, menagerie, side shows, dining and shop tents, and 600 people, comes to Monroe Wednesday, Sept. 25, for afternoon and evening performances on the grounds adjacent to Bernstein Park, under the auspices of Knights of Columbus, Council 1337.

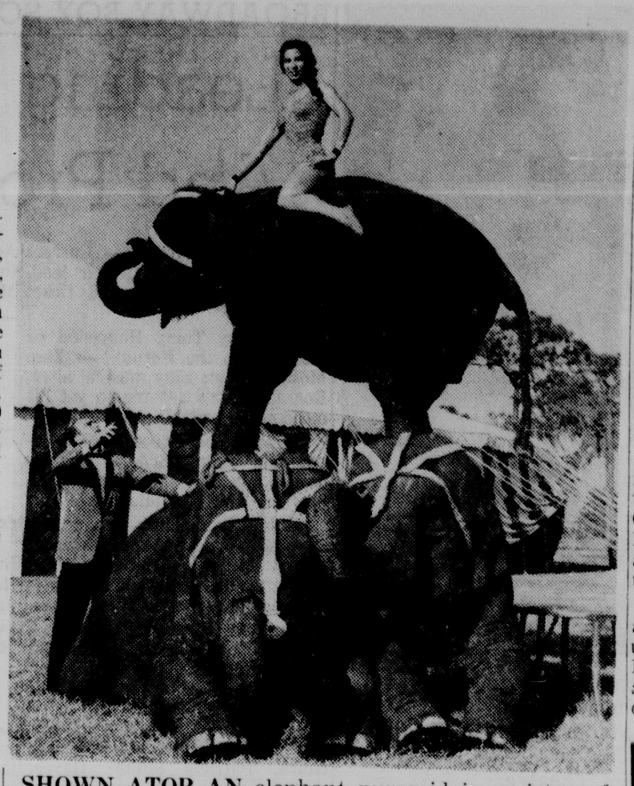

The combined circus carries 150 internationally - known arenic performers, 200 wild animals and three herds of performing elephants.

The host of performers, headed by Clyde Beatty and his huge and world - famous mixed group of performing lions and tigers, include Greta Frisk, sensational star of the flying trapeze; the breathtaking Huberto and his slide for life; the Jordan family, high wire performers with Carla Wallenda; the Flying Gaonas, renowned mid - air, somersaulting, tent - top trapezists; Gallasso, the man who stands on his forefinger, the Webbers, wire walkers; the six Frielanis, Scandanavian bicyclists; the Tito troupe, stars of the trampoline.

Performances will be given at 4 and 8 p.m., with doors open at 3 and 7 p.m.

Pope Plans To Revamp Vatican Curia

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said Saturday he intends to internationalize the entire Vatican-based administration of the Roman Catholic Church, eliminating through reforms "whatever is archaic or superfluous."

The pontiff announced his aims in an address to the very body that will get the overhauling—the Curia Romana, or Roman Court. Its 12 congregations, 3 tribunals and 6 special offices date from the Middle Ages.

Cardinals, archbishops, bishops and scores of monsignors make up the curia's 1,000-man staff. Most are Italians and most make a career of serving in the Vatican.

Pope Paul received the curia in special audience a week before the Vatican Ecumenical Council's second session begins. He praised the work and devotion of the curia. He also told its members:

"Various reforms are needed. They certainly will be ponderous. They will be in line with venerable and reasonable traditions on one hand, and according to the needs of the times on the other hand.

"And they certainly will be functional and beneficial because they will have no other aim than to let fall whatever is archaic or superfluous in the forms and norms which regulate the Roman Curia and to put into being whatever is vital and healthy."

The pontiff said the curia itself would formulate and carry out the reforms. He did not detail what changes would be made.

The curia includes such bodies as the Vatican secretariat of state the tribunals that handle marriage and separation cases and congregations such as the Holy Office. The Holy Office, guardian of doctrine, began in the early 13th century as the Congregation of the Inquisition to fight heresy.

Reform of the curia, especially the addition of clerics from outside Italy, has been advocated in recent years by many bishops and theologians.

Coffee Heiress Found Strangled After Argument

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The granddaughter of a founder of the Maxwell House Coffee Company was strangled by her wealthy doctor husband Friday night while the two were arguing about their children over a martini.

The body of Mrs. Patricia C. Newell, 35, clad in a green kimono, was found lying behind a bar in the Florida room of her fashionable, ranch-style home. The two martini glasses were nearby.

Her husband, Dr. Charles H. Newell, 36, was charged with murder and held without bond in county jail.

Newell is a radiology specialist at a local hospital. His wife was the granddaughter of Joel O. Cheek, founder of the Maxwell House Coffee Co.

Newell, who had divorced the auburn-haired beauty once and was preparing to do so again, told police his wife goaded him into the attack by accusing him of not loving their two children.

Cholera Kills 12 In Pusan Korea

PUSAN, South Korea (AP)— Twelve persons have died of cholera in this crowded port city, city public health officials announced Saturday.

A total of 89 persons have been stricken since Wednesday, the officials said.

It was the first cholera breakout in this area since 1946.

AS HANDSOME in appearance as it is loaded with new features, the new Singer Slant Needle Deluxe sewing machine signals the end of bobbin-winding. CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

DIFFERENT WAYS

This inspiration works in different ways. Sometimes a photograph or series of pictures is like a beam of light which illuminates a path for you to follow. The pictures show the road to perfection through imaginative, unusual camera angle and the right exposure to suit a specific mood.

At other times, photographic inspiration may be sparked out of fury or fustration. A picture shown as an example of one of the "world's finest photographs" is out of focus, blurred, excessively grainy or utterly incomprehensible.

CHALLENGE

"IF THAT is a good picture, fumes the viewer, "give me my camera and let me show those editors what a mountain tree or a guy clearing an ice rink really looks like. Maybe they'll discover ME!"

The 1964 Photography Annual has its quota of all types of inspirational material. Editor and publisher Bruce Downes points out: "The cult of sharpness is no more sacrosanct than the cult of grain and blue. Grain is an inherent characteristic of photographic emulsions and blurred images are legitimately produced by means of a controlled shutter. Every photograph in this annual is the result of legitimate photographic techniques."

Ah! This may be the clue which explains the difference between "creative" techniques which we see reproduced and exhibited and the mistakes which you and I shoot and toss away when we see the results. If our picture takers didn't abandon them so quickly but explained instead how we planned them that way, they too might be called "creative."

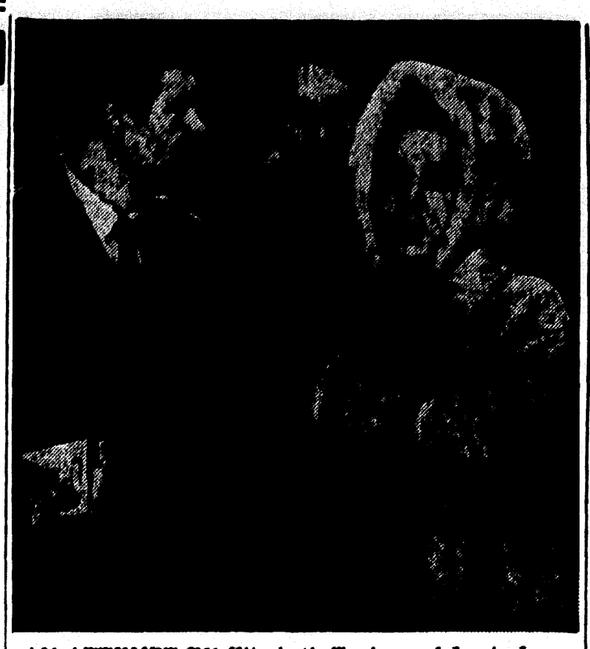

In this issue I particularly liked Ken Heyman's series of "Willie." This 4-year-old youngster's various moods and adventures were all photograped in Willie's little world of one block on Manhattan's lower West Side. Another bright spot was the portfolio of "Water Sporties" by Don Ornitz — a colorful collection of glamor in a splashy medium.

List among my frustrations the very grainy double-page spread of empty park benches and a lamp post. The title, "Snowstorm" didn't help. Maybe I would have liked it better with a more appropriate title like "Rainstorm."

LONDON SUCCESS

LONDON (AP) — The Rodgers - Hart musical hit of 25 years ago "The Boys from Syracuse" gets its first British production at the Drury Lane Nov. 7.

PAUL NEWMAN and Joanne Woodward team up again for the picture, "A New Kind of Love," which starts Wednesday at the Paramount Theatre. Also in the Technicolor production are Thelma Ritter, Eva Gabor and Maurice Chevallier.

Stamp News

Switzerland long has been known as a calm and peaceful nation, but this does not bely the fact that this is a land of energetic and resourceful individuals. This can be noted in the latest set of Swiss stamps devoted to "EXPO" which promotes the Swiss National Exposition to be held in Lausanne from April 30 until Oct. 25, 1964, reports the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America.

The exposition emblem is a stylized Swiss Cross joined to the letter "E." The motto is "Switzerland on the threshold of a new era." This design appears on the 10 centimes and 20 centimes stamps. The 50 c. and 75 c. indicate that Switzerland's new era will be realized through knowledge. The 50c. shows the top of the earth and a view of the moon. The 75 c. depicts an illuminated view of the earth. In both of these designs the "EXPO" is

The 10 c. is green and olive; the 20 c. is red and brown; the 50 c. is blue-gray and red; and the 75 c. is violet-gray and red.

Equador has issued a two value set of identical design to commemorate the Pan-American and South American Congress of Pediatrics. The design features a mother and child. A special cancellation has been prepared showing a child cupped in a pair of hands.

Greenland has issued a new Polar Bear series to replace its current set. The new stamps will be in denominations of 1, 2, 5 and 10 krona. The date of issuance (Sept. 17) was chosen because it was on that day 25 years ago that the Greenland Post Office was given official status. The stamps were designed by the Danish artist Viggo Bang.

On The House

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Housing for the elderly continues to occupy the attention of a sizable segment of Congress. Entirely aside from the genuine concern for the welfare of those who are getting along in years is the knowledge that the number of voters in the "senior citizens" category keeps increasing every year.

One proposal that keeps popping up in the House Ways and Means Committee would exempt persons over 65 years of age from paying capital gains taxes on the selling of their homes. Certain conditions would be attached, but the large majority of home owners in that age area would be affected.

SUPPORTING

Among those supporting the program are certain builders, who have been saying for years that the capital gains tax keeps many older persons from selling their homes and moving to retirement apartments. This type of retirement housing has been popular with some old folks who want to be relieved of the responsibility of owning their own homes and like the idea of taking it easy and letting someone else do the chores. The large numbers of persons who keep purchasing one - family homes in their retirement years make it apparent that there is a strong opposite viewpoint.

A comparative newcomer in the retirement housing field is the cooperative apartment which has had considerable success in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and several other cities. One of the selling points is that the participant in a cooperative apartment house gets most of the tax advantages of a home owner.

Entertainment

CURTAIN CALL

Additions to the cast of "Auntie Mame," have been made known by executive director Richard M. Clark. Doretha Doyle will be seen as Norah, Kay Harris as Gloria, Gale Shoudy as Pegeen, Sue Brooks as Sally Cato, Jackie Beigenwald and John Goorley as Mr. and Mrs. Upson, Walter Kotz as Lindsey Woolsey, Mike Parkerson as Patrick Dennis as a young man, Willoughby Thomas as O'Bannion and Bob Evans as Mr. Babcock.

Further announcements will be forthcoming to complete the large cast. Aside from 30 actors, "Auntie Mame" has 22 scenes, many of them elaborate, while Mame alone requires 15 or more costume changes in many extremes of fashion. As befits our 150th show, this will be a real extravaganza.

MEMBER DRIVE

The membership campaign is in high gear. Colorful posters designed by Dewayne May are placed prominently throughout the area. Applications and checks are pouring in to Box 868 in response to the brochure.

Last Wednesday noon, membership vice president Mary Lee Milam, co-chairman Jackie Woods and publicity chairman Lallage Feazel were interviewed on KMLB's "Luncheon at the Frances" program. All three made a most effective appeal on behalf of Little Theatre membership. Mary Lee and Jackie had spent the morning at Northeast State College soliciting student memberships. The trio were joined at luncheon by director Myrtle Carter and past president Frances McHenry.

Student membership chairman Mary Ellen Walker organized a group of interested students to carry on the campaign during the registration period at Northeast with good results. With the nominal membership and admission charges for this category, Little Theatre ought to have 1,000 students members from Northeast and the high schools.

The patron membership total is now within about 20 of last year, encouraging indeed, but those 20 are still needed to go over the top. Jackie Woods urges that all patron memberships be turned into her or to Box 868 as promptly as possible.

RAPID RISE

Sustaining memberships are rising rapidly with the returns from the brochure. With the tremendous program on tap for the coming season, no one will want to miss a single show and the $7.50 sustaining membership is the money-saving way to gain admission to all five. So please clip the application blank from the brochure and return it with your check without delay.

At the board meeting at Miss Lallage Feazel's home last Tuesday evening, Craig Morgan was elected a director for Karen White's unexpired term. Karen's resignation was accepted with deep regret and with warm appreciation for her many contributions to Little Theatre. Myrtle Carter agreed to serve as secretary in Karen's palce and Dr. Charles DePoe was elected to the board of trustees to succeed Craig.

Board member Julius Cahn, vacationing on the west coast, saw the new musical "Zenda" in San Francisco prior to its New York opening. Based on the Prisoner of Zenda story. It has Alfred Drake in the dual roles of Richard Rassendyl and King Rudolph. "Bye Bye Birdie" and "West Side Story" star Chita Rivera plays Athena, while Flavia is portrayed by Anne Rogers, the Eliza Doolittle of the "My Fair Lady" road company.

Ah! This may be the clue which explains the difference between "creative" techniques which we see reproduced and exhibited and the mistakes which you and I shoot and toss away when we see the results. If our picture takers didn't abandon them so quickly but explained instead how we planned them that way, they too might be called "creative."

In this issue I particularly liked Ken Heyman's series of "Willie." This 4-year-old youngster's various moods and adventures were all photograped in Willie's little world of one block on Manhattan's lower West Side. Another bright spot was the portfolio of "Water Sporties" by Don Ornitz — a colorful collection of glamor in a splashy medium.

List among my frustrations the very grainy double-page spread of empty park benches and a lamp post. The title, "Snowstorm" didn't help. Maybe I would have liked it better with a more appropriate title like "Rainstorm."

LONDON SUCCESS

LONDON (AP) — The Rodgers - Hart musical hit of 25 years ago "The Boys from Syracuse" gets its first British production at the Drury Lane Nov. 7.

PAUL NEWMAN and Joanne Woodward team up again for the picture, "A New Kind of Love," which starts Wednesday at the Paramount Theatre. Also in the Technicolor production are Thelma Ritter, Eva Gabor and Maurice Chevallier.

Stamp News

Switzerland long has been known as a calm and peaceful nation, but this does not bely the fact that this is a land of energetic and resourceful individuals. This can be noted in the latest set of Swiss stamps devoted to "EXPO" which promotes the Swiss National Exposition to be held in Lausanne from April 30 until Oct. 25, 1964, reports the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America.

The exposition emblem is a stylized Swiss Cross joined to the letter "E." The motto is "Switzerland on the threshold of a new era." This design appears on the 10 centimes and 20 centimes stamps. The 50 c. and 75 c. indicate that Switzerland's new era will be realized through knowledge. The 50c. shows the top of the earth and a view of the moon. The 75 c. depicts an illuminated view of the earth. In both of these designs the "EXPO" is superimposed on the earth.

The 10 c. is green and olive; the 20 c. is red and brown; the 50 c. is blue-gray and red; and the 75 c. is violet-gray and red.

Equador has issued a two value set of identical design to commemorate the Pan-American and South American Congress of Pediatrics. The design features a mother and child. A special cancellation has been prepared showing a child cupped in a pair of hands.

Greenland has issued a new Polar Bear series to replace its current set. The new stamps will be in denominations of 1, 2, 5 and 10 krona. The date of issuance (Sept. 17) was chosen because it was on that day 25 years ago that the Greenland Post Office was given official status. The stamps were designed by the Danish artist Viggo Bang.

On The House

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Housing for the elderly continues to occupy the attention of a sizable segment of Congress. Entirely aside from the genuine concern for the welfare of those who are getting along in years is the knowledge that the number of voters in the "senior citizens" category keeps increasing every year.

One proposal that keeps popping up in the House Ways and Means Committee would exempt persons over 65 years of age from paying capital gains taxes on the selling of their homes. Certain conditions would be attached, but the large majority of home owners in that age area would be affected.

SUPPORTING

Among those supporting the program are certain builders, who have been saying for years that the capital gains tax keeps many older persons from selling their homes and moving to retirement apartments. This type of retirement housing has been popular with some old folks who want to be relieved of the responsibility of owning their own homes and like the idea of taking it easy and letting someone else do the chores. The large numbers of persons who keep purchasing one - family homes in their retirement years make it apparent that there is a strong opposite viewpoint.

A comparative newcomer in the retirement housing field is the cooperative apartment which has had considerable success in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and several other cities. One of the selling points is that the participant in a cooperative apartment house gets most of the tax advantages of a home owner.

Entertainment

CURTAIN CALL

Additions to the cast of "Auntie Mame," have been made known by executive director Richard M. Clark. Doretha Doyle will be seen as Norah, Kay Harris as Gloria, Gale Shoudy as Pegeen, Sue Brooks as Sally Cato, Jackie Beigenwald and John Goorley as Mr. and Mrs. Upson, Walter Kotz as Lindsey Woolsey, Mike Parkerson as Patrick Dennis as a young man, Willoughby Thomas as O'Bannion and Bob Evans as Mr. Babcock.

Further announcements will be forthcoming to complete the large cast. Aside from 30 actors, "Auntie Mame" has 22 scenes, many of them elaborate, while Mame alone requires 15 or more costume changes in many extremes of fashion. As befits our 150th show, this will be a real extravaganza.

MEMBER DRIVE

The membership campaign is in high gear. Colorful posters designed by Dewayne May are placed prominently throughout the area. Applications and checks are pouring in to Box 868 in response to the brochure.

Last Wednesday noon, membership vice president Mary Lee Milam, co-chairman Jackie Woods and publicity chairman Lallage Feazel were interviewed on KMLB's "Luncheon at the Frances" program. All three made a most effective appeal on behalf of Little Theatre membership. Mary Lee and Jackie had spent the morning at Northeast State College soliciting student memberships. The trio were joined at luncheon by director Myrtle Carter and past president Frances McHenry.

Student membership chairman Mary Ellen Walker organized a group of interested students to carry on the campaign during the registration period at Northeast with good results. With the nominal membership and admission charges for this category, Little Theatre ought to have 1,000 students members from Northeast and the high schools.

The patron membership total is now within about 20 of last year, encouraging indeed, but those 20 are still needed to go over the top. Jackie Woods urges that all patron memberships be turned into her or to Box 868 as promptly as possible.

RAPID RISE

Sustaining memberships are rising rapidly with the returns from the brochure. With the tremendous program on tap for the coming season, no one will want to miss a single show and the $7.50 sustaining membership is the money-saving way to gain admission to all five. So please clip the application blank from the brochure and return it with your check without delay.

At the board meeting at Miss Lallage Feazel's home last Tuesday evening, Craig Morgan was elected a director for Karen White's unexpired term. Karen's resignation was accepted with deep regret and with warm appreciation for her many contributions to Little Theatre. Myrtle Carter agreed to serve as secretary in Karen's palce and Dr. Charles DePoe was elected to the board of trustees to succeed Craig.

Board member Julius Cahn, vacationing on the west coast, saw the new musical "Zenda" in San Francisco prior to its New York opening. Based on the Prisoner of Zenda story. It has Alfred Drake in the dual roles of Richard Rassendyl and King Rudolph. "Bye Bye Birdie" and "West Side Story" star Chita Rivera plays Athena, while Flavia is portrayed by Anne Rogers, the Eliza Doolittle of the "My Fair Lady" road company.

THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK

The Other FHA Could Put You In This Type Of House

COUNTRY GENTLEMAN: This handsome three-bedroom ranch is of the type for which eligible applicants can obtain a mortgage loan directly from the federal government at 4 per cent interest. The exterior features wood shingles and stone facing, a covered porch, and attractive small-paneled living room windows.

FLOOR PLAN: Living area is 1,251 square feet. Note how every inch is used to maximum advantage; the abundance of closets; and the well-planned kitchen. If no basement is desired, heater and furnace would occupy space shown for basement stairs.

By JULES LOH

There's another FHA in Washington, the Farmers Home Administration, whose aim is to help families have a home like today's House of the Week — persons who otherwise might never have the satisfaction of owning their own homes.

Unlike the better known FHA (Federal Housing Administration) which guarantees a private lender that you will pay off your mortgage, the Farmers Home Administration also can make a housing loan directly to you at the uncommonly low intesest rate of 4 per cent. During the last fiscal year the little known agency placed $796 million in loans, both those it made directly and those it insured.

Today's house, a delightful three - bedroom ranch designed by architect Lester Cohen, is typical of the type for which Farmers Home makes direct loans to eligible buyers. It is design J-94 in the weekly series.

The agency makes both farm and non - farm loans: the recipient simply must live in a rural community of 2,500 persons or less. He also must be someone who can't obtain credit from conventional sources at prevailing rates in the community. According to Howard Bertsch, the agency's administrator, its purpose is "to supplement and not supplant other credit." Last year about half the agency's loans went to non-farmers.

Though private lenders presumably conclude Farmers Home borrowers are questionable risks the agency has had great success trusting in the honesty and industriousness of rural Americans. Last year it foreclosed only six mortgages of 18,285 issued.

Loans average about $15,000 and the agency endeavors to limit them to homes of not more than 1,400 square feet. Today's house contains only 1,251 square feet. The space is so expertly arranged that every inch is used to its fullest, and Architect Cohen was able to include some "large house" type features. It's overall dimensions are a tidy 57'6" wide by 31' deep.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

Architect Cohen worked with Farmers Home officials in designing this house and consulted plans submitted to him by the agency. "They were very nice," said Cohen, "but we think this house is better than any they showed us — better looking and better arranged."

The house plainly would grace any neighborhood, rural or urban, and also would enhance a farm. Wood shingles and stone facing are used in the front. The covered porch and small - paned living room windows are nice accents.

If the owner wants to economize further or simply doesn't need a basement, the house can be built without one. In this case the furnace and water heater would occupy the space shown for the basement stair well.

Typical of the way Cohen has fitted luxury features into the limited space is the arrangement of the lavatory adjoining the master bedroom. He has stolen some of the less valuable front porch area, leaving the bedroom with its full 15' by 11' dimensions

The architect made use of standard lumber lengths and took other economy measures to save enough cost so he could include such other fine features as a living room fireplace, an abundance of large closets, and a well designed dual bath accessible both from the family room and the bedroom area.

Though the house doesn't have a separate foyer — space is just too precious for that sort of thing —Cohen has located the front door so that visitors don't barge right into the living room. A neat railing gives the effect of a foyer, and what would be foyer space is used to extend the area of the already large living room.

Any housewife would be pleased with the kitchen in this house. The work area is designed to save steps, provide plenty of counter and cabinet space, and to keep curious husbands and children from underfoot while mama does the cooking. Note also that there is room for both a freezer and a refrigerator, and that a window over the sink permits excellent supervision of the backyard.

In short, this is a superb home either for a small city lot or the wide open spaces of a farm, and it's available both to those who can borrow from a lending agency and — through the Farmers Home Administration — perhaps also those who can't.

A three - member local county committee of the Farmers Home agency determines eligiblity of applicants. If you can't locate the office in your area, write to the Farmers Home Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La. and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan J-94.

Munich Begins 16-Day Spree

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — The simultaneous firing of 12 cannons Saturday signaled the start of Munich's 130th October festival, the Bavarian capital's annual 16-day binge devoted to beer and sausage.

While the cannons' echo rumbled over the festival site, Munich's huge meadows, former Mayor Thomas Wimmer opened a huge barrel of beer to the cheers of thousands gathered for a holiday that traditionally starts in September but is dedicated to the end of the harvest in October.

Festival officials have 7.5 million gallons of beer on hand and thousands of pounds of sausage for the five million visitors they expect from throughout the world. Hotels and rooming houses have been sold out for months.

Children Buying Savings Stamps Get Certificate

Children buying their first U.S. Savings Stamps of the school year will be given a free certificate signed by the seven Mercury astronauts, designating them as "Junior Astronauts," according to William H. Neal, National Director of the U.S. Savings Bonds Division.

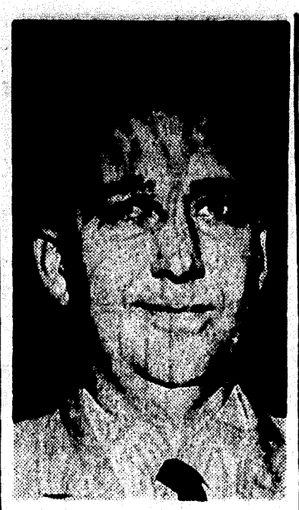

Monroe postmaster Woodrow W. Hathorn received a letter to this effect from Neal, which also commended the local office for its successful efforts in promoting the sale of Savings Stamps.

These certificates are now available at the Monroe Post Office.

In endorsing the program, Postmaster Hathorn said, "Selling Savings Stamps through the schools and over-the-counter to the public is a part of the Post Office Department's services of which we are particularly proud. The Treasury - sponsored School Savings Program not only promotes practical thrift but also acquaints our young people with their government and their duties and privileges as American citizens.

Savings Stamps in 10, 25 and 50 cents, $1, and $5 sizes are on sale at the post office at all times, as well as on Stamp Day in schools.

DAN BOWKER, above, is the new manager of Gulfco Finance Co. of West Monroe, 309 Natchitoches. He comes here from Shreveport and has had more than eight years in the personal finance business. He is a native of Pine Bluff. His wife and five children will arrive soon to make their home in West Monroe.

State Licenses Local Baptist Children's Home

Monroe's Louisiana Baptist Children's Home has been granted a one - year license as a child care institution by the Louisiana State Department of Public Welfare.

Miss Jean L. Bonham, Child Welfare Consultant of the state department, recommended the license after submitting a 35-page report based on her study of the institution.

"We are delighted to have the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home on our licensing program again and to learn of progress and plans for the future," said Mrs. Mary Evelyn Parker, state commissioner of public welfare, as she notified local authorities of the grant.

The home, located on a roomy lot on DeSiard Road since 1925, is licensed to care for 150 dependent and neglected children. These children are taken from all over the state.

Briton Receives Tippling Pass

STOKE-ON-TRENT, England (AP)—Harry Myatt got a life time pass Saturday to more than 100 saloons entitling him to all the free beer he can drink.

The pass was a token of appreciation for his 70 years of service with a brewery. He is 82.

Harry says he usually knocks off half a dozen glasses of beer per pub visit. "A wonderful present," he called the free pass.

THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK

The Other FHA Could Put You In This Type Of House

COUNTRY GENTLEMAN: This handsome three-bedroom ranch is of the type for which eligible applicants can obtain a mortgage loan directly from the federal government at 4 per cent interest. The exterior features wood shingles and stone facing, a covered porch, and attractive small-paneled living room windows.

FLOOR PLAN: Living area is 1,251 square feet. Note how every inch is used to maximum advantage; the abundance of closets; and the well-planned kitchen. If no basement is desired, heater and furnace would occupy space shown for basement stairs.

By JULES LOH

There's another FHA in Washington, the Farmers Home Administration, whose aim is to help families have a home like today's House of the Week — persons who otherwise might never have the satisfaction of owning their own homes.

Unlike the better known FHA (Federal Housing Administration) which guarantees a private lender that you will pay off your mortgage, the Farmers Home Administration also can make a housing loan directly to you at the uncommonly low intesest rate of 4 per cent. During the last fiscal year the little known agency placed $796 million in loans, both those it made directly and those it insured.

Today's house, a delightful three - bedroom ranch designed by architect Lester Cohen, is typical of the type for which Farmers Home makes direct loans to eligible buyers. It is design J-94 in the weekly series.

The agency makes both farm and non - farm loans: the recipient simply must live in a rural community of 2,500 persons or less. He also must be someone who can't obtain credit from conventional sources at prevailing rates in the community. According to Howard Bertsch, the agency's administrator, its purpose is "to supplement and not supplant other credit." Last year about half the agency's loans went to non-farmers.

Though private lenders presumably conclude Farmers Home borrowers are questionable risks the agency has had great success trusting in the honesty and industriousness of rural Americans. Last year it foreclosed only six mortgages of 18,285 issued.

Loans average about $15,000 and the agency endeavors to limit them to homes of not more than 1,400 square feet. Today's house contains only 1,251 square feet. The space is so expertly arranged that every inch is used to its fullest, and Architect Cohen was able to include some "large house" type features. It's overall dimensions are a tidy 57'6" wide by 31' deep.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

Architect Cohen worked with Farmers Home officials in designing this house and consulted plans submitted to him by the agency. "They were very nice," said Cohen, "but we think this house is better than any they showed us — better looking and better arranged."

The house plainly would grace any neighborhood, rural or urban, and also would enhance a farm. Wood shingles and stone facing are used in the front. The covered porch and small - paned living room windows are nice accents.

If the owner wants to economize further or simply doesn't need a basement, the house can be built without one. In this case the furnace and water heater would occupy the space shown for the basement stair well.

Typical of the way Cohen has fitted luxury features into the limited space is the arrangement of the lavatory adjoining the master bedroom. He has stolen some of the less valuable front porch area, leaving the bedroom with its full 15' by 11' dimensions

The architect made use of standard lumber lengths and took other economy measures to save enough cost so he could include such other fine features as a living room fireplace, an abundance of large closets, and a well designed dual bath accessible both from the family room and the bedroom area.

Though the house doesn't have a separate foyer — space is just too precious for that sort of thing —Cohen has located the front door so that visitors don't barge right into the living room. A neat railing gives the effect of a foyer, and what would be foyer space is used to extend the area of the already large living room.

Any housewife would be pleased with the kitchen in this house. The work area is designed to save steps, provide plenty of counter and cabinet space, and to keep curious husbands and children from underfoot while mama does the cooking. Note also that there is room for both a freezer and a refrigerator, and that a window over the sink permits excellent supervision of the backyard.

In short, this is a superb home either for a small city lot or the wide open spaces of a farm, and it's available both to those who can borrow from a lending agency and — through the Farmers Home Administration — perhaps also those who can't.

A three - member local county committee of the Farmers Home agency determines eligiblity of applicants. If you can't locate the office in your area, write to the Farmers Home Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La. and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan J-94.

Munich Begins 16-Day Spree

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — The simultaneous firing of 12 cannons Saturday signaled the start of Munich's 130th October festival, the Bavarian capital's annual 16-day binge devoted to beer and sausage.

While the cannons' echo rumbled over the festival site, Munich's huge meadows, former Mayor Thomas Wimmer opened a huge barrel of beer to the cheers of thousands gathered for a holiday that traditionally starts in September but is dedicated to the end of the harvest in October.

Festival officials have 7.5 million gallons of beer on hand and thousands of pounds of sausage for the five million visitors they expect from throughout the world. Hotels and rooming houses have been sold out for months.

Children Buying Savings Stamps Get Certificate

Children buying their first U.S. Savings Stamps of the school year will be given a free certificate signed by the seven Mercury astronauts, designating them as "Junior Astronauts," according to William H. Neal, National Director of the U.S. Savings Bonds Division.

Monroe postmaster Woodrow W. Hathorn received a letter to this effect from Neal, which also commended the local office for its successful efforts in promoting the sale of Savings Stamps.

These certificates are now available at the Monroe Post Office.

In endorsing the program, Postmaster Hathorn said, "Selling Savings Stamps through the schools and over-the-counter to the public is a part of the Post Office Department's services of which we are particularly proud. The Treasury - sponsored School Savings Program not only promotes practical thrift but also acquaints our young people with their government and their duties and privileges as American citizens.

"I know of no finer way to build for a better tomorrow than by training our youth of today in the thrift."

Savings Stamps in 10, 25 and 50 cents, $1, and $5 sizes are on sale at the post office at all times, as well as on Stamp Day in schools.

DAN BOWKER, above, is the new manager of Gulfco Finance Co. of West Monroe, 309 Natchitoches. He comes here from Shreveport and has had more than eight years in the personal finance business. He is a native of Pine Bluff. His wife and five children will arrive soon to make their home in West Monroe.

State Licenses Local Baptist Children's Home

Monroe's Louisiana Baptist Children's Home has been granted a one - year license as a child care institution by the Louisiana State Department of Public Welfare.

Miss Jean L. Bonham, Child Welfare Consultant of the state department, recommended the license after submitting a 35-page report based on her study of the institution.

"We are delighted to have the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home on our licensing program again and to learn of progress and plans for the future," said Mrs. Mary Evelyn Parker, state commissioner of public welfare, as she notified local authorities of the grant.

The home, located on a roomy lot on DeSiard Road since 1925, is licensed to care for 150 dependent and neglected children. These children are taken from all over the state.

Briton Receives Tippling Pass

STOKE-ON-TRENT, England (AP)—Harry Myatt got a life time pass Saturday to more than 100 saloons entitling him to all the free beer he can drink.

The pass was a token of appreciation for his 70 years of service with a brewery. He is 82.

Harry says he usually knocks off half a dozen glasses of beer per pub visit. "A wonderful present," he called the free pass.

103 PINEWAY DRIVE

In A Nature Blessed Location!

Picturesque, high, well-drained land . . . "chock full" of beautiful trees! And that's just the beginning — for this is a restricted area where pride of ownership is evident, where home-value will never decrease! And for an extra bonus, it's convenient to schools, churches, shopping!

OTHER TREE-COVERED HOMESITES
In Norris Pinecrest Subdivision, W.M. and in Sherwood Forest, W.M. Some homes ready for occupancy, or we will build for you.

ATTENTION RESIDENTS OF BASTROP, JONESBORO, RUSTON
Similar homes in beautiful subdivisions are available in your area — contact our representatives at your local Butler Real Estate Co. office. We will build this home for you or to your specifications. P. S. — If you're moving from one town to another, we take trade-ins and will build your home in your new location.

A Lovely Brick Home

You will at first glance be impressed with this brick home on its large tree-studded lot! And you'll be equally impressed with the interior design, the quality materials and construction! From the large foyer, enter the large living room with dining area, then to the warm birch paneled kitchen-family room with built-in oven and range, eat-on snack bar, built-in bookcases, and double sliding glass doors to the patio. There are 3 large bedrooms with bi-fold closet doors, and 2 full ceramic tile baths, one with dressing table. To complete the picture, there is central air conditioning and heating for year 'round weather control, double carport, and storage.

103 PINEWAY DRIVE

In A Nature Blessed Location!

Picturesque, high, well-drained land . . . "chock full" of beautiful trees! And that's just the beginning — for this is a restricted area where pride of ownership is evident, where home-value will never decrease! And for an extra bonus, it's convenient to schools, churches, shopping!

OTHER TREE-COVERED HOMESITES
In Norris Pinecrest Subdivision, W.M. and in Sherwood Forest, W.M. Some homes ready for occupancy, or we will build for you.

ATTENTION RESIDENTS OF BASTROP, JONESBORO, RUSTON
Similar homes in beautiful subdivisions are available in your area — contact our representatives at your local Butler Real Estate Co. office. We will build this home for you or to your specifications. P. S. — If you're moving from one town to another, we take trade-ins and will build your home in your new location.

A Lovely Brick Home

You will at first glance be impressed with this brick home on its large tree-studded lot! And you'll be equally impressed with the interior design, the quality materials and construction! From the large foyer, enter the large living room with dining area, then to the warm birch paneled kitchen-family room with built-in oven and range, eat-on snack bar, built-in bookcases, and double sliding glass doors to the patio. There are 3 large bedrooms with bi-fold closet doors, and 2 full ceramic tile baths, one with dressing table. To complete the picture, there is central air conditioning and heating for year 'round weather control, double carport, and storage.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
Don't really laugh at this one until you try it, but when sliding these new nylon and dacron curtains over an oval metal curtain rod, did you know if you will take an ordinary table knife and put the blade into the metal point . . . thus leaving the handle out, that the thin curtains will slip right onto the rod without a snag?

Mrs. Wallace Brown

I have tried the tip of a glove, tapering it, and all other means, but this is the best yet!

Love,
Heloise

SUMMER SPOTS

DEAR HELOISE:
After using cornstarch as you suggested to take the grease out of my carpet I also found it works exceptionally well on cotton dresses. I used it on two dresses this week and it removed the spots beautifully!

Jean Kling

* * *

Just apply dry cornstarch to the spot, leave overnight and vacuum off next morning.

Heloise

NEAT AND TIDY

DEAR HELOISE:
Buy a very large towel rack and install it behind your bedroom door to drape your spread over each night. This keeps the spread neat and it requires no effort when pulling it off in the morning. It also saves storage space as well as energy.

When the plastic pockets of my baby's bassinette became torn, I made new pockets out of a worn bath towel! Just fold the towel lengthwise in thirds like a fan and stitch down both ends and at intervals along the middle and in between, so that you can have individual pockets the size you desire. This cover slips on and off the back of the rung of the bassinette and can be quickly removed for washing in your machine.

Linda Sherr

USE YOUR VACUUM

DEAR HELOISE:
I use my vacuum cleaner with its small nozzle attachment to keep the kitchen hardware and silverware drawers free of crumbs, etc., in between the general cleaning job.

And you don't have to remove all the silverware. Saves time.

Avis

FLOUR-Y ADVICE

DEAR HELOISE!
I use a plastic ice-cream box filled with flour to flour my meats. The mixture can be left in the box and put in the refrigerator, and it is always ready when you use it next time.

I sure like this better than using a paper bag that breaks and spills flour all over my floor . . . and if you use tongs your fingers do not get soiled, either.

Dolly

TRAVELING CASES

DEAR HELOISE:
For anyone who has a traveling vanity case, I wonder if they are aware that it makes an excellent sewing box? With pins, in removable trays, the mending articles can go underneath!

Marion Hamilton

PURE CORN

DEAR HELOISE:
My husband loves to pop corn. I buy it by the bag and pour the corn into glass jars, add some cooking oil, cap the jar and store it. Just measure out as much as your corn popper calls for, cover it and pop away . . .

Every grain pops. Of course if the weather is warm, I store this in the refrigerator.

C. A. Gumbelson

* * *

Have you ever tried adding garlic salt or onion salt to the unpopped corn before pouring the oil in? My friends just love it.

Heloise

RIBBON WINDUP

DEAR HELOISE:
I save the ribbons I receive from gifts by wrapping them around the empty cardboard tubes from wax paper and toweling, and securing them with straight pins pushed directly into the tube. This is very neat and handy.

Mrs. Howard Reeve, Jr.

FILTER TRAPS

DEAR HELOISE:
I have found that a toothbrush is very helpful when used to clean out the filter traps of my washer and dryer. This little brush can get into places that I couldn't possibly clean before.

Connie Ziehr

CLEANSER TENDER

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's a hint to pass along . . .

When you buy a new can of cleanser or copper cleaner, etc., remove the square piece of sticky paper that covers the four holes and stick it back on top of the can, leaving only two holes open.

Donna B.

PANCAKE PAT

DEAR HELOISE
When cooking hot cakes . . . I put a pat of butter on each hot cake after I turn it over in the pan.

How I wish they would do this in restaurants. They wait until they have all orders ready before serving, and more often than not they are too cool to melt the butter by the time your hot cakes are served.

Mrs. James Randolph

BY THE SEASIDE

DEAR HELOISE:
An old sheet (not contour) makes an excellent beach blanket. They are easy to wash, do not retain the sand such as an ordinary blanket, and are very comfortable.

Mrs. J. G. Hamilton

A WAY WITH KEYS

DEAR HELOISE:
To mark car or door keys to identify them in the dark (yes, fingernail polish does a pretty good job of identification when used in the daylight), I file out a "v" in the straight back edge or top of the keys. I use one "V" for the door key and two "V's" for other locks, etc.

Ted Brooks

* * *
